Klamath Tribe

With 126 men from the Klamath Indian reservation in the uniform of the armed forces, women of the Klamath tribe have been instrumental in turning over to the Klamath county chapter of the American Red Cross, a collection of afghans fashioned from gay colored yarns and pieced quilts which show excellent needlework. These gifts are now on display at the Red Cross showroom.

A special request came to the Klamath chapter Friday stating the need of any knitted or crocheted afghans "you may have." This work is simple and can be done by groups of individuals and so, if you have time, the Red Cross would be very grateful for these pieces which will go to a hospital for convalescents. Especially are they needed for wheel chair patients.

Chiloquin women sent one afghan and six quilts. In this group were Etta Barrera, Rebecca Baldwin, Wynona Jones, Almedia Bazar, Opal Diak, Tilda Lotches, Olivia Nelson, Mildred Unive, Dora Walker, Eva Mose, Edna Dillstrom, Rebecca Kirk, Elizabeth Johnson, Florence Johnson, Marie Norris, Mollie Lewis, Jane Hatfield, Minnie Corbell, Claudia Hood and Ada Cole.

An attractive afghan came from a Beatty group composed of Laura Robinson, Mrs. Elva Anderson, Virginia Johns, Elsie Riddle, Christina Riddle, Anna Mae Robinson, Gladys Shoulderblade, Mrs. Wermie Foster, Lorena Crain, Mabel Chocktoot and Pearl Jackson.

Sprague River women gathered during the winter to turn out an afghan and working in this unit were Pearl Coburn Rogers, Mary Chiloquin, Rosie Shadley, Ardith Roff, Charlotte Miller, Jessie Coburn, June Coburn, Mrs. M. Petersen, Alfreda Bodner, Viola Crume, Esther Cook, Mrs. Bill Sken and Ruth White.

VAN HOUTEN'S "GOLD LABEL" COCOA THE WORLD'S BEST

VAN HOUTEN'S DUTCH PROCESS COCOA is the original Cocoa Powder invented in 1828 by C. J. Van Houten, a patent being granted to him in that year by King William I of The Netherlands. This process, passed on from generation to generation, is still unique and exclusive to the House of Van Houten.

VAN HOUTEN'S COCOA is not a raw cocoa, but one which has been greatly improved and concentrated and has the full exquisite flavor and aroma of the Cocoa Bean.

WE RECOMMEND IT FOR CHILDREN because of its exceptional digestibility; and for making puddings, ice cream sodas, chocolate icings and the like, because of its concentrated flavor.
