Your Store

If you haven't learned by this time that Your Store carries a big selection of Turkish towels, here's a tip. . . . They do. . . . The Artoz and Calloway lines that are nationally famous for their beauty and utility.

You can get these towels singly, and also made up in sets which include a wash towel, hand towel and bath towel. . . . (Those sets make wonderful gifts, and I know several gals who already have bought some for Christmas gifts, because they were afraid the sets would not be available later).

The single towels come at all prices, depending upon the weight of the material, the size, etc. . . . But the sets are priced from $1.98 to $3.25. . . . And you can get beautiful pastel shades that will harmonize with all bathrooms.

Your Store also has a big selection of tea towels. . . . Mexican designs, Swedish, floral, baroque and other colorful designs. . . . At prices from 35c to 89c.

By the way. . . . You can buy towels at Your Store just the way you can buy blankets there. . . . On the lay-away plan, paying as little as 50c down.

As you probably know, Your Store is at 721 Main Street.

Studio of Beauty

SO many people cover their skins to keep from sunburning, but never think about their hair getting sunburned, too. . . . I know I'm neglectful in that respect, and Fern Short at the Studio of Beauty told me that lots of other gals are, too.

The best way, of course, is to protect your hair from the sun. . . . But if it already is sun-streaked you can easily have the faded hair turned to the same color as the rest, Fern told me.

Only an experienced operator should do the work, however, because different treatments are given to dark hair, naturally reddish hair, blonde hair and grey hair. . . . And it takes an experienced operator to mix the solution correctly, so the faded locks will exactly match the natural color of the hair.

Fern says that the girls in the Studio of Beauty have even reversed the process and toned the rest of the hair to match the sun-bleached locks.

One toning of sun-faded locks is sufficient, because as your hair grows, the new growth will be the natural hair color and it will look just the same as the toned-up locks and the rest of your hair.

If you have any more questions about taking care of sun-bleached hair it might be a good idea to talk to Fern Short yourself. . . . She owns the Studio of Beauty, you know, on Whytal's mezzanine. . . . Phone 7151.

Currin's

SOME new powder compacts have arrived at Currin's. . . . And since I've been trying to find a compact for myself for some time, I thought maybe you'd be as interested as I.

There are some big ones. . . . About 3 1/2 x 3 1/2 inches square, made by Rex of Fifth Avenue. . . . They hold loose powder, of course, and have big soft puffs. . . . At $6.45, plus tax.

Another kind, a little smaller, is round. . . . Made by Pilcher. . . . (Currin's has had this line before). . . . For loose powder. . . . And they cost $2.25, plus tax.

And there are some others in silver plate. . . . Small, rectangular ones with enameled or silver designs on the cover. . . . Which sell for $3.75, plus tax.

By the way, before I forget, have you tried LeLong's new liquid cake make-up?

It's called "Quick Change." . . . And is a cream that you spread on with your fingers which gives the same effect as cake make-up. . . . Except that this LeLong cream has an oily base which makes it ideal for dry skins which do not react properly to cake make-up.

Cleansing cream or soap and water will remove it easily. . . . And, as it comes in five shades, you should be able to find yours. . . . It's $2.00, plus tax.

At Currin's. . . . 840 Main Street, on the corner of Ninth and Main.

Garcelon's

A NEW shipment of prints arrived at Garcelon's this week. . . . And while they all are attractive and worth talking about, the Hummels are the ones, of course, that I'm craziest about.

You know what Hummel prints are. . . . Well, these come in several sizes, all the roguish childhood pictures that are most famous, and a number of others I had never seen before but which should be up on top when it comes to popularity.

Prices on the Hummel prints range from $1.00 to $2.50, depending upon the size of the prints. . . . Attractively framed, all of them.

Garcelon's also received a selection of Hawaiian prints. . . . Tropical flowers and scenes. . . . Most appropriately mounted on wood fibre mats, and framed in bamboo. . . . (Some of them really are lovely). . . . They're rather large. . . . And are priced at $5.95.

And then there are some beautiful prints of Crater lake, framed in natural wood. . . . In two sizes, priced at $2.50 and $5.95.

The shipment also included various water colors, etchings and other prints, too varied to mention here. . . . You'd better see them for yourself.

Garcelon's is at 407 Main Street.

IN COMMON
BOISE, Ida.—Glen H. Taylor, democratic candidate for the U. S. senate, and his republican opponent, Gov. C. A. Bottolfsen, shared something in common—a spot on a hat rack.

"Bottolfsen was coming out of a hotel dining room as I went in," Taylor said. "We didn't speak, but he took his hat out of the rack and I put mine in the same place. It was the only spot vacant."

The Kohinor, Southern Star, and Great Mogul, are famous diamonds.

Whytal's

IT was only Tuesday when I was up in Whytal's office talking to Marge, and looked across and saw Betty Weber unpacking the darlings of nightgowns and robes. . . . Betty was on the balcony, so I went on over there to look. . . . And, since it was only Tuesday, I know there must be plenty of these adorable matching gowns and robes left.

They are made of satin, flowered, on backgrounds of white, blue and rose. . . . And would be adorable for school and college, or for brides, or for shower gifts. . . . Or just for yourself.

Both nightgowns and robes have short sleeves. . . . And the gowns have cute little puffed sleeves and the round necklines that flatter a gal so.

They are sold separately. . . . The nightgowns are $6.95 and the robes, $7.95.

At Whytal's. . . . Ninth and Main Streets.

