Today's Roundup

By MALCOLM EPLEY

NEXT special levy vote slated here for re-financing of post-war construction and rehabilitation will be held Monday. At that time patrons of the Klamath Union high school district will determine the fate of a proposed levy to raise $60,000 a year for five years for this purpose.

EPLEY

KUHS district is in a peculiarly satisfactory situation, in that this levy will not actually increase district taxes over their present levels. That is because the district's bonded debt is now reaching its final stages, and it will no longer be necessary to levy $60,000 a year for bonded debt. By maintaining the taxation for that amount for another five years, the district can build a tidy reserve.

It is pleasant, after paying an old debt for many years, to reach the place where money can be laid away for future needs.

Needs Outlined

WE have asked Superintendent Arnold Grampp of the school system here to outline for us the principal needs which will be met by the money which this levy, if passed, will raise.

His answer, summed up, was that the major projects ahead are:

1. Vocational training expansion, meeting practical educational needs in an industrialized and agricultural community.
2. Development and changes in the physical education plant, especially in the Modoc field area.
3. Building changes or construction that will bring about a satisfactory auditorium for both school and community use. (The present auditorium cannot accommodate the entire student body at one time.)
4. Revamping and modernization of the lighting system at the high school plant.
5. Installation of an adequate intercommunication and public address system.

Sound Scheme

THESE are projects which will undoubtedly come up in the operation and development of the fine secondary educational system here, regardless of the adoption of the special levy Monday. Their pre-financing by the levy method is in keeping with the general trend in Oregon and here, as indicated in this week's voting in a number of districts.

The $60,000 five-year levy was approved by the budget committee and the school board, and was endorsed by the chamber of commerce directors.

News Behind the News

WASHINGTON, June 22—The planned vacation of congress is ostensibly to enable the republicans and democrats to attend their respective conventions. But the private understanding is that not much business will be attempted before August 1.

It seems the house members have been worried by the undetected inner political activities of the Hillman-CIO group and insist on getting back home, not only for fence mending, but to find who has been digging holes under their fences.

MALLON of Oregon, and

BEARDWOOD TELLS OF TOUGH CAMPAIGN

SEATTLE, June 22 (AP)—Captain Jack Beardwood, former Tacoma and Seattle Associated Press editor who himself wears the Silver Star for gallantry, returned home yesterday with the firmly expressed opinion that "Every damn soldier in Italy ought to have a medal."

Beardwood, a former aide to Lt. Gen. Mark Clark, telling of the toughness of the Italian campaign, asserted he did not believe Americans really knew how mountainous the Italian battlefronts are.

He added that the third division "which is full of Pacific northwest men, has been really terrific."

Captain Beardwood said he won his medal for being "in the wrong place at the right time."

His citation shows that at Salerno he went 700 yards under direct fire from four German tanks to put his radio set at the command of a detachment which had been cut off from other sources and had been unable to direct artillery support.

A Gem of Thought From Idella's

There was a young fellow named Bunn Who went to his lawyer on the run; He cried, "Annul my divorce as quick as you can, I got the low-down on my wife's old man— He had NO license to carry that gun!"

AT IDELLA'S What a Gal!

Clark, of Idaho, although they are less worried about CIO.

These are the real reasons for the long recess.

Criticism no doubt will now pour down upon these furrowed legislative brows because they are abandoning the urgency of peacetime reconversion planning. The criticism will be superficially valid, because they are leaving behind at least one reconversion bill, although the truth is the bill could not be passed if they stayed. Too much controversy envelops it.

Urgent Need

THE urgent need of some more creative action is increasing daily. The problem is here now though the solution is still absent. All tabs on business show the peak of production and employment was passed six months ago and declines averaging about 3 per cent are evident in all lines.

True, a happier outlook for post-war at home is beginning to be evident behind the news. The stock market always, until now, has sighed and sagged at the prospects of victory. The final grand assault, however, sent it firmly up.

Even the old arch-pessimist Joseph P. Kennedy, business seer extraordinary, made a speech in Chicago holding out hopes he formerly disdained.

The problem is simple. There is $200,000,000,000 of cash in banks and savings bonds. People are short of everything and can use this money to buy.

To sustain a satisfactory and successful nation we must have a national income for the people 15 to 25 per cent below current war expenditures.

Facts Must Dovetail

THE solution must dovetail these facts into each other and provide a practical economic program for the next few years, which will not only do the job, but inspire confidence, now that it can be done.

The administration has put forward a program which has not yet convinced any one the job will be done. At the top of its setup is Mr. Byrnes in the office of demobilization, but that office is only a few desks and telephones.

Actually Byrnes, without any economic staff (unless you can call Ben Cohen, the lawyer, an economist) is a peacemaker over the various conflicting government agencies.

