AAF INSTRUMENT INSTRUCTORS' SCHOOL, BRYAN, Tex.—Sgt. John McGinnis, former Klamath Falls resident, recently completed an eight-week instrument trainer instructor's course at Bryan field, a specialized school in the central flying training command.

At Bryan field where Sgt. McGinnis was stationed, two programs devoted to maintaining and improving the already high standards of performance of the army air forces are conducted.

Student officers, ranging in grade from flight officers to colonels, devote six weeks of intensive study perfecting their ability to guide aircraft through all types of weather. In the instrument trainer instructors' program, enlisted men and officers learn the latest phases of link trainer instruction and are then assigned to operational bases throughout the United States as instructors.

Robert H. Kidwell, 26, son of D. W. Kidwell, 3451 Altamont drive, Klamath Falls, was enrolled recently in an intensive course at the electrical naval training school located at the St. Louis, Missouri naval armory.

Selection to attend the school was made on the basis of his recruit training aptitude tests. The complete course of study includes the practical use of electrical tools, soldering, wiring, diagramming and repairing of telephone circuits. A theoretical phase includes principles of electricity and magnetism.

Successful completion of the course will see the bluejacket graduate with recognition as eligible to qualify for the petty officer rate of electrician's mate third class.
