Today's Roundup

By MALCOLM EPLEY

THIS column has carried a good deal of discussion recently about the conclusions and suggestions contained in the Bonneville economic survey of Klamath county.

EPLEY

Probably the surveyors themselves would be the last to contend this list is complete, but it summarizes the outlook as they see it after a study of the local situation.

- 1. In Agriculture— a. Irrigation and drainage projects to improve 63,000 acres in existing farms and to provide 49,000 acres in new farms.

As we have said before, the Bonneville survey presents little that is new to those who are thinking seriously about Klamath's future, but it gets a great deal of important material down in convenient, thought-provoking form.

terial down in convenient, thought-provoking form. All or nearly all of the suggestions listed above have been pretty generally discussed here, but grouping them in this form for consideration is timely and helpful.

The War Today

By DeWITT MacKENZIE

HEAVY intensification of the war in the European theater may be expected from now on since there are only about three months of prime fighting weather left to the allies before the autumn rains come to the aid of the Hitlerites, and on that basis the possibility of an early knock-out of Germany depends on what happens in the next dozen weeks or so.

A happy sign of allied determination to make hay while the sun shines is seen in today's report of General Montgomery's attack in the Caen sector to secure a more favorable position for a major offensive. In other words the big battle for which we have been waiting seems to be boiling up at long last. This decisive engagement must be fought and won by the allies before they can break out of the peninsula into the wide open spaces which will give access to Paris—and Berlin.

Moving Slowly

THINGS have been moving slowly for the United Nations in Normandy. There have been several reasons for this—vile weather, heavy Nazi resistance, and Montgomery's unwillingness to sacrifice the lives of allied troops unnecessarily by making a major attack before he was fully equipped.

The fresh battle at Caen, which is a preliminary to the all-out drive, is of great importance. This ancient inland port and military stronghold is the pivot on which the final engagement of the peninsula will turn.

Bloody and Important

THE coming battle of Normandy will be a bloody affair because of its vast importance. Upon it depends whether the allied invasion will be stalled, thereby giving Hitler a new lease of life, or whether we shall break through to the hinterland quickly.

As a matter of fact, the Fuehrer's new scheme of making France the decisive theater seems to be on the rocks already. This strategy projects the withdrawal of strength from the Russian front temporarily in an effort to achieve a decisive victory over the western allies, after which he would jump back to the east to stand off the Russians.

SIDE GLANCES

"I haven't spent much time studying war strategy, Mr. Jones—every three months I go and give the Red Cross some blood and let it go at that!"

Market Quotations

NEW YORK, July 17 (AP)—The long-awaited technical correction developed in today's stock market was weak and selling spread to most other leaders. It was one of the sharpest dips in about a month.

"WITHOUT VENOM"

Pendleton East Oregonian The Salem Statesman, published by Ex-Governor Charles A. Sprague, thinks Dewey may prove to be "the St. George to slay the democratic dragon in 1944" and offers this estimate of the situation:

A preview of the campaign would seem to sketch it like this: Dewey will make only a few speeches, will not attempt to swing wide circles of travel as many candidates have. The few speeches will be designated to capture votes and so will be tailored to catch the prevailing winds.

Whether or not activity on the part of Governor Dewey will be helpful we do not know. Prior to the convention he followed a policy of reluctance and it seemed to be good strategy.

But Dewey will have the "disaffected groups," whether he says much or not, and such groups in war time are usually larger than is suspected. People grow weary of war and tired of restrictions though they may realize their necessity.

BOMBERS HIT BRIDGES ON NORMAN FRONT

LONDON, July 17 (AP)—Up to 750 U. S. heavy bombers attacked a dozen river bridges leading to the Normandy front, the Belfort railroad yards in eastern France and a flying bomb supply dump near Rheims today in one of the largest scale support attacks by four-engine aircraft during the invasion.

Up to 500 fighters escorted the four-engine bombers, flying Fortresses and Liberators. Radio Berlin said the reich itself was under attack for the fifth time in a week. It was one of the rare days since invasion that clear skies has permitted full use of overpowering allied air power.

Belfort is near Switzerland and 215 miles southeast of Paris. Rheims is 75 miles northeast of the capital and closer to the Calais coast where the robot platforms hurl buzz bombs at London.

The daylight thrusts were preceded by a two-ply night assault upon the continent in which a strong force of Britain-based RAF Mosquitoes blasted a German synthetic oil plant at Uman, Saarbrücken and other vital targets in Germany yesterday while medium bombers blasted German positions holding up the allied ground advance around St. Lo.

