Today's Roundup

By MALCOLM EPLEY

INTRA-PARTY national politics must be getting pretty uninteresting to democrats. All speculation and suspense are gone out of the pre-convention situation. It's the same old thing, every four years, except that there is always some new "emergency" that serves as the excuse for the same old thing.

EPLEY

Mr. Roosevelt sprung a mild surprise when he disclosed his fourth term intentions publicly at Tuesday's press conference, but the surprise was all in the time he chose to do it. Democrats have known all along whom they were going to take and like for their presidential nominee, and the country as a whole knew who would head the democratic ticket.

In the nearly 12 years Mr. Roosevelt has been president, the door has never been left open—not even a crack—for any other democrat. It wasn't left open this time, and Mr. Roosevelt's announcement merely put a foregone conclusion down in black and white.

The president indicates that his campaign will be something different this time—that he will not be running in the "partisan, political sense." That sounds high-minded, and it may declare a sincere intention, but no one doubts that partisan politics will be employed in full force to elect Mr. Roosevelt. The president would like to receive a "command" from the people to be president again, but he and his advisers and political workers will do everything they can to bring about that command in November.

Mr. Roosevelt himself commands vast political force that will be in full play. Many people are sure it will triumph, and no one, we are sure, questions its power.

A republican campaign that is superlative in smartness, vigor and sound principle will be necessary to combat successfully the Roosevelt bid for a "command" from his "superior officer—the people of the United States"—on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November.

The War Today

By DeWITT MacKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

GENERAL EISENHOWER'S warning against over-optimism about the duration of the war is a point well taken, since allied progress in this last round of the battle against Hitler, when we must hit him with everything we have, depends heavily on maintenance of an all-out effort by the allied home fronts.

The dire strait of Germany's war economy is made clear in the report by the foreign economic administration at Washington that the reich faces "substantial certainty of defeat in 1945 if not in 1944." It provides further proof, if any were needed, that this is a war of resources and that the allies are infinitely the stronger.

• • • •

Nearly Hopeless

THE FEA report says the nazis will be in a nearly hopeless position by the end of the year, with prospective expenditure of war materiel exceeding their rate of production. German raw material supplies for war are on a "bare hand-to-mouth basis." This has been brought about by bombing, by land offensives and by blockades.

But this shortage is only part of the grim story. German newspapers disclose the nazis are struggling desperately to avert defeat on the transportation front, upon which Hitler must depend not only for quick movement of troops at this crucial moment but for shipment of all supplies to the battle zones.

• • • •

Bombs and Sabotage

THIS critical situation in German transport has been produced (1) by the terrific allied bombing over a long period, and (2) through sabotage by the increasingly active underground armies in the conquered countries. The position is so bad that all self-propelled and horse-drawn vehicles are being diverted to bolster the crippled railways. The government controlled press is appealing to the German people to understand the complete stoppage of railway traffic in certain areas, and not become impatient.

And we must add still another chapter to Hitler's tale of despair. He no longer has sufficient supplies and men with which to meet concerted pressure that has resulted from the opening of the second front in France, the continuation of the allied drive in Italy, the ceaseless rain of death and destruction from the skies, and the launching of the multiple Russian offensive on a scale more stupendous than anything previously seen in the eastern theater of bloody strife.

Shifting of men and material to meet a fresh attack only brings another assault to the sector weakened.

WFA REQUISITIONS TURKEYS FOR GI'S

WASHINGTON, July 12 (AP) The war food administration announced today it will requisition turkeys to obtain supplies for Thanksgiving, Christmas and New Year's Day dinners for the armed forces overseas.

Under an order effective July 17, the WFA will require that all turkeys marketed in major producing areas be set aside for government purchase. The order will continue in effect until the desired quantity is obtained.

Officials did not disclose the quantity sought, but indicated it exceeds the 35,000,000 pounds obtained under a similar order last year. The government already has obtained 8,000,000 pounds of hen turkeys under a set-aside order recently terminated. Total turkey production this year is expected to be about 480,000,000 pounds.

English Learn About American School Children

PULLMAN, July 12 (AP)—Motion pictures taken in Seattle schools to depict teaching methods in mathematics carried to the British people the surprise disclosure that American children are "not all dead-end kids who delight in throwing their teachers out the windows," Supt. Worth McClure of the Seattle system said today.

