eelection of Fish pposed by Dewey n Race Policies

By JACK BELL

ANY, N. Y., July 28 (AP)—Thomas E. Dewey an- d opposition today to the ion of Rep. Hamilton Fish, ican, who is running in h New York congressional on the ground Fish had racial and religious is-statement dictated to re- by James C. Hagerty, press secretary, the GOP ential nominee said:

o years ago I publicly op- the nomination and elec- Congressman Fish. State- attributed to him confirm gment expressed at that have always fought that thing all my life and al- will regardless of partisan eration. I have never ac- the support of any such dual and I never shall."

, who announced recently old support the national re- an ticket, was quoted by Hagerty as having been interviewed by the New York Post and having told a reporter for that paper that "the Jews are more or less for the new deal, unfortunately."

Continuing, Hagerty read a telegram which said the New York paper had attributed the following to Fish:

"If you want more on that they (Jewish people) are for Roosevelt and the new deal. I think it would be much better for them if they split their vote between the two major parties. I don't think a single group should go all out one way or the other and I note from votes of the Jewish districts in New York City that the big majority of the Jews are for the new deal."

Hagerty said that, asked to comment on a previously published quote that he would carry every town in his district except Fallsburgh, "because it is 90 per cent a certain people," Fish told the Post reporter:

"Anyone who knows Fallsburgh knows what Fallsburgh is. I didn't think that needs amplification."

The statement on Fish was the first made by Dewey since his nomination concerning prospective support by any republican for the national ticket.

Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio, the vice presidential nominee, said at a press conference here Wednesday that the support of all elements willing to vote for the republican ticket would be welcomed as far as he was concerned. Dewey made no comment at that time.

In opposing Fish's renomination and reelection two years ago, Dewey, then a candidate for governor, said that if he were a resident of Fish's district he would not vote for him.

Meanwhile Dewey's plans for refurbishing the federal government—if the electorate gives him the nod in November—were put strictly on a four-year basis today, with the republican nominee calling for an end of what he classed as new deal "warfare" on states' rights.

Listing a series of topics for study by a GOP governors conference at St. Louis next week at a press conference yesterday, Dewey said he hoped the republicans could fix "an area of responsibility to the people," as between federal and local governments, that would settle the problem "not permanently, but for our time, or rather, the next four years."

He stressed the four-year basis of his program at another press conference with Bricker yesterday.

The Dewey objective won immediate applause from Rep. Charles A. Eaton (D-N.J.), who called after a conference with the New York governor, for "the complete reorganization of the federal government on sound business principles."

This is necessary, Eaton said, if the United States is to assume the post-war world leadership, carrying on "tremendous economic relationships with the rest of the world." The 76-year-old ranking minority member of the house foreign affairs committee said he thought Dewey agreed.

Eaton reported he discussed with Dewey aid for the stricken populations of Europe, which the representatives said ought to be on a "gift" basis at first, but without any attempt on the part of the United States to become a permanent world "Santa Clause."

The republican nominee dumped in the governors' conference pot a wide group of subjects, including several on which the party already had taken positive stands in its platform.

Hop Market Slow In Past Week

PORTLAND, July 28 (AP) — Oregon's hop market was quiet during the past week, reflecting the general trend along the Pacific coast, the war food administration said today.

The WFA reported contracting of hops for future delivery at a standstill, principally because of lack of offerings from Oregon growers. Nearly all the 1944 crop is already under contract, and many growers have signed three and five year contracts based on ceiling or market prices with minimum guarantees.

Argentines Demonstrate In Approval of Policy

BUENOS AIRES, July 28 (AP) Several thousand persons, voicing approval of the government's foreign policy with shouts of "Argentines yes, Yankees no," participated last night in an orderly demonstration during which a noise bomb exploded in front of the building occupied by the newspaper La Nacion.

The crowd assembled first in front of the U. S. embassy where, as a precaution, women employes had been sent home early. The explosion, which injured no one but shattered a shop window, occurred as the main demonstration was moving toward the foreign ministry, several blocks away.

Numerous organizations sponsored the demonstration, which came 24 hours after Foreign Minister Gen. Orlando Peluffo in a radio speech had said Argentina would continue her present foreign policy, criticized officially by the United States as favoring the axis.

(A dispatch from Montevideo said travelers arriving from Buenos Aires brought with them copies of a manifesto circulated by the Argentine Federation of University Students protesting against the internal and foreign policies of the present regime.)

From the U. S. embassy the crowd paraded through the principal shopping street to the foreign ministry, where President Gen. Edelmiro Farrell appeared on a balcony and acknowledged cheers.

He asserted Argentina was determined to continue the road she has chosen.

Soldier Medal Holder Able To See After Operation

PHOENIXVILLE, Pa., July 28 (AP)—Blind Sgt. Forrest L. Vosler of Livonia, N. Y., holder of the congressional Medal of Honor, opened his eyes the other morning at Valley Forge General hospital.

The maze of red, blue, green, purple and yellow colors in the Red Cross afghan lying across his feet startled him.

"Gosh, they're bright, just like a technicolor movie, much brighter than I remember when I could see last December."

He could see now—as the doctors said he would.

Now, he decided, he would be able to go to Washington to receive the nation's highest decoration from the hands of the president—maybe even accept Mrs. Roosevelt's recent personal invitation to visit Hyde Park.

Brought to Valley Forge on June 2, his wounded, infected right eye was removed in the hope that the vision in the other would clear.

But young Vosler—not yet old enough to vote—still carries a chunk of shell in his chest from the Flying Fortress raid over Bremen last December.

Their plane, shot down by German fighters, plunged into the North sea and Vosler, wounded and blinded by gunfire, crawled out on the wing, followed by a wounded tail gunner. Suddenly, Vosler, hearing a noise behind him sensed what had happened. The tail gunner, weak from wounds, had slipped into the water.

Without hesitation, Vosler plunged into the water, groped and found his companion and then held him afloat until both were pulled to safety. It was this heroic action that won him the award.

Then came the morning when he awoke and saw the riotous checkerboard of colors in the Red Cross afghan.

"God sure was good to me," he said. "I guess I won't see any more fighting and I wish the war was ended, but I've got to help them out with their bond drives and so on."

'I don't like being toted around as a hero, but if it helps the war, I guess it's the only thing left that I can do."
