election and wrote in Tom Dewey's name, claims to be responsible for the "one" in the 50,001 club recently organized in Oregon. He says he must have been the last voter to write in Dewey's name, and without his vote, Dewey would have had only 50,000 votes and there would not be a 50,001 club.

We also know a fellow who intended to write in Dewey's name and forgot to do it. If he had, the total vote would have been 50,002, and there would be no 50,001 club.

News Behind the News

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29.—All officials have been more than a trifle timid in commenting on the Morgenthau plan to cut the industrial segment out of the postwar German map, as well as upon the earlier plans to divide her into three or more parts.

Congress, however, seems to be generally opposed to both, as far as sentiment among the absentee leaders has been canvassed. Briefly their average unexpressed thoughts run about like this:

MALLON

There will be 30 to 40 million people in Germany, or into whatever parts it is divided and these people will have to live or be disposed of in some other way.

If they are unable to make an existence at home, you could dispose of them by following Nazi custom, and allow them to be carted off to Russia as slave labor. Or you could follow another Nazi custom of shooting them.

Things like that might bring on future wars. They brought on this one. They cannot or should not be considered.

Ties With Industry

THE economy of Germany was tied to her industry, not to her agriculture. She never raised enough on her farms to feed her people, and had to import much of her grain, fruits and other foods. But she existed, and largely through the resources of her industrial production in such a restricted way as to give Hitler an excuse for being.

Therefore, I believe the average congressman would favor some plan to keep her at least on a self-sustaining basis. If she can't be demilitarized, assuredly so, it would satisfy them.

If allied commissions have access to inspection or some means of that nature is devised to guarantee no future revolts it could no doubt get congressional approval where any simple dismemberment scheme would fail to stand the test of full debate.

Another point, you hear from congress, off the record, is this:

We will have to occupy Germany, perhaps for a long time. If she is not to have any industry, a WPA will have to be created to feed her indefinitely, and presumably at our expense or at the expense of the allies.

Prevailing Sentiments

THESE are the prevailing sentiments as I get them and thoroughly sincere, not in any way subject to a charge of sympathy for Germany. The justification is purely in our own self interest.

The scheme of Republican Candidate Dewey for internationalization only of the Ruhr valley also might fail in congress to the same objections, although it seems to me to be in a different category, especially if the proceeds from Ruhr industries were used to rebuild the damage which the Germans have done in Europe and thus help to pay the cost of reconstruction.

What to do then about Germany? Shall she be maintained in a reasonable separate coherence, as little burden to us as possible? Should she be all taken and divided and thus reach some degree of economic sustenance for her remaining people? Or should she, indeed, be built up our way economically and crushed only militarily?

No one here yet seems to have an answer to these questions which others will agreeably accept.

Today's Roundup

By MALCOLM EPLEY

THE men and women in the armed services who applied for ballots to vote in Klamath in the November election, totaling between 1050 and 1100, represent probably 20 per cent of all the people in the service from this county.

However, a considerable proportion of the service people are under 21 years of age, and therefore not qualified by age to vote. Therefore, the number of service voters, as compared with service people of voting age, will rise considerably above 20 per cent. It might reach 30 or 40 per cent, which is as good a showing as was made in the primary election by the democratic party, and not far under the republicans.

Considering the various factors involved, the response of Klamath service people to the opportunity to vote was pretty good. Very few civilians, who are absent from the county on election day, go to the trouble to get absentee ballots.

Some of the service ballots, sent to men and women stationed on the Pacific coast, are already coming back. They are left unopened and hidden away for safe-keeping until election day, when they will be counted with civilian ballots.

We know some political dopsters who would give a good deal for a look at those ballots.

Non-Partisan Elections

HOW valuable is party politics in the selection of county officers? That question was brought up here the other day, at the county court divisional conference, when a suggestion was made that consideration be given to putting county offices on a non-partisan basis.

Supreme court and circuit court judges are selected in Oregon on such a basis. In these non-partisan elections, the two highest in the primary election are put on a run-off ballot at the general vote. If one candidate gets a majority of all votes in the primary, he is elected without going into the general election.

Partisan politics has become less and less a factor in selection of local office-holders in the Klamath area. In Klamath Falls, it has been kicked out entirely as concerns the municipal offices. Our guess is there would be little mourning if it were eliminated as a factor in county office elections.

Men Don't Wear Them

THE deer hunting accident record in this county has been pretty good for many years. There have been accidents, fatal and otherwise, but fewer, it seems to us, than has been the rule elsewhere. This may be attributed, in part, to the fact that Klamath has a great many seasoned hunters, who know the tragic potentialities of the conditions that exist in the woods when thousands are out after deer.

Last year, the danger was increased by the open season on does. The old adage, "wait 'till you see the horns," didn't apply. But there is no doe season this year, and the horns become once more a safety factor if hunters will just remember that men do not wear them.

YOUTH GROUP HEARS TALK BY CHAPLAIN

"Christian Youth in Action" was the topic of the address presented by Chaplain S. D. Crothers of the Marine Barracks at the youth banquet given by the Presbyterian church Monday evening.

