

PEARL HARBOR CASE RISES IN WASHINGTON

Flashes of Life

By The Associated Press
COMPLICATED
BOSWELL, Ind. — Edward Dean Finley was one day old today, and so was his uncle. A few hours after Edward's birth yesterday, his mother's mother gave birth to a 12th child.

Edward and his uncle, William Dean Barrett, were reported "doing fine," along with mother and grandmother.

ONE FOR THE BOOKS
TOPEKA, Kan. — Several years of litigation over possession of a business building have ended like this: The district court gave the owner a writ of possession, ordering Sheriff Elb Beal to clear the building of the occupant and his wares—more than a million books. The county had no suitable place to store the books, finally trucked them to some county-owned vacant lots. Thieves carried away six of the first seven truckloads.

END OF A PERFECT DAY
MISSOULA, Mont. — A laundry driver returned to the office at the end of the day, on time with no hitches, no trouble. Then the phone rang and an irate woman said she had received the wrong bundle. "What's the name on the bundle you got?" the manager asked. It was the driver's own laundry.

SURE SIGN
SEDALIA, Mo. — Two glider pilots found themselves accidentally cut off from the C-47 towplane, landed their craft safely and were greeted by a farmer: "Got here as soon as I could. I could tell you were in trouble, because I couldn't hear your motors."

SAME DIFFERENCE
SAN FRANCISCO — Hap O'Connor, one-time catcher, sometime baseball umpire, present custodian of the Bay Meadows press box, says jockeys are plenty smart little fellows, but once in a while— Well, just the other day, one of 'em was asked to spell "Mississippi," says Hap. Brightly, the lad came back: "River or state?"

ANTIDOTE
VANCOUVER, Wash. — A paid ad in the Vancouver Daily Sun urged all voters to listen to Gov. Thomas E. Dewey's radio campaign speeches—but the ad was signed by the Clark county democratic committee. An increase in Dewey listeners would mean more votes for Roosevelt, said Edgar Swan, committee chairman.

U. S. BUSINESS ACTIVITY IN FRANCE EYED

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22 (AP) — A British newspaper's contention that American commercial interests are moving into France behind the conquering allied armies while British subjects are refused entry brought a state department assertion Thursday that the British government has never raised such a point. American officials flatly denied the report, published in the London Daily Mail, but they said they were not surprised by its publication. The British public and parliament, they explained, naturally are nervous about the future of Britain's business interests.

Senator Brewster (R-Me.) expressed the hope to a reporter that the Americans would not seek "undue advantage," but added that if the reports were correct, "I'm sure the British will know how we felt about our being left out of the commercial picture in other parts of the globe."

Brewster was one of five senators who toured the battle areas last year and returned with complaints that better coordination between the British board of trade and the English military leadership had operated to the disadvantage of American commercial interests. Of the Daily Mail's assertion, Brewster said: "My first reaction is one of gratification that at some spot on the globe we apparently have been able to move in quickly. At the same time, we don't want to seek any undue advantage. These are matters of executive policy and will have to be worked out by representatives of the two governments while the war is underway."

"General Eisenhower has always leaned over backwards to assure fair play."

Knowledge From Meteorites
Meteorites, although visitors from far out in space, have added to the knowledge of our own earth's interior. Their composition is believed to be similar to the core of the earth. Oldest assembly in the world is thought to be the Welch bar-die college, the Elsteddfod.

Harvest Moon Shines Again; Full Face Set for Oct. 1

By J. HUGH PRUETT
Astronomer, General Extension
Division, University of Oregon
The harvest moon is shining again, and will attain its greatest splendor on October 1 when its jolly round face will peer over the eastern horizon at about sunset.

For several nights following this full phase, the real significance of harvest moon will be evident, for its rising will then occur only about one-half hour later each succeeding day, thus keeping the early evenings well lighted for many nights in succession. The term "harvest moon" is said to have originated in northern England where the gathering of crops was in full operation in early autumn. The hardy peasants never considered limiting their work to an eight-hour day, but toiled as long into the night as heaven's lights permitted them. The season of harvest moon was especially welcome.

There is an astronomical reason—easily shown by diagrams—for the small difference at this season in the times of moonrise from night to night. But the peasants looked for no scientific explanations. They considered this condition a special intervention of a divine Providence to assist them in the gathering of their crops. The farther north one goes, the more pronounced the characteristics of harvest moon. At some places in Scotland and Canada night-to-night delay in moonrise is only 10 minutes, or even less.

Harvest moon this year occurs somewhat later than usual. According to the established rule the season of harvest moon is centered around the full moon nearest the autumnal equinox. This equinox comes for our part of the world late in the evening of September 22. Of the full moons of September 2 and October 1, the choice is quite evident. The ideal condition poetically for this delightful season is the

ALL OF CITY'S CANDIDATES TO FINISH FILING

Marvin Shepherd remained the only candidate to file for city office at a late hour Friday and his petition was expected before 5 p. m., according to the city clerk's office. Shepherd is a candidate for the office of mayor. Kenneth McLeod Jr., filed late Thursday in the mayorally race. The other two candidates are Walter Wiesendanger and Ed Ostendorf whose petitions have been in for some time. Ballots will be printed tonight in order that they go into the mail Saturday to overseas veterans. This is the first time that such ballots have been mailed out of the nation and more than 1000 are expected to go from the city and county through the county clerk's office.

EARLY CHEWING GUM
Today we chew chicle gum (if we can get it), but before it was known in the United States, a spruce and paraffin chewing gum was made and sold, as early as 1850.

PROTEST FAST BROUGHT TO CLOSE

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 22 (AP) — After Lake broke today what said was an 86-day fast in protest of "political domination" of the rural electrification administration (REA). The 53-year-old former field representative of the REA who was dismissed from the agency June 30, said he wanted to see himself fight further the REA and the proposed Missouri valley authority and public power. "It's the first 'meal' since the he said, was soup, toast and coffee. Several weeks ago added fruit juices to his diet and recently furthered what he said was a power substance prescribed by his physician. During the "fast," Lake said, lost 26 pounds, now weighs 174.

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS
ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY
FORCE, Sept. 22 (AP)—The tenth German general killed or captured by the American seventh army in southeast France has been rooted out from the cellar of a little farmhouse west of the fort gap near Lure. He is Maj. Gen. D. Rodowski, commander of the garrison at Mont Ferand, where Pierre published a newspaper. The force was scattered by the tenth army's drive north from Riviera. Only one Nazi, a non-commissioned officer, was captured with him.

PRESERVED POTATOES
Potatoes are "preserved" by men of India by boiling them slightly, skinning them and letting them dry in the sun. This method of treatment preserves potatoes for 12 months.
