

WACK WARNS OF FOREST FIRE DANGER

Don't be a treasonist this month of July... that is the word from Charles Mack, chairman of Klamath Keep Oregon Green committee, as a warning to campers and others who will spend the month of July holiday in the woods of this state.

Forest fire danger will be from now on during the summer," he said. "We are short of water now in the woods. With combination of dry east winds and low humidity, the entire Oregon section could be a firey holocaust. Eastern range and forest areas just as bad off."

Mack pointed out that every beachhead in the Pacific and the European theaters require billions of feet of lumber for every purpose and that fire started here would mean the loss of Oregon from the man's careless soldiers in the back.

It takes 300 feet of lumber and a soldier or marine on a beachhead and 50 feet each to keep him there. This goes to repair docks, to build troop shelter, and to box crate everything from food to medicine to planes and guns on land with the troops. Oregon supplies nearly one-fourth of the nation's lumber—that is why we must help keep fire from forests, Mack emphasized.

Local Keep Green representatives, installed, are: Don't start a fire, and if you see a fire you can't put out call the fire warden at once. Let's help keep Oregon Green this month of July, the KOG leader said.

Escaped Prisoner Recaptured

PORTLAND, June 26 (AP)—Charles Roche, 22, who escaped from a trustee gang working out of the Rocky Butte county jail today, was recaptured by sheriff's officers here after a five-day chase, Deputy Sheriff Arvid Bellis said today.

Officers fired shots in the air during the chase, but the prisoner ran faster, the officers said. Roche was serving a one-year sentence for grand larceny, which was shown.

Eruption of Volcano in Alaska Prompts Army Move

ELEVENTH ARMY AIR FORCE HEADQUARTERS, ALASKA, June 26 (AP)—The eruption of Mount Cleveland, which began June 10 and is still continuing, has prompted the evacuation of an army installation on Chuginadak island and possibly has taken one life, the 11th army air force announced.

Mount Cleveland is a volcano on Chuginadak island in the islands of the four mountains group in the eastern Aleutian area.

Eruptions accompanied by severe earthquakes began in full force during the afternoon of June 10. Army personnel stationed there reported rocks "as huge as automobiles" belched from the crater over the entire island.

A rescue party headed by Capt. Donald Drewes, Minneapolis, Minn., arrived that night but while evacuation and recovery of material was going on the following morning "the entire mountain top blew off," army witnesses reported. Lava and rock were scattered over the island and the Bering sea for miles around.

Capt. Drewes said the missing soldier was probably lost in the first hour of the eruption. His companions said he apparently had advanced too close to the volcano in an attempt to evaluate the danger and was knocked unconscious or killed by falling rock and his body later covered by lava which had poured down the mountain for three miles when the rescue party left.

Taken from the island were: PFC Billy J. Cotton, Commerce, Texas; PFC Kenneth L. Tilsenberner, Lead, South Dakota; Sgt. William Bigger, Chapel Hill, N. C., and Sergeant Alexander Alcantara, (1836 N. E. Davis St.) Portland, Ore.

A second rescue detachment headed by Lt. Lynn Cunningham, Joliet, Ill., recovered all special equipment on the island.

The volcano is on the direct line of flight of army and navy bases in the Aleutians but flying personnel report they have not had to change course to avoid the volcano at any time although dangerous sulphur fumes have been noticed.

ALLIES BLAST INSTALLATIONS NEAR VIENNA

By AUSTIN BELMEAR LONDON, June 26 (AP)—Between 500 and 750 American heavy bombers battled their way from Italian bases through the heaviest opposition in recent weeks today and slammed explosives on six oil refineries, an aircraft factory and a railway in the Vienna area.

Bad weather greatly curtailed operations from Britain and brought a let-up in the steady pounding of German rail, highway and airfield facilities after a night in which RAF Mosquitos flying from Britain had maintained this pressure both in Normandy and the German homeland, and in which medium and heavy bombers from Italy struck at the Hungarian capital of Budapest.

