Red Cross Units Busy This Week

The rain poured down Wednesday, but the old adage, "It's an ill wind, etc.," worked for the Altamont unit of the Red Cross surgical dressings unit when 47 women arrived at the unit and turned out a total of 2220 dressings during the day. As one farm woman said, "It was too wet to work in the garden, anyway!"

Ten of the women came in from Henley, two from the Shasta district. Some brought paper sack lunches and stayed the day, and those with children found older girls on hand to take care of them. Mrs. James Ferguson, Altamont unit chairman, reported that this was the largest production day since the rooms in the Altamont school were opened and as good as a record attendance.
