

Mr. Dorris—Mr. and Mrs. Cox of Dorris were here the weekend visiting with Marlin Ott and Mrs. Olive

You can out-do Samson

When it comes to fighting forest fires, one man working ten days can't do the work that ten men working one day—Samson, the strongest man ever.

A forest fire which ten men could surround and kill would burn at one man—even Samson—and go roaring into the next county. Ten days later, 100 men might be needed to check it.

On the forest-fire front, the manpower shortage is acute—acute in a special way. Beyond illness and strength and skill—all needed to battle heat and mountains and underbrush—numbers are required.

But the young, vigorous, experienced forest men—men who last year or the year before were ready to help federal and state agencies—have gone to war.

This year, those of us who remain at home can't say "Let George do it!" George is in New Guinea... Italy... the Pacific... everywhere the war is. When it comes to fighting forest fires, the Georges can't do anything about it.

But we can do something. We can obey those rules everybody knows. We can cover every cigarette... extinguish every cigarette... break every burnt match (you singe your fingers if it isn't out)... watch every park. We can make up for fewer fighters with fewer fires.

When it comes to fighting forest fires, one man can't do the work of ten—not afterward. But, beforehand, one man—and he needs to be Samson—may do the work of 1000! Merely by putting out that cigarette! Merely by covering that cigarette!

Warehouse Space In Klamath Needed

The Regional Space Control committee at San Francisco has written the chamber of commerce here asking about available warehouse space in this area. The committee represents the United States army, navy, treasury department, maritime commission and reconstruction finance corporation and the warehouse space is wanted for the storage of surplus war materials, war reserves and live issue materials.

Anyone having any available room of this kind is asked to contact the chamber of commerce by coming to the offices or by phoning 5193.

During the Revolutionary war, the Continental army consisted of 828,274 volunteers and regulars, according to army records.

The first radio stations to send weather and navigation information to mail planes were established in 1920.

SUSPENDER SHORTAGE

DECATUR, Ill.—George Sides reported to police that between $25 and $30 had been stolen from his hotel room. The thief didn't stop, however, with just taking the cash.

He also took his suspenders and cut the buttons from his pants, Sides reported.

Turkey production in the United States has doubled during the past 10 years, from 16,000,000 to 32,000,000.

The World war began on July 28, 1914.

Gas Consumption Increases

Due to prevailing westerly winds, airplanes use about 15 per cent more gasoline traveling from New York to California, than from California to New York.

Constant Temperature

We don't get chilled clear through, no matter how cold we become. The temperature of our body remains at approximately 98½ degrees a quarter of an inch below the surface.
