

Farm Machinery Rationing Ended Today By WFA

STATEMENT WELCOMED BY BASIN FARMERS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28 (AP)—Rationing and distribution control of all farm machinery and equipment, except corn pickers, was ended suddenly today by the war food administration.

The action was announced by War Food Administrator Marvin Jones, who said the 1944 production period and season of use for most rationed implements had passed and that the need for further controls except on corn pickers during the 1944-45 crop year "is not anticipated."

Jones said the ending of rationing of these items was in line with WFA's policy of "constantly examining all of its wartime regulations and removing them as soon as they are no longer essential."

Released from rationing and other distribution controls today are combines, corn binders, manure spreaders, mowers, side delivery rakes, hay loaders, pick up hay balers, wheel tractors, grain drills, potato planters, potato diggers, silo fillers, irrigation pumps, power sprayers, dragon tractors, well water systems, power pumps, farm milk coolers, sheet metal water casing and farm scales.

Only last night a WFA spokesman described reports that rationing of such machinery would end as "astounding," because, he said, farm machinery was one of the "most critical programs."

Controls over corn pickers are being retained, the agency said, in order to assure an equitable distribution of new pickers needed to harvest the big corn crop this year. It added, however, that rationing of that item would be removed "as soon as it is practicable to do so."

Rationing of milk cans and pressure cookers was lifted recently. The order from Washington eliminating rationing of farm equipment today ended the difficult tasks of the Klamath county farm machinery committee, which will probably disband. The committee has handled rationing of the limited supplies of farm equipment in this county.

Many applications for equipment were still pending before the committee when the order came, indicating a probable heavy demand for what equipment is available from dealers. County Agent C. A. Henderson said that the end of rationing will also open up equipment buying back and forth between counties, which was stymied under the old rationing program.

POISON WARNING DEVICES SIMPLE

A bell tied around the neck of a bottle of poison is a simple household safety measure to prevent mistaking one bottle for another, suggests Mrs. Winnifred K. Gillen, home demonstration agent for Klamath county. In a moment of careless haste or in a dim light or darkness, the poison label on the bottle may not be sufficient warning. Something that will catch the attention of the ear or the touch as well as the eye gives extra safety. Mrs. Gillen adds that a careful housewife fastens a strip of adhesive tape over the cork and down the sides of every container of poison. Others stick pins in the cork. Another method is to wrap the small bottle of poison inside a larger container, such as a glass jar with the top screwed on.

All poisonous substances used around the house should be kept locked out of reach of every child, especially in a household where children are at the exploring age. Dangerous substances include not only poison like iodine in the medicine cabinet but also poisonous insecticides, kitchen drain cleaners and some bleaching materials.

Loan Arrangements Set For Oregon Spud Growers

Arrangements by which Oregon potato growers may obtain loans on their 1944 crop under the WFA price support program have just been announced by the state AAA office at Corvallis. These loans may be obtained by producers, grower associations, dealers, and processors between now and December 15, by applying at any county AAA office.

Loan rates are less than the full support price, explains R. B. Taylor, chairman of the state AAA committee, but the grower will be credited with the full support price at the time of delivery in case the potatoes are turned over to the WFA in satisfaction of the loan.

Two loan rates are applicable in Oregon. The rate for the four northeastern counties, Malheur, Baker, Union and Wallowa, is $1.21 a hundred for U. S. No. 1s in farm storage and $1.31 in trackside storage. For the Klamath and central Oregon regions and all other counties except those mentioned, the loan rate is $1.39 and $1.49 for the two kinds

SHEEPMEN TO ATTEND MEET AT CEDARVILLE

Vital matters affecting northwestern and southern Oregon sheepmen will be considered at the annual fall meeting of the Modoc-Lassen Wool Growers association at Cedarville, Monday, October 2.

With owners of most of the 150,000 sheep raised in this area expected to attend, the meeting will be called to order at 2 p. m. by John Laxague of Cedarville, association president and district director of the California Wool Growers association, followed by a banquet at Valentines' at 7 p. m.

Major matters slated for discussion include the government wool purchase program with special attention to present methods of making appraisals and sale of "off" wool; dressed lamb and mutton ceilings, and lamb and meat rationing.

FLAGG PROTESTS RATE REDUCTIONS

Public Utilities Commissioner George H. Flagg today filed strong exceptions with the Interstate Commerce commission against adoption of recommendations by its examiner, George H. Hall, which would drastically reduce rail rates on their processed and fresh meats from midwest points to all the coast region. Commissioner Flagg contends that such reduction in rail rates would greatly injure local producers.