Continuing the allied air operations that on Sunday kept five air armadas — four from Britain and one from Italy — drumming German installations in France virtually all day, the Mosquitos last night attacked German troop concentrations, railroads and supply dumps near the French battlefield and industrial objectives in the German city of Homburg, northwest of Duisberg.

Unfavorable weather this morning threatened to limit today's operations over the beach-head sectors.

Beyond the Normandy front lines, the Mosquitos left German supply dumps hidden in the forest of Bretonne on the Seine a mass of flames. Crewmen said the fires stretched two miles and were advancing in a series of semi-circles when they left.

The Mosquitos bombed German troops in the village of Evercy, southwest of Caen. Railroads north of Laigle and at Argentan were among other targets.

Supreme headquarters announced that although most of yesterday's tactical assaults were directed against enemy fuel dumps and railroads, some American Thunderbolt dive-bombers struck German gun emplacements in Cherbourg.

Some 3500 warplanes participated in Sunday's attacks, ranging from Pas-De-Calais to the southern coast of France.

Body of Lost Boy Found After Search

PORTLAND, Ore., June 26 (AP)—The body of two-year-old Byron Townsend, who wandered away from his parents in the Mount Hood national forest yesterday, was found in Zigzag river this morning after an all-night search by 40 volunteers.

The child, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Townsend, Portland, was first discovered missing about ten minutes after he walked off from a summer cottage in the Camp creek area. Charles Thurston, district forest ranger, immediately organized a crew to aid in the search.

First we'd like to say this: we're looking for a man who figures the kind of company he works with is as important to him as the kind of work he does. In other words, a man who wants to get in with a good outfit because he figures that's what helps to make a good job good.

We're a big company (95,000 in the family) and a pretty old company. We like to feel our people are with us because they like it here, not just because the paycheck is on time or our trains have nice whistles.

Ok, now what do we offer on a job... what extra advantages do we give you that you don't always find on other jobs? Why exactly would you or anyone else think that maybe we are a good outfit to work for?

Well, it's darn near impossible to be a railroader with S.P. and not feel you're in perhaps the most exciting he-man's business on earth. (Locomotives champing at the bit...freights whistling for a clear track...telegraphs clicking...war trains arriving...a huge transportation team on its toes. And with that feeling of loyalty and friendliness which is the real "roadbed" on which our railroad runs. Yes, you feel a fire in the boiler in this business all right.)

And maybe that's why railroading takes hold of a man, gets in his blood — from the call-boy on up. You should hear the old timers get going...tell about Engine No. Such and Such and how Fireman Flanagan waved his red shirt, etc. Dyed in the wool, most railroad men.

Our work isn't dull routine. Something new all the time. Things move. You don't go stale because the job stays fresh. So do the opportunities ahead of you. A bit of ambition is a first-class fare with us...takes you just about as far as you want to go. All of our top men, by the way, started on the bottom rung.

We mentioned paychecks. They're bigger at S.P. these days. New wage increases all down the line. And everyone starting in gets them too.

We're permanent. Had our roots and our rails down in the West for generations. We helped build the West and feel there's even more building to do in the future. Which, you'll agree, is worthwhile knowing when choosing a job.

Here at S.P. you can choose your job from hundreds — from almost every type you can name. Jobs for every kind of craftsman — machinists, carpenters, boiler-makers and so on. Jobs for White Collars and No Collars. Jobs for semi-skilled and unskilled people. Jobs in the shops or yards, stations or offices, warehouses or on the trains. Among them is one, we're pretty sure, which you will want.

We've a pension plan that really works. And an equally good medical service. Railroad pass privileges too — just another little "extra" that goes with the job.

There are still others. And they all add up to this: a good job with a good outfit. If you're sincere in wanting this kind of work, come in and see us. We think you'll be glad you did.

HERE ARE A FEW OF THE MANY JOBS OPEN AT S.P. TODAY Many others, of course. And many requiring no experience.