Cal-Ore

HAVE you been to Cal-Ore recently? . . . Well, if you haven't, just about everybody else has. . . . Because it's simply amazing the way you meet people you know there. . . . I mean, I do.

In fact, last week I met a man I didn't know I knew. . . . At first. . . . He's a sort of cousin, who was supposed to look me up, because he's stationed here, but was afraid the relationship was too slight to impose upon.

In the congenial atmosphere of Cal-Ore he quickly lost his shyness. . . . And we became old friends in no time, which is the way in the Klamath country.

CONGRESSMAN MAKES SHORT VISIT HERE

Congressman Lowell Stockman was in Klamath Falls today for a few days' visit before returning to Washington D. C. He is staying at the Hotel Hotel.

Stockman viewed the Klamath naval air station yesterday, and will visit the Marine Barracks in a day or two. He expressed much interest in these latest military installations in his congressional district, and in the local housing problem resulting from their establishment here.

A freshman congressman, Stockman is seeking reelection in November. The 6-foot-6 congressman said that in hurriedly Washington, he found the best way to make his decisions on important legislation is to transplant himself, mentally, to his farm in eastern Oregon, and to try to look at the issues from the standpoint of an ordinary citizen of the district.

"That helps more than the advice and pressure one gets in Washington,—and there are plenty of both," said Stockman.

He remarked, however, that congressional debate, which may seem tiresome and a waste of time from a distance, is valuable as a source of information and the full airing of divergent views on the issues.

CITY BALLOT LACKS NAMES FOR OFFICES

With four city offices to be filled in the coming election, there have been so far no petitions filed or names placed on the ballot, according to the city clerk's office.

Major interest will probably center about the race for the mayor's office. Although there have been no names definitely placed on the ballot, among them mentioned for the post are Walt Wiesendanger and John Ebinger. Present Mayor John Houston has made no public statement yet as to whether he will be a candidate for reelection this fall, but it is reported he plans to retire from local politics this year.

Ruth Bathany, city treasurer for the past 14 years, has stated that she will not be a candidate for that office this fall, so another office will be left vacant for voters to fill.

Two positions on the city council are open for politically-minded aspirants. Councilman A. H. Bussman will not be up for reelection as councilman from ward number one, as he is no longer a resident of that district.

Ward number four, now represented by Wiesendanger, will also be placed on the ballot for the election of a councilman.

County Clerk Mae K. Short has made an appeal to those who might want to obtain a petition for placing their names on the ballot, to do so as soon as possible so that the ballots can be made up in time to send to men overseas and in the service in this country.

Small business is bold and daring. The very large business tends to become conservative and to follow a definite line of procedure. If you want a progressive, free community, keep your little and independent business alive. — Maury Maverick, WPB vice chairman.

'Dead' Sailor Rescued From Guam After 31 Months

By CHARLES W. McMURTRY
U. S. PACIFIC FLEET HEAD-QUARTERS, PEARL HARBOR, July 15 (Delayed) (P)—George Ray Tweed, 42, a navy radioman, was rescued from Guam July 10 after 31 months of touch-and-go nighting in bushes and caves.

The Japanese had offered a reward for his capture, detailed a permanent 50-man search party to hunt him, and finally officially pronounced him dead to save face.

Once aboard a ship which made a daring rescue well within range of Japanese shore guns, Tweed related at a press conference "the first thing I reached for was a slice of bread and butter."

Tweed and a fellow radioman fled Agana town in a car, machine-gun bullets whistling around, after 8000 Japanese swept ashore against the desperate, futile machine-gun and rifle fire of 50 marines and 150 navy insular forces early the morning of December 10, 1941.

Eleven miles away across the island they hid the car and lived a furtive life in the bush. "Sometimes," Tweed told his rescuers, "we lived in caves; sometimes there was no shelter and we slept on the ground. After two months the other radio man proceeded alone. He was killed later.

Weary, lonely months followed in which Tweed often narrowly escaped capture—"Once by only one minute." Eight months after his escape he discovered that two Americans had been captured and executed. Six weeks later he learned two more had been liquidated.

All Americans who surrendered within the first 30 days after the Japanese conquest were sent to Japan. The Japanese broadcast that time would be interred in Japan; that all others would be executed upon capture. Some surrendered; some dug deeper into the bush.

Scalers Needed By Forest Service

Two men interested in three or four month vacation jobs scaling logs out-of-doors are needed by the forest service, reports C. A. Abell, district ranger. Logging jobs are being held up now because of the shortage of scalers, and anyone who would like to work outside Dorris measuring logs is urged to contact the service at Mount Hebron.

Lookouts are needed also during the fire season from now until October, to discover, locate, and report forest fires. Women, as well as men, are now doing this essential work in all parts of the northwest timber area, Abell stated.

A rubber tree has an annual yield of only about four pounds of rubber.

RIFLE RANGE BID OPENING SET MONDAY

Bids will be opened here Monday on a 25-target rifle range to be constructed at the Marine Barracks. The cost of the range is expected to run to about $70,000.

Lt. John M. Babcock, navy officer in charge of the construction program here, will open the bids at 2 p. m. Monday.

Final word has not yet been received here regarding additional barracks at the Marine Barracks, but it is generally understood that such work will soon be authorized.

Brennan and Cahoon, principal contractor on the Marine Barracks, have just been awarded a contract, along with J. A. Terteling and Son of Boise, for a gun re-lining plant at Pocatello and storage warehouse at Arco, Idaho.

An electronic amplifier connected to a small gauge enables designers to detect structural weakness in planes before they fly by measuring the bending, pulling and vibration stresses of various parts of the plane.