Apparently C. E. Wilson was to take over the actual plant reconversion program, but he no sooner settled himself in that seat, than Mr. Donald Nelson announced a reconversion program (at the instance of the Truman committee, so they say). To make the confused state of affairs even more clearly discernible the army denounced the Nelson program.

Bill of Rights

THE G.I. bill of rights has been passed allowing up to 52 weeks within two years of unemployment compensation at $20 a week, so that veterans could lay around for that length of time, although, of course, the problem is to get people back to work.

Only if the nation is working and producing can it hope to survive, because, after all the talk about gold, inflation, wage-hoops, etc., work is the only constructive economic factor which can generate a successful country.

Other details are being handled separately. Vinson preparing a price program, Marvin Jones, the farm machinery, Will Clayton the surplus property disposal, etc., but yet no one is handling the problem as a whole.

The primary necessity to keep things going is tax revision, and while Senate Finance Chairman George promises early action, it is apparent that matter is not being handled in coherence with the whole.

Yet complete coherence is essential, even to the manpower problem of McNutt who has done no post-war work I have heard of. Someone is needed to plan the gradual release of men from the army with the gradual acceleration of peacetime business (this should be started now to take up the already noticeable 3 per cent slack).

What the job needs is a top. It already has too many bottoms. The coordinator could be Mr. Byrnes, if he has not too much else to do trying to keep peace, but a better choice would be an economically conscious organizer like Baruch or Kennedy, or someone of that type who could not only draw these loose ends together but keep them balanced with economic necessities through the post-war years.

Scouts Average $1000 Per Day In Bond Canvass

Scouts of Klamath Falls averaged more than $1000 per day in their house-to-house sale of "E" bonds on Tuesday and Wednesday of this week. They are out again today and are planning to visit every house in town. One scout reported the sale of a $500 bond, but most of them were more modest with three $100 bonds, one $200 bond and the remainder of the $25 and $50 variety.

These boys are out after "extra" bonds and are not interested in credit for a bond that you already planned to purchase somewhere else. "If you're already buying to the hilt, dig a little deeper and get an extra one from

Oregon Farms Need More Family Groups

CORVALLIS, June 22 (AP)—More family-size groups of harvest workers, who drive their own cars out to the fields, are needed on Oregon farms, the emergency farm labor office said today.

Groups of one or two women and three or four youngsters can readily be used by small growers and shifted from one harvest job to another, the office said.

Total number of stars has been estimated at between 30,000 and 50,000 millions.

Germany May Offer Surrender, Says Morgenthau

NEW YORK, June 22 (AP)—Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau, Jr., said today that Germany probably would offer "a semblance of surrender" before its armies were destroyed and before Germany itself had been invaded.

Declaring that "if we yield to such blandishments, we shall have lost this war," Morgenthau told 1400 persons at a luncheon in celebration of the dedication of Fifth avenue as "the avenue of the allies" during the Fifth War Loan drive that the surrender offer probably would be coupled with an overthrow of Hitler and "his gangster government."

"No doubt there will be protestations of democracy, no doubt we shall all be told that we need a strong Germany to protect one United Nation against another," he continued.

Hitler's "real secret weapon" is the weapon of division, Morgenthau said. "As disaster confronts him, he will use that weapon cunningly."

REPRESENTATIVE SPEAKS TO GERMANS

WASHINGTON, June 22 (AP)—Pennsylvania's German-Americans prefer the unabhängigkeitserklärung to anything Hitler could offer them, Rep. Hoch (D-Pa.) told the people of Nazi Germany in an office of war information overseas broadcast.

U nabhängigkeitserklärung is German for declaration of independence.

The congressman, speaking in German, said Pennsylvania was the state where the Declaration of Independence was signed and added:

"Those who know freedom as long as we do, hate dictatorship. Hoch's 'Pennsylvania Dutch' is fluent but his high German needed brushing up before the broadcast.

"I certainly had to practice on a nabhängigkeitserklärung," he said. "Golly, what a tongue twister."

PHYSICAL COMFORT FEATURE OF B-29

SEATTLE, June 22 (AP)—Crews of the new B-29 Superfortresses sail through the highest altitudes in comparative physical comfort, the army air forces disclosed last night in revealing that the new sky giants are equipped with pressurized cabins and heating facilities which "free the crew from wearing oxygen masks and protect them from subzero cold.

An announcement by Major Ben Locke, public relations officer of the army materiel command at Boeing field, explained that superchargers "maintain near normal air pressure in the cabins even in the thin atmosphere of the highest altitudes and the construction permits an unusual degree of soundproofing and cabin heat. The comfort of a crew on a long flight is a primary advantage."

"At a predetermined altitude the superchargers take hold and maintain a corresponding inside air pressure until the plane reaches relatively high altitudes. "Moreover tests show that instantaneous decompression under these conditions of high altitude flight are without harm to the human body."
