

WASTE SALVAGE DECLINES IN LAST MONTH

Following steady increases during the first three months of the year, collections of salvaged household fats declined more than 10,000 pounds during April, according to an announcement by Mrs. Ethel Keck, chairman of the women's activities for the waste salvage committee. The total was 201,004 pounds, the Klamath collection in May being 19,947 pounds.

While the state figure is considerably less than Oregon's, Mrs. Keck says, "I feel confident that we can reverse the downward trend and produce 200 per cent of our quota during the coming months."

Discussing the widespread impression that the recent release of rationing of lard indicates that salvaged fats are no longer needed, Mrs. Keck points out a distinction between edible fats and "hard fats" used in making materials.

"It would be needlessly wasteful," she states, "to convert large quantities of food fats to manufacturing uses when they can be used in the home and salvaged afterward. There need be no shortage for either purpose if housewives will continue to turn in every drop of fat no longer suitable for use in the home."

Salvage officials point out that the invasion of Europe emphasizes the need for continued saving of fats on an "all out" basis. Supplies of materials for the aviation were available because of former salvage efforts. It would be extremely regrettable to relax our efforts now, it is stated, and thereby incur the danger of a future shortage. Surely every relative or friend of a fighting man would rather have a million too many weapons than one too few.

Since the halving of the number of red ration points allotted each month, it is noted, the two points paid by meat buyers for each pound of salvaged fats become doubly valuable. Points are paid in addition four cents per pound in cash.

Flashes of Life

STATUS QUO
NEW YORK—Kevin Patrick O'Sheel will continue to be known by that name. The state supreme court denied him permission to change it to Henri Marie Patrice Hubert de Pineo.

AIR ATTACK
SPOKANE — Dive-bombing robins are making life miserable for Mrs. R. Z. Taylor. One of the birds dropped a worm in her hair, others "object" when she hangs out a washing, she told the sheriff's office in a plea for relief. Officers said they were sorry robins are protected by law.

SNIPPY
KEARNS, Utah—Twelve barbers at the overseas replacement depot gave 190 men haircuts in two hours—one every 38 seconds.

Quick, Watson, the Needle
CENTRALIA, Wash.—A motorist asked Police Sergeant Jim Kendrick where he could pay his fine for running a stop sign. "Where's the ticket," asked Kendrick. "Oh, I didn't get a ticket. Nobody saw me. But I think I ought to pay."

LOOT
LOUISVILLE, Ky.—A thief maneuvered a mop handle through the bedroom window of a home here, snagged a pair of trousers and fumbled through the pockets. His loot: a glass eye.

AGREES WITH SHERMAN
LONDON—Britishers chuckled today at the story told by a group of rescue workers, who declared they were digging in the debris of a house wrecked by a robot bomb in southern England when they heard a hoarse voice saying: "Blimey, wot a bloomin' war!" After digging frantically for a half hour, they found a parrot.

When used as a fighter-bomber, the P-51 Mustang is capable of carrying a 1000-pound bomb.

DOUBT EXPRESSED ABOUT MONEY PLAN

NEW YORK, June 23 (AP)—Reps. Hal Holmes of Washington and Harris Ellsworth of Oregon were among 21 republican members of congress signing a joint letter to the New York Times expressing doubt that congress will approve "the plan for monetary stabilization which Secretary Morgenthau proposes to advance at the forthcoming conference at Bretton Woods."

The only purpose of such a fund now, they held, "would be for furnishing reconstruction funds through an international pool, the great bulk of these funds coming from the dollars deposited therein."

"We prefer to retain control over those dollars," they proposed creation by congress of an American reconstruction fund under the supervision of an American board of directors, confirmed by the senate, the fund to act separately or in joint account with foreign governments, individuals or corporations.

O'DAY'S TO-DO TODAY

By June O'Day

Ounces of Prevention
Summer isn't all beach parties and begonias as most every woman knows. Not much can be done about the increase in the weekly wash, but here's a tip on a summer problem. To keep sprinkled clothes from mildewing in hot weather, place them in the refrigerator 'til you're ready to iron them.

While your costume jewelry is still fresh from its tissue and ribbon, apply a coat of clear nail polish over it to prevent tarnishing. If it has already lost its luster, try cleaning it with metal polish and then apply that nail polish, yes, it works.

Air bubbles in nail polish are an annoyance any time of year; so, don't shake that bottle of polish just before using. When shaken, the polish becomes full of air bubbles which become unsightly blemishes on your nails.

If you prefer light, sunny, summery slip covers but dread the laundering, here's a summer tip: to get a better fit on slip covers that have been washed, put them on the furniture while they're still slightly damp. The material will give more readily and they'll fit like new.

Summer Scents
To lighten your favorite perfume for summer, or just to make it go further, mix it with its sister toilet water and enjoy it the year round.

If the sweep of your lovely lashes is a secret between you and your curler... and your curler needs a retreat, remove the old rubber and pour candlewax into the lower groove. Not as good as new, but it works!
