WHEN Tom Dewey was asked in Oklahoma

WHEN Tom Dewey was asked in Oklanoma yesterday how he thought that state would go in the election, he replied that he would leave that up to the folks of Oklahoma. In our league, that was a good answer. We long ago came to the conclusion that the only real way to determine how the political winds blow its to the political winds blow is to old an election. We have recently been asked, by a newspaper in the midwest and by another one In California, to give them an account of political trends in this section. For courtesy's EPLEY sake, we undertook to do it, but we had our fingers crossed between every punch on the typewriter keyboard. Having no claims at being either an oracle or a mystic, our conclusive conclusions were probably disappointing to the recipients.

A lot of the reports on political sentiment that go the rounds before an election emanate from sources with an ax to grind, and they are influenced by wishful thinking and a desire to create a swing among the weak-kneed bandwagon riders who always want to vote for

There are several reputedly scientific polls which, we are sure, are conducted on a purely objective basis. They are more to be trusted than the politicians, the guessers, and the run-of-themill observers, but they are plagued by factors of error that make them more interesting than conclusive.

Recent Elections

GETTING back to our own efforts to answer questions about political sentiment in Oregon and this area, we have been influenced by the results of recent elections, which are after all, the only comprehensive and official poll of sentiment.

Since the great democratic landslide of the early and middle 'thirties, Oregon has been showing a definite trend toward republicanism. This has been indicated by the election of a full republican state administration, republican leg-islature, and a 100 per cent republican con-gressional delegation. The last Oregon general election, of course, was two years ago, and a lot can happen in two years.

The May primary of this year did not reveal any competitive factors as between the parties. It was perhaps significant that the republican vote in the state ran well out ahead of the democratic, but again, hotter primary contests may have had something to do with that.

On the basis of our contention that elections are the only real test of sentiment, we regard a republican victory in the presidential voting in this section and in Oregon as a possibility. Republicans have recently been winning more elections in Oregon than democrats. The fly in the prophetic ointment, of course, is that the trend can be reversed in one elec-tion, or it can be reversed only in the presi-dential contest. You see, we're still punching the keys with our fingers crossed.

Not Downhearted

Arnold and the native were attacked on a trail near a ma-rine camp area. A bullet struck the native in the back. Arnold returned the fire, killing one Jap, but soon expended his one clip of ammunition.

Arnold then attempted to car-ry the native from the area, but the Japs moved closer and pre-vented it.

Balked in his rescue attempt, the marine crawled back to the Jap he had killed and took his rifle and ammunition. He resumed firing and the Japs fell back.

Down the trail, the native's young son, who had followed the pair despite a warning from his father, heard the firing. He ran back to the American camp and in a few minutes a marine patrol reached the scene.

WE do not feel too downhearted about this weakness of ours as a political prophet. What difference does it make, whether we know or do not know how the election is going to turn out?

After all, the election is going to be held. If you will read this paper carefully on the first Wednesday after the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November, you'll get the

The incident was most unfortunate, and we pass the information along in the hope that it won't happen again. Incidentally, it might be well to give any man wearing the uniform of one of our military services the benefit of all doubts.

Purpose of the Show

A T the junior livestock show last night, many buyers offered to put up their purchases for re-sale to benefit some community project, such as the Klamath County Community Fund. This was permitted in one instance, but otherwise, the committee felt it best to reject these public-spirited proposals.

The reason: they felt that if that sort of thing The reason: they felt that if that sort of thing is permitted to be the rule rather than the exception, the real purpose of the junior live-stock show may be defeated, and it will become a community benefit affair rather "lan an event designed to give premium returns to the farm boys and girls of the Klamath country.

This wise decision does not belittle the generous motives of the men who offered the stock

as Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts.

Some folks seem always to be looking for some reason not to give to a public benefit fund. We heard a number of them object to this drive, because the USO at that time was not operating a service center here. Well, the USO is now undertaking a big program here. That takes care of their objection, and we presume their checks will be made out and sent in promptly. sent in promptly.

ENERAL EISENHOWER'S call for action
by organized cells among Hitler's enslaved foreign labor indicates his confidence that allied armies will soon be in Germany in force, and gives the first official intimation that we expect any real help from inside.

There is a vastly different situation among the millions of foreigners in the reich, however, as compared with the French maquis which enabled thousands of soldiers to devote their energies to the main effort.

By every report, Germany has kept a tight hand on her imported labor. These men and women from all over Europe have been confined only to a slightly less degree than prisoners of war. They have had little opportunity to learn the country, or even to meet privately.

Fires of Vengeance

Out of the 8 to 12 millions, of course, there are a great number, even though a small percentage, who have nursed the fires of vengeance, sabotaged the German war effort, and organized for V-Hour. They are closely watched, and may be able to do little until allied armies are so near that industry would be disrupted anyway, but in the aggregate the be disrupted anyway, but in the aggregate the effect may be considerable.

At any rate they may be emboldened by the knowledge that their serfdom is almost over. Eisenhower's call, and today's dimout on news from the Holland front, add to the growing feeling of several days that the big push is about on. That, too, is the meaning of repeated German counter-attacks along the west-wall, whose only purpose can be an attempt to unbalance the forces we have poised for a

WHEAT

CHICAGO. Sept. 26 (AF)— Wheat futures were firm but other grains were sharply lower in early trading on the Chicago board of trade today, corn losing as much as 5 cents a bushel, the limit in one day's trading, at the opening of an active market.

Near the end of the first hour wheat was up is to the lower, with only July contracts owing a loss. Corn was off 2% to 31cc, oats were 1% to 1 act lower, and barley was off 1% to 15cc lower and barley was off 1% to 15cc lower and barley was off 1% to 15cc lower and barley was off 20 (100 cert.)

chicAGO. Sept. 20 (AP)—A flurry of profit-taking swept grain futures pits on the Chicago board of trade today, depressing prices which yesterday had soared upward under the influence of a government announcement that the commodity credit corporation would take over unredeemed loan wheat on biasy 1 at parity levels.

Although wheat was firm at the opening it responded sympathetically to sharp downturns in other grains and at one time lost as much as 2 tests at the outsel, with the December contract spheroistic, with the December contract selling at $1,107$, but recovered somewhat later.

At the close wheat was 4 to 24c lower, December $1,50 to 1,50%; corn was 25t to 35c lower. December $1,121% oats were 25 to 33c lower. December $1,121% oats were 25 to 33c lower. December $1,121% oats were 25 to 33c lower. December 615 to 615c; rye was 15 to 25c lower. December $1,00 to $1,007$; harley was 21 to 21c lower. December $23. Lower. December $23.

The "smudgy small industrial greatly in the minority. The picture which he draws of the east is erroneous as a letter written by an easterner would be if he

the west. His letter would read should — and not come in to town and run afoul of the misfits, as he calls the men whom halls if he hates them so badly?

Does he know that those same men he saw may be working nights or the afternoon shift or the graveyard shift, and our only place to go between hours is into those places he mentioned. The city park is too far