The commissioner pointed out in a brief prepared by his attorney, John H. Carkin, that midwest packers seem to make a try for reduced rates about every ten years. The commissioner stated that it was just a decade ago that ICC went into the matter most exhaustively and then established rates that now prevail, and which rates have enabled coast growers of animals and independent packers to continue in business. And he emphasized his belief that if the Hall report is approved the reduction in shipping rates will not be beneficial to consumers, but will be absorbed by the midwest packers.

Another result will probably prove to be that a number of independent packers, the mainstay of the livestock industry in the far west, will close out their operations, with the consequent removal of the competition which now favors the grower.

Marketing System Could Eliminate Rationing, Report

SALEM, Sept. 28 (AP)—Rationing of beef could be eliminated by orderly marketing of beef cattle in sufficient numbers to remove excessive inventories, the newly-organized western agricultural commissioners' and directors' association said today in a plea to Federal War Food Administrator Marvin Jones.

The association, in a letter signed by its president, E. L. Peterson, Oregon director of agriculture, said that the delay in cattle marketing is causing loss production, an increase in low grade meat, a decrease in better grade meat, and a wider spread between consumer and producer prices.

APPLE JELLY RECIPE SAVES SUGAR, FRUIT

Make It This Quick, Easy Way (WITH FIRM, TART APPLES)

4 Cups Juice
6 Cups Sugar
1 Package M.C.P. Pectin

Wash, remove blossom and stem ends from about 5 pounds fully ripe apples. Cut in small pieces. Do not peel or core. Add 3 cups water and bring to a boil. Simmer 10 minutes. Crush with masher and simmer 5 more minutes. Squeeze out juice. Measure exactly 4 level cups of the juice (add water to fill last cup, if necessary), into a large kettle. Add the M.C.P. Pectin, stir well, bring to a boil, stirring constantly. NOW, add the sugar (which has been previously measured), continue stirring and bring to a full rolling boil. BOIL EXACTLY 2 MINUTES. Remove from fire, let hot subside, skim. Pour into sterilized glasses, allowing 1/2-inch space for sealing with fresh paraffin.

(WITH SOFT, SWEET APPLES)

4 Cups Juice
5 1/2 Cups Sugar
1/2 Cup Lemon Juice
1 Package M.C.P. Pectin

Treat exactly as for tart apples, but add 2 1/2 cups water (instead of 3), and add 1/2 cup lemon juice. Boil and simmer as for tart apples.

DOG NOT MALADJUSTED BY TOUGH ARMY LIFE

PORTLAND, Sept. 28 (AP)—Mr. and Mrs. Carl Hazelwood today reported that at least one dog who hasn't been maladjusted by army life.

Reck, their two-year-old collie, came back from a special rehabilitation training—a course which includes canine vet's of assault-and-battery tactics—as friendly with the neighborhood children as ever.

What's more, his character has improved. For the first time, he comes when the Hazelwoods call him.

SERVICE SLATED FOR HOMEMAKERS

A new service to homemakers was announced this week by the office of the home demonstration agent for Klamath county, when Mrs. Winnifred K. Gillen, agent, stated that a corresponding service for new mothers will be available free of charge to all interested in this area.

The course will take the form of a letter sent to the new parent at strategic points in the life of her young child, from the pregnancy period up to the third year. The letters, written by Lois Lutz, specialist in home management at Oregon State college, contain pointers on feeding, clothing, and training the child, as well as on the altitude information on the part of the parents.

Parents who would like to enroll in the course may do so by calling at the home demonstration agent's office in the post office building or by writing to Mrs. Gillen, Box 645, Klamath Falls. No charge is made for the service, and the letters, 21 in all, will be sent at stated intervals during the early period of the child's life.

PAYMENTS SET FOR GROWERS OF GRASS SEED

Farmers are advised by C. A. Henderson, secretary of the Klamath county AAA committee not to overlook the special payments that are available under the 1944 agricultural conservation program to all farmers who harvest specified grass and legume seeds.

All farmers are eligible for these legume and grass seed harvesting payments regardless of whether they signed up their farms to participate in the 1944 AAA program.

The normal sign-up deadline has been removed from this practice, Henderson points out, "so that all farmers will have an equal opportunity to benefit from the special congressional appropriation of an additional $12,500,000 to encourage farmers to harvest these seeds. The appropriation was not made until after the deadline date for the regular AAA sign-up had passed, the sign-up requirement will not apply to his practice, and all farmers have an equal opportunity to benefit from this added incentive to harvest the critically needed grass and legume seeds."

The practice provides a $3.50 per acre payment in 1944 for the harvesting of legume and perennial grass seeds except soybeans, timothy, red top, Austrian peas, bluegrass, cowpeas and vetch, except hairy vetch. In addition, special payments will be made at the rate of 31 cents per pound for red clover and 23 cents for alsike clover and alfalfa seed, clean basis. Producers must present satisfactory harvest evidence to the county AAA com-