Speaking at a two-day summer education conference which began yesterday, McClure said the British were startled to learn that "your school children are just like ours."

He said English schools were "over-crowded, cool, inadequately supplied, but they are on the verge of their greatest reform in history."

New Councilman Named In Merrill

MERRILL—Oren Moore has been appointed to succeed H. C. Bradbury as city councilman, it was announced this week by Mayor Frank E. Trotman. Bradbury recently moved to Klamath Falls to make his home.

The council also placed Willis Williamson of Williamson River to succeed Harry Roeske as city marshal.

Mayor Trotman and Councilmen Paul Lewis and Jerry Sharp were on hand for the July session.

Munich Bombed For Second Time By Huge Fleet

By GLADWIN HILL

LONDON, July 12 (AP)—Nearly 2000 American planes battered the great south German city of Munich again today while another force from Italy struck once more into the south of France, bombing four rail targets.

More than 1200 of the planes assaulting Munich on this second successive day were heavy bombers; the rest were long range fighters.

Targets of the heavy bombers which flew from Italy were the Nimes and Miramas railyards, the Var river rail bridge and the Theole Sur Mer bridge. Nimes and Miramas are 62 miles and 24 miles northwest of Marseille respectively, and the Var river is just west of Nice.

Fighter Convoys

Up to 750 fighters convoyed the Fortresses and Liberators to Germany's fourth largest city, a railway bottleneck for traffic into Italy and France.

The German communique said the assault of 1100 heavy bombers on the Munich region yesterday was a "terror attack."

The city of 828,000 persons lies 720 miles from London as the bombers fly, 25 miles from the foothills of the Alps. It cradles numerous German war industries.

Attack Fuel Dumps

American medium and light bombers simultaneously attacked three important fuel dumps behind German lines in Normandy.

In all, American planes by midday carried out five attacks in Normandy in support of the foot sloggers aground.

Sufficient Food Indicated For Nation in Crop Report

WASHINGTON, July 12 (AP) Government food officials who have been harried for months by the spectre of a critical livestock feed and grain shortage rested easier today.

An agriculture department crop report indicated that, given favorable weather during the next six weeks, the nation will have sufficient food to carry it through until the 1945 growing season arrives.

A record wheat crop of 1,127,822,000 bushels and a very large corn crop of 2,980,236,000 bushels was forecast. These grains will be supplemented by fairly good crops of other livestock grains such as oats and barley and by a near record crop of hay. While wheat is considered primarily a food crop, large amounts have been diverted to livestock feed under war food production programs.

Three factors played major roles in preventing a threatened feed shortage. They were: (1) reduction this spring and summer in livestock numbers, particularly hogs and chickens, from record levels, to cut the demand for feed; (2) unusually favorable weather, particularly in whe... areas; and (3) hard work and lon... hours by farmers in the corn be... where a late spring caused a... abnormal delay in spring pla... ing.

Air Attacks on Nazi Oil Centers Impair Mobility Of German Ground Forces

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, July 12 (AP)—American air attacks on 64 German oil installations have curtailed the enemy's petroleum production to a point where the shortage is having an important effect on the mobility of nazi ground forces, a senior U. S. air officer declared today.

The objective of thwarting German mobility has been "achieved," this officer said.

He said the German air force, the other chief object of United States air attacks in recent months, was decreasing in strength in France. He said the nazi force had lost more planes than the Germans could produce every month since January.

The exact German air strength in Germany itself is not known definitely, but the current opposition over the reich is not comparable to the interception strength as recently as January.

Allied Losses Drop

The strategic United States air forces being hurled against the Germans are the eighth in Britain, the 15th in Italy and the eastern command in Russia. Losses of these forces dropped to 1.4 per cent of the sorties flown in June the previous peak average of five per cent.

In six months, the U. S. strategic air forces have hit 51 oil refineries, 13 synthetic plants and 89 aircraft factories in attacks from Britain and Italy, and recently from Russia.

The forces have destroyed 6109 German planes in the air and 1546 on the ground since January. This German loss of 7655 planes compares to American losses of 3425. Of these 2339 were four-engined bombers and 1086 were fighters.

Industrial Targets

The senior officer disclosed that recent industrial targets included plants working on jet-engined propulsion, which is used in the robots bombarding London.

