

Postmaster Urges Extension of Civil Service System

PORTLAND, July 8 (AP) — George Hartman, Pendleton, appealed to the Oregon Postmasters conference today to demand extension of the civil service system.

"There's no reason," the national director of the postmasters association said, "why men in the ranks can't work their way up to postmastership through civil service."

John J. Hart, manager of United Air Lines postal service predicted increased air parcel post in postwar days—particularly in shipping fruits and vegetables.

Sanford Adler, Baker, vice-president of the Oregon group, presided at the meeting.

Purchase of City Center Site In Portland Suggested

PORTLAND, July 8 (AP) — Purchase of 30 blocks of Portland waterfront property for the site of a city center was suggested yesterday by Commissioner William A. Bowers of the Portland postwar planning commission.

He suggested purchase of the property along the waterfront from Jefferson to Taylor streets, with a museum, civic health center, auditorium and other public buildings to be built after the war.

Approximate cost of the area would be $4,500,000, he said.

WORK CONTRACTED

PORTLAND, July 8 (AP) — Enough work has been contracted to keep the 9000 employees of Commercial Iron Works busy through 1945, President Winston Casey said today.

Additional contracts for new types of ships will be announced within two weeks, he said.