Chaplain Crothers said that at this time especially there was much that Christian youth could do and that although there were many youths in action today, there weren't enough Christians among them.

During the course of the evening, Pearl Jean Wilson presented the choices of the nominating committee for the young people's council of the church which will head all youth activities.

The committee's choices, which were unanimously approved, are as follows: Steve Stone, president; Eleanor Thomas, vice president; Shirley Robinson, secretary; Frank Nott, treasurer; Dorothea Whiteline, service committee chairman; Charlene Harmon, worship committee chairman; and Doris Yantis, study committee chairman.

PFC Carl Hagel of the Marine Barracks sang two numbers, accompanied by Cpl. Donn Sleen. Also on the program was a song by Alfisa-Farrell, accompanied by Dorothea Whiteline and a skit presented by Steve Stone, Dorothy Cogwill and Mary Lou Case.

Toastmistress for the evening was Bettie Hopkins, who introduced the speakers and entertainment. In charge of the banquet and arrangements was Geraldine Manning Crawford.

CHURCHES SET EVANGELISTIC PROGRAM HERE

Beginning October 22, five of the local churches will have a union evangelistic campaign. These churches are the Klamath Temple, First Nazarene church, Bible Baptist church, First Covenant church, and the Immanuel Baptist church.

The services will be held at the Klamath Temple, one of the co-operating churches. The evangelist will be Dr. C. E. Hedrick, field evangelist of the World's Christian Fundamentals association with headquarters in Glendale, California.

The mid-week prayer services of the five churches will be dismissed next Wednesday, October 4, and a union prayer meeting will be held at the First Nazarene church, Martin and Garden.

All who are interested in reaching Klamath Falls with the gospel are most cordially invited to attend this prayer rally.

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

"Did you hear that Tom is going to be inducted into the Army next week, Judge?"

"Yes, Frank told me this morning down at the barber shop. Our town's got a lot of men in the service now, Jim. In fact, all towns have. I was just reading in the paper where there are more than 10,000,000 men away from their homes in the armed forces. And, from all reports, they're doing a grand job bringing victory closer every day."

"We folks at home have a mighty big obligation to those 10,000,000 fighting men. We've got to produce the food to keep them well fed. We've got to keep them supplied with the ammunition and equipment they need to finish their job. We've got to help the Government pay for all these supplies our men need by buying more and more War Bonds. We'll have another big chance to do that by helping to put the new War Loan drive over the top, Jim."

"And, in addition, we must be sure that, while they're away and can't express their opinions, we don't go voting on and deciding any things that will displease them when they come back."

OPA Rental Program Covers Only Dwelling Properties

Editor's Note: This is the third in a series of articles explaining the newly-established OPA rent control program here.)

By MILO RYAN
Rent Information Specialist

With registration completed, administration of the office of price administration's rent control program gets under way.

But before discussing such phases of the plan as adjustments, evictions and compliance, it might be well to stop for a glance at what rent control does and does not cover.

In the first place, the OPA program reaches only dwelling rentals. It has nothing to do with rates on commercial properties.

Secondly, it does not touch rental of housing accommodations located on a farm and occupied by a tenant engaged in farming the property.

Includes Subletting

Third, it does include subletting, and thus the tenant may himself become a landlord. Every room, cabin, or other small unit sublet by a tenant must be registered and is subject to the rent regulations.

In the office of Daniel D. Gage, OPA rent executive for the Portland district hangs this sign:

"This office operates for two purposes:

1. To prevent unjustified and unauthorized increase in dwelling rentals.
2. To prevent unlawful evictions.

"We are not allowed to give legal advice on state law as it relates to landlords and tenants. For such problems and for other landlord-tenant difficulties, we can only refer you to the proper agencies."

Time-Saver

That sign grew out of long experience with rent control. The time of the local rent office can be saved from waste on irrelevant problems and devoted exclusively to the task of administering the regulations if landlords and tenants will remember the purpose for which the OPA office was established.

Note to tenants: The OPA rent office does not:

1. Furnish a list of vacant dwellings or otherwise find you a home.
2. Say whether or not you can have certain privileges such as pets. That's up to your landlord, as always.
3. Protect you from eviction if you create a nuisance, refuse to pay your rent, or otherwise play the role of a bad tenant.
4. Force your landlord to furnish any services or equipment not furnished on the freeze date or date of first rental.
5. Act as a court of human relations in settling irrelevant squabbles with your landlord or with other tenants.

Note to Landlords: The OPA rent office does not:

1. Equalize rents. It rolls them back to the pre-inflation levels you first set.
2. Control the sale price of your property.
3. Usurp the authority of local courts and law officers in carrying out evictions. OPA merely authorizes the eviction.
4. Collect your rent.

And note to both: In general, if your problem relates to rental rates, services or evictions, the OPA rent office steps in. Otherwise, no.

MONEY ALLOCATED

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29 (AP)—Senator Holman said today the federal works agency has allocated $299,700 for a nurses' home and training facility at Portland and $47,500 for the same purpose at The Dalles.

Five tons of iron ore, coke, limestone and other materials are required to equal one ton of scrap metals.