He said the United States, Britain and Russia were in agreement on priorities regarding the different types of targets and added:

"There will be additional attacks on the German fighter plane industry whenever needed."

He said the big two-way drive against German airplane factories between Feb. 20-25 was so effective that the nazis could not recover from it, and "made possible the invasion without German air force opposition."

Transportation Lack Fills Kansas City With Wheat

KANSAS CITY, July 12 (AP)—The harvest, almost unbelievably bountiful, is rolling in.

Granaries, elevators and mills are gorged with the wheat. Railroads already overburdened and weighted down with war, chug wearily along with load after load of the grain.

And still the wheat piles up, in bright, golden mounds—by the tracks and in the fields.

Representatives of railroads, mills, elevators, government agencies and the army met here today with Sen. Clyde M. Reed (R-Kans.) to decide how to solve the problem of plenty.

Reed said the chief worries were: (1) too few boxcars, (2) too few helpers to get the cars unloaded quickly and back into service.

One possible source of labor, Reed said, was the army's seventh service command at Omaha. He has telegraphed the command to ask how many prisoners of war would be available (Reed has heard there may be as many as 3000) to help unload wheat.

"We always have regarded the normal loading capacity at Kansas City to be approximately 1500 cars a day," Reed continued. "I am informed only about half that number actually are being unloaded. If that's true, we intend to learn why it is true."

Reed added that "What we want to get out of this meeting is an outline of the entire wheat situation, so as to be able to give wheat growers and shippers of the southwest a fairly definite idea of what they may expect in the way of transportation facilities in the next six months."

He said that instead of finishing the wheat movement in 60 to 90 days, par for the course in a normal year, it may take six months or longer to handle this year's whopper crop, estimated at 382,000,000 bushels for the four-state area of Kansas, Oklahoma, Texas and Colorado.

WHEAT

CHICAGO, July 12 (AP)—A commercial demand for wheat futures developed in late trading today and prices rallied after a mid-session decline. Hedge selling was apparent throughout the day but the offerings were not large and there was comparatively little pressure on the market. Reports of large flour sales to bakers also figures in the advance.

Rye futures rallied with wheat. The trade in both rye and oats was light and had no feature.

Wheat closed ¼c lower to ⅜c higher than yesterday's finish, July $1.57¾. Oats were off ⅛ to ⅜c, July 77½c. Rye was ⅛c to ¾c lower, July $1.14⅛. Barley was off ¼c to 1c, July $1.27¼.

In our paper yesterday I called your attention to the fact that there is one Spirit, just as there is one God and one Lord. The one Spirit, gave the one gospel, which is perfectly harmonious from beginning to end. The fact that different and contradictory doctrines are taught does not change the fact that the Holy Spirit spoke the truth through the inspired writers, but is evidence that John's statement that many false prophets have gone out into the world is true.

C. B. Shropshire, Portland, Evangelist

I also called to your attention yesterday that the Holy Spirit could not be the author of these different and contradictory doctrines and still speak the truth. Today let us notice some of the claims that are made relative to miraculous inspiration. One preacher claiming miraculous guidance teaches that Joseph Smith was a prophet of God, and that the things which he spoke are to be held as orthodox on the same basis as the Bible. Others who claim to be miraculously guided by the same Spirit, say that Joseph Smith was a false prophet, and that the things which he spoke and wrote are but the imaginations of a dreamer, while they still hold that their prophets speak and write the inspired truth.

Ellen G. White, Mary Baker Eddy, Charles T. Russel and Judge Rutherford and a host of so-called holiness preachers all claim miraculous guidance, yet they teach different and contradictory doctrines. "O consistency thou art a jewel" but jewels are rare. The truth of the matter is that the inspired scriptures contain the message of the Spirit, and that these so-called prophets are but self-appointed deceivers of the people. "Now these things brethren, I have in a figure transferred to myself and Appolos for your sakes; that in us ye might learn not to go beyond the things which are written—". I Cor. 4: 6.

My advice to all men is to accept the testimony of the one Spirit which is revealed in the inspired scriptures and refuse the so-called modern revelations. Remember, one Spirit could not speak all these different doctrines, and speak the truth, yet all the Word of God is truth. The large tent is being repaired and will probably be ready by the last of the week.
