Their Work-Day: 24 Hours

For ground crews at Marine Corps Pacific island bases, there is no time-and-a-half for overtime because there is no overtime—24 hours-a-day is the working schedule, interrupted only by air alarms. Typical "night shift" scene is photo above, where aviation mechanics, with small generator for illumination, make repairs and adjustments on Corsair fighter, readying it for morning operations.

Mr. and Mrs. Halbert Wilson had as their house guests during a family reunion, Mrs. Wilson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Bolin, Portland and her young brother Robert, two sisters, Mrs. E. B. McCrery, Vallejo and Mrs. J. A. Tomjack, Medford. Mrs. McCrery was accompanied by Mr. McCrery and Sherry and Mrs. Tomjack by Mr. Tomjack and their two sons, Benjie Joe and Thomas.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. King had as recent guests, Mrs. King's brother, Private Clinton R. Jester, U. S. Army, who has completed his training in the medical corps at Camp Barkley, Texas and Mrs. Jester who is living in Grants Pass for the duration. Jester after spending part of his furlough with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Jester, Ashland, and with two sisters, Mrs. Eugene Larson and Mrs. Helen Rowell, Klamath Falls, will report back July 16 to Camp Beale near Marysville, to await further orders.

Jester was employed prior to his entry into the service in the state department of agriculture for several years.

She Hope.

Only woman theater "doorman" on Broadway is Maria Montez, above, 18-year-old Philadelphia model with movie ambitions, who took job in hope that talent scouts on New York's Main Street would spot her. She's currently door-tending during run of "The Story of Dr. Wassell."
