FERGUSON SPEAKS TO TULELAKE ROTARY

TULELAKE — Dr. David J. Ferguson, introduced by P. C. Bergman, program chairman, spoke before the Rotary club Wednesday noon on "Our Allies, China." His address revolved around the comparison of Chinese, British and American civilizations, living standards and economic levels.

"China, oldest of the civilizations still in existence today, has one-fifth of the world's population and one-fourth of the land surface," he stated. Variance in the wealth of the nations of the world, which makes the American soldier wealthy in the sight of the British, will be a postwar monetary problem that will necessitate careful planning to prevent future friction when the war is over," Ferguson commented.

The only visiting Rotarian was R. A. Jacobson, Shafter, Calif. Guests were Jerry Van Buskirk, manager of Balsiger Incorporated, and Al Porter, both of Tulelake.

AUTO FUTURE TALK GIVEN TO KIWANIS

John Ashley of the Ashley Chevrolet company gave a glimpse into the future of the automotive industry in a talk to the Klamath Kiwanis club Thursday as a feature of "Automobile Industry Day" at the local club.

Ashley said that radical changes should not be expected in the first new cars to be manufactured as wartime restrictions relax. The first cars, he predicted, will be much like those now in use, with some superficial differences in appearance. Definitely new models should not be expected until 1946 if it is in 1945 when production of new cars begins, the dealer remarked.

The Klamath man said that it is now anticipated some 2,000,000 new cars may be authorized in 1945. However, he said, the automotive industry plays such a vital part in American economy that once new car production begins, additional cars may be built to keep employment rolling in the automobile factories.

Ashley predicted that the price of new cars will be somewhat above the prewar price.

Figures on automobile "mortality" during the war period were given by Ashley, who said that continued non-production of cars may bring the country soon to a precarious transportation situation.

L. L. Lombard was chairman of the day. Other dealers, Elmer Balsiger and Kasper Moty, on the program committee for the day, made prize and entertainment contributions.

WHEAT

CHICAGO, Aug. 11 (AP)—Grain futures advanced rapidly at the start today but lost about all other gains in late dealings.

Continued drought in the eastern part of the corn belt and the bullish government corn forecast were the main props, but selling developed later, attributed partly to forecasts for rain in the parched corn growing areas.

Futures closed at or near the low points. Wheat was the lower to the higher than the previous finish. September closed at or near the low point to the high of September 8 1/2, and was 1/2 cent lower to the higher, September 11 1/2.
