Our Home Town
The Course of Common Sense
By EARL WHITLOCK
There is a custom, growing in its general adoption, which seems to me to reflect an increasingly sensible viewpoint on the subject of bereavement. It is the custom of making arrangements for funerals before any deaths occur. On the same principles and in the same spirit in which insurance is taken out and in which wills are made, it is an eminently practical idea, it is considerate, too, to make one's family the decision so often attendant on bereavement, by making all arrangements for them your- self.

If the idea appeals to you, I suggest that sometime at your convenience, you come in and read the outline of this thought still fresh for you. With the understanding, of course, that not the slightest obligation is implied.

Next Monday Mr. Whitlock of an Earl Whitlock Funeral home will comment on THE BEREAVEMENT.

V-SHIP HOLDS UP DESPITE CRASHES

PORTLAND, Oct. 2 (AP)—C. T. Solomon, chief engineer of a Victory ship that steamed 8000 miles despite a 124-goot gap in the bottom, said today that Victories "are the finest cargo vessels afloat."

Solomon was chief engineer on the Luxembourg Victory, which struck two South Pacific reefs in quick succession. The first crash felt "just like a torpedo had hit," he said. "A terrific shudder went through the boat."

The master, afraid a Japanese sub was in pursuit, kept the ship moving. After 14 miles it hit another reef, and piled up with the bow out of water and the stern embedded in sand—"a position that would have cracked most ships in two." But the tanks, though torn open at the bottom, did not leak. The tank tops held tight.

The Luxembourg, pulled from the reef, steamed 6000 miles to San Francisco for permanent repairs. "Although we were badly crippled," Solomon said, "we made the trip at greater speed than many older ships make in their best condition."

The Luxembourg was launched by Oregon Shipbuilding corporation here last February.

No Alleviation Seen in Oregon's Manpower Shortage
SEATTLE, Oct. 2 (AP)—The defeat of Germany will see no alleviation of manpower shortages on the west coast, William L. Batt, international vice chairman of the war production board, said here Saturday.

He predicted the west coast will keep up a full schedule of maritime and plane production until the defeat of Japan.

"The sharpest cuts in war production will be in goods for the ground army," he said. "The war with Japan will be a long, nasty difficult one. The attitude that we can relax one bit when war in Europe ends is tragic and dangerous."

NEW WFA PLAN STARTS BROAD WHEAT BUYING

PORTLAND, Oct. 2 (AP)—A war food administration announcement that it would purchase through the commodity credit corporation all unredeemed 1944 crop wheat on May 1, 1944 was the outstanding market development of the week ended September 29, the WFA reported today.

The immediate trade reaction was to protect requirements and the broad buying which followed promptly advanced wheat, oats and barley futures 5 cents a bushel, the top allowed for one day's trading.

The Portland market did not follow the national trend, and continued to be influenced by local supply and demand factors. Trading in cash wheat continued relatively light on slow demand from all classes of buyers. There was almost no country offering.

There was a general tendency to await developments in the market situation.

Cash bid prices were up 2 cents to 2 1/2 cents on ordinary classes, and 3-4 cents on higher protein hard whites and hard red winters, as the week ended.

Receipts at Portland were 83 cars, at other Columbia river and Puget sound terminals, 237 cars. They represented largely movement of CCC wheat for terminal storage in order to qualify for CCC purchases.

Lack of moisture apparently is delaying fall seeding.
