ARMY DOGS USED AS MINE DETECTORS

WASHINGTON, July 26 (P) The army has found a new use for its dogs—they are mine detectors.

The non-metallic land mines, which cannot be located by mechanical devices, are a specialty of these highly trained "m-dogs," the army disclosed today, but they find others, too—metallic mines, trip-wires and booby traps. Working on a six-foot leash, the animals locate mine fields, lead the way around them, or point a safe path through them. As soon as the dogs locate the buried or concealed explosive devices, the mines are removed or deactivated, and the cleared path is marked with tape.

THIS IS ABOUT A JOB YOU MAY WANT!

Here at Southern Pacific when a Roundhouse Foreman says a locomotive is "Okeh hot", he means she's ready to roll. In a way, some jobs are like that too -- Okeh hot, ready for a man to get into the driver's seat and go.

Now we've got a job here that's "ready" -- ready for a man (maybe yourself) who wants something just a bit better than a run-of-the-mine job. For a man who figures a job is more than just bread and butter.

It's a Railroad Job, sure . . . any one of a hundred kinds of jobs. You can take your choice. If you're a craftsman, fine. If you're unskilled, no matter. We have a job you can do and a job we think you'll like. But the point is: it's a railroad job and that means it's just a bit different than most. How come?

Well, you can't work on a railroad without feeling, somehow, that it's exciting. War trains. Locomotives. Hot freights. Northbound. Southbound. Highball. Reefers. Trains moving over the mountains. Trains arriving. Leaving. That's the railroad. Something doing all the time. Something big. Big as the West, in fact, because S.P. operates all through the West.

And Whether You're a Brakeman or a Carpenter's Helper, Freight Clerk or Telegrapher, this work gets in your blood. Yes, and sticks -- which is why so many of our folks have been with us such a long time. (Funny thing, but railroading and loyalty just seem to go together). Anyway, that's what happens. You get into railroading, and the railroad "gets into" you.

How about pay? Maybe you read the headlines recently. "Railroad wages increased". New, higher pay on all jobs. It's a substantial raise. Which makes the old paycheck look better than ever at S.P. these days.

Is the work "essential"? Look at it this way. It's as essential as the stuff our troops needed to paste Truk with. And Kwajalein. Because our railroad has to help carry everything from hand grenades to tanks to the big Western ports of embarkation. Does that sound essential enough?

And Opportunity? Well, the President of S.P. started a transit man and clerk. Most of our top men climbed the ladder with us. That ought to answer your question. (You just bring the ambition, we'll supply the chance to get ahead.)

We're a big company and a permanent company. We've driven our spikes pretty deep in the road-bed -- and figure they're there to stay. We mention this to give you some idea of how we feel about the future.

And the People You Work With . . . we think you'll like the kind of men who make railroading what it is. We don't say they're better than other men, but we do know they're friendly and sincere.

Now We Could Tell You a lot of other things about this job and about S.P. Tell you about railroad pass privileges, S.P.'s fine pension plan, medical services and so on. A whole lot of things that make an S.P. job just a bit better than the ordinary job. But they're the kind of things that come out best in a friendly talk. We'll give you all the facts if and when you come in to see us. And we hope you do. We think you'll like it...working with S.P.

HERE ARE A FEW OF THE MANY JOBS OPEN AT S.P. TODAY Many others, of course. And many requiring no experience. Switchmen, Brakemen, Signalmen, Telegraphers, Carpenters, Boilermakers, Electricians, Plumbers, Machinists, Sheet Metal Workers, Pipefitters, Blacksmiths, Painters, Carmen, Helpers -- all crafts. Track Welders, Shop Workers, Deliverymen, Firemen, Powder Drillers, Drillers, Laborers, Firefighters. See or write Trainmaster, S. P. Station, Klamath Falls, or your nearest S. P. Agent. S.P.
