

"IT'S THE SPORTING THING TO DO"

"Puddle your campfire — Be dead sure it's dead out."

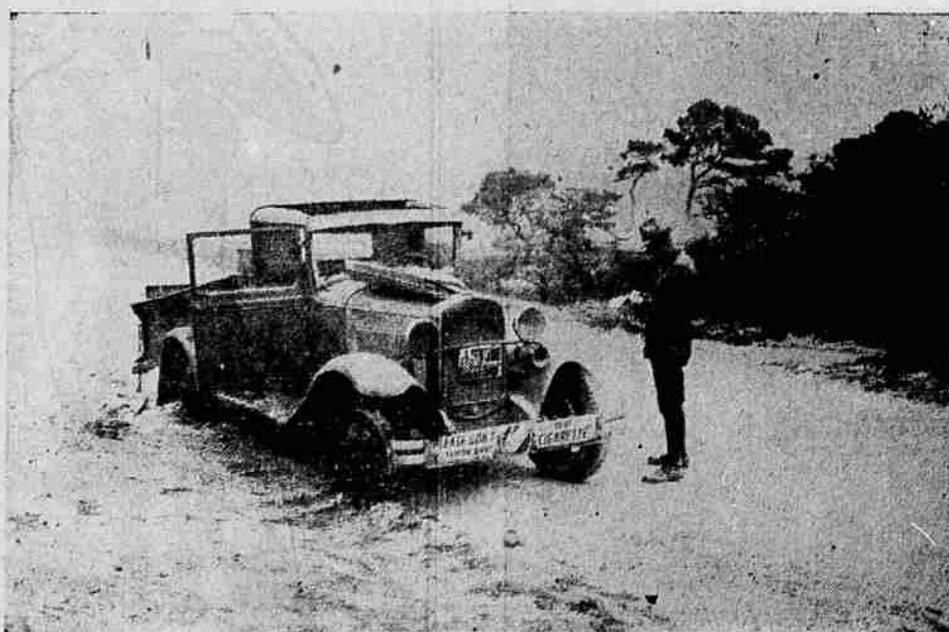

The very essence of good sportsmanship is to obey the rules of the woodsman as to care with fire. The true sportsman knows the awful possibilities of fire let loose in the woods. He knows that one spark will start a forest fire. He plays the rules of the game, and sees to it that other forest visitors do likewise.

Let's All Be Good Sports and Good Woodsmen.

"A match has a head, but can't think. You think for it."

All indications point to a dry, dangerous fall in the Oregon woods. Now is the time for every sportsman, every patriotic American, to play the rules of the game, and keep fire from our great green heritage.

"Use your ash tray."