Russian Yak-9 fighters struck industrial objectives in East Prussia, making the assault on the reich a three-sided affair. The Mediterranean allied air forces, meanwhile, disclosed that 24 planes were missing from a force of 750 heavy bombers that raided the Romanian oil center of Ploesti Saturday with the heaviest loss of bombers ever dropped on a target. Ten enemy aircraft were destroyed.

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)—Joe O'Neil, president of the Sacramento Baseball Club, announced today that the club directors have voted to pay $32,500 and Major League players for Clem Duesler, ace pitcher, who was traded to the club.

The directors previously turned down a $20,000 bid for the Major League team which O'Neil said that no pitcher would have been forthcoming in a transaction.

Scorpion Visible Now in Summer Sky, Says Pruett

By J. HUGH PRUETT

Astronomer, General Extension Division, University of Oregon

The finest of summer star-groups, the Scorpion, may now be traced among the glittering dots on the blue of the southern heavens, as soon as the twilight has sufficiently faded for these celestial lights to appear. Tonight at about 10 o'clock the Scorpion is nearly due south and low in the sky.

This constellation, unlike many others, actually resembles its earthly counterpart, that creature with the crab-like claws and the poisonous sting at the end of its long lashing tail, and is easily spotted by the flashing of bright red Antares (An-TAY-reez) the visibly pulsating heart of the Scorpion.

Let us point out the figure without a diagram. A little below Antares and to the left there is a rather bright star, another slightly above and to the right. Still higher and to the right there appear three bright stars in a line. The upper of these is the Scorpion's head. A small double star appears directly below and very close.

The remaining two bright stars in this line of three form the right arm. Under the line a few dim stars make the claw. On the left of the head-star a few dim stars form the left arm and claw.

C. B. Shropshire, Portland, Evangelist from the water— "And it came to pass in those days, that Jesus came from Nazareth of Galilee, and was baptized of John in the Jordan. And straightway coming up out of the water, he saw the heavens rent asunder, and the Spirit as a dove descending upon him." (Mark 1: 9, 10). "And as they went on the way, they came unto a certain water; and the eunuch saith, Behold, here is water: what do I hinder me to be baptized? And he commanded the chariot to stand still; and they both went down into the water, both Philip and the eunuch; and he baptized him. Lord caught away Philip; and the eunuch saw him no more: for he went on his way rejoicing." (Acts 8: 38-39).

In the foregoing quotations from the New Testament we find the following procedure. John baptized where there was much water. The people were baptized in Jordan, and were baptized and came up out of the water. This should be sufficient evidence to convince any fair-minded person that the one baptism of the New Testament is immersion; but there is yet further evidence of this fact. Paul tells us in Romans 6: 3, 4, "Or are ye ignorant that all we who were baptized into Christ Jesus were baptized into his death? We were buried therefore with Him through baptism into death: that like as Christ was raised from the dead through the glory of the Father, so we also might walk in newness of life." Here the apostle tells us that all who were baptized into Christ Jesus were buried in baptism. The logical conclusion therefore is, that if all those who were baptized into Christ were buried in baptism, then those who were not buried in baptism were not baptized into Christ. Sprinkling and pouring do not constitute New Testament baptism. Immersion is the "one baptism" of the New Testament.

Sprinkling, Pouring or Immersion

In our study of "The One Baptism" we found that the scriptures teach, that it is baptism in water, and not Holy Spirit baptism. Today the question is, are sprinkling, pouring and immersion all New Testament modes of baptism? or is there one baptism in action, as well as in kind? The way to get the truth on this question is to let the Bible be our guide. Let us see what is required in New Testament baptism.

"And John also was baptizing in AEnon near to Salim, because there was much water there; and they came and were baptized." (Jno. 3: 23). "This went out unto him Jerusalem, and all Judea, and all the region round about him in the river Jordan, confessing their sins." (Matt. 3: 5, 6). "And Jesus, when he was baptized, went up straightway from the water—" (Matt. 3: 16). "And it came to pass in those days, that Jesus came from Nazareth of Galilee, and was baptized of John in the Jordan. And straightway coming up out of the water, he saw the heavens rent asunder, and the Spirit as a dove descending upon him." (Mark 1: 9, 10). "And as they went on the way, they came unto a certain water; and the eunuch saith, Behold, here is water: what do I hinder me to be baptized? And he commanded the chariot to stand still; and they both went down into the water, both Philip and the eunuch; and he baptized him. Lord caught away Philip; and the eunuch saw him no more: for he went on his way rejoicing." (Acts 8: 38-39).
