HOMEMAKING HIGHLIGHTS

SUGAR is about to become a scarce commodity in Klamath Falls, because of the rationing. Under these circumstances, this "sweet quiz" might not be amiss: When does coffee need less sugar? What fruits will help sweeten cereals? When do some foods taste sweeter? In stewing fruits, when should sugar be added? Answers are listed at the end of this column.

POST-WAR NOTE: A new type of coffee package is a box of cellophane-wrapped squares, each about the size of a yeast cake. The ground coffee is compressed and wrapped in moisture-proof cellophane to help hold the flavor. A pull tape opens each square and the contents pour out. A cube makes from two to three cups, depending on individual taste. This new package eliminates the necessity for measuring out coffee and, since each cube is separately wrapped, maintains maximum freshness. Besides, this compressed coffee takes less space.

ELECTRIC IRONS—Two million of them... are expected to be released throughout the country this fall. Just how many will be filtered through to Klamath county homemakers remains to be seen, but at least the news carries with it the breath of hope. In the meantime, keep the equipment you have in tip-top condition.

MRS. TWYLA FERGUSON, Soroptimist house hostess and a sort of mother-by-proxy to the group of young navy wives who stay at the house until they can find more permanent homes in Klamath Falls, came into the home demonstration agent's office Thursday to gather an armful of extension bulletins on nutrition and cooking as an aid to these appealing brides who are bravely trying to create "home" with one room apiece and one three-burner stove among them. (Soroptimist house shelters seven couples at a time.) Besides the general nutrition pamphlets, Mrs. Ferguson was especially eager to get some booklets on meat cookery, because, said she, "Never have I seen so much hamburger in my whole life!"

PESSIMISM being outlawed for the duration, we shall sign off for this week with the optimistic observation that there will be more warm coats and snow suits for youngsters than there were last year (And ignore the signs that if the junior miss needs a new dress Mother probably will have to sew it herself... and perhaps take to knitting underwear by hand. Well, almost!

ANSWERS to "sweets quiz": 1. Coffee before dessert takes less sugar than when served with or after a sweet course. 2. Bananas, and fresh, frozen or canned blackberries, raspberries, strawberries, loganberries, peaches and pears. 3. Foods served at room temperature or mildly chilled taste sweeter than when served very cold. 4. Toward the end of the cooking period; it takes less sugar to sweeten them that way. Adding a pinch of salt will help bring out the sweet taste.
