

MORSE REFUSAL OF FINANCIAL AID ASSERTED

Wayne L. Morse, former Oregon law school dean and war labor board member who is running for Oregon U. S. senator, declared here last night that he has refused financial assistance from labor unions and employers associations.

"I hold that it is the duty of a United States senator to represent all the people in his state, regardless of economic class lines," said Morse at a Willard hotel dinner. "In my judgment this is the keystone of our form of government, our constitutional democracy—this single interest of all our people in the good of all our people. Labor, business and farmers are helped by those governmental actions which help all of them."

"I have told labor unions and employers associations in open meetings that I intend to go back to the senate without a string around a single finger, or not go back at all. It seems to me that if I accept a contribution from an economic group, as such, that the contributors could not help but feel that I was in some way indebted to them as a group."

Discussing farm problems, Morse attacked the philosophy of scarcity and said that solution of farm problems is the solution of distribution problems. He criticized the new deal's system of trade agreement, saying he favors a multi-party agreement rather than two-party trade pacts between nations.

G. C. Tatman, long identified with AFL activities in Klamath Falls and Oregon, stated at the meeting that as a democrat, he favors Republican Wayne Morse for senator, and that he had participated in the endorsement of Morse by the state AFL.

Before he left here for Lakeview, Morse announced he is appointing Phil Hitchcock as Klamath county chairman of his campaign.

Willkie Better Reports Doctor

NEW YORK, Oct. 7 (AP)—Wendell L. Willkie, suffering from a streptococcal throat infection, has been treated with penicillin and is "very much better" today, his physician, Dr. Benjamin Salzer, announced.

Dr. Salzer's office reported that the 1940 republican presidential nominee spent a comfortable night at the Lenox Hill hospital, which he entered September 6 for a rest and physical checkup, and "is not on the critical list."

RELIEF FROM HOUSING LACK HERE POSSIBLE

Relief from the present housing shortage in the Klamath Falls area has just been made possible, George W. Coplen, regional representative of the national housing agency, announced today that this locality has been determined eligible for an unlimited number of residential conversion priorities. This action is in accordance with the recent announcement of the war production board and the National Housing agency that such priorities would be made available in areas where NHA determines that housing shortages are causing extreme hardship.

Apartment houses and other existing dwelling units may now be remodeled or converted to provide smaller housing units. Applications for permission to convert or remodel such structures should be filed with the federal housing administration, a constituent unit of NHA, 5515 Platt Building, Portland 3, Oregon. The applicant will be permitted use of materials contained in the war housing critical list and the rents charged will be under OPA regulations. Occupancy will not be limited to war workers.

Need for providing additional living units for general occupancy in this area has long been recognized but little could be done about it until materials needed to construct housing for war workers could be released.

31 Convictions Obtained in Polygamy Cases

SALT LAKE CITY, Oct. 7 (AP)—Prosecutors marked up 31 more convictions today in their efforts to stamp out plural marriage practices in the west, increasing to 39 the number of individuals adjudged guilty. Fifty-five convictions have been obtained but several persons have been tried on more than one charge.

Twenty men and 11 women were convicted by a district court jury yesterday of conspiring to preach and practice polygamy. Some of them already had been found guilty of other state or federal charges and were included among nine persons convicted of federal Mann act or kidnaping law violations and 15 convicted of unlawful cohabitation.

Groesbeck Explains State School Work

"The study of liberal arts is for the purpose of investing our young people with the experience of the race," said R. C. Groesbeck, member of the state board of higher education, in a talk to Rotary Friday explaining some of the phases of our state school programs.

Groesbeck told of work of the state board in helping "upgrade" high school work, and of the need for adding junior college courses to existing high schools, as well as interpreting the place of liberal arts courses in higher education.

Nelson Reed was chairman of the day for Rotary.

TOKYO TO HONOR JAP INTERNEES

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 7 (AP)—"Memorial services" will be held in Tokyo October 18 for "more than 1000 Japanese internees in America, Canada, Australia and India" who the Tokyo radio said today had died since January. U. S. government monitors reported the English-language propaganda broadcast.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7 (AP)—The war relocation authority said today that only 431 Japanese, interned in WRA camps in the United States had died from January 1 to October 1 this year and 98 1/2 per cent of the deaths were from "natural causes."

The number included 75 at Tulelake, California, segregation center where the government is holding Japanese who have expressed a desire to return to Japan and those of doubtful loyalty to the United States.

Many of the deaths, WRA said, were among elderly Japanese. About one-half per cent of the total died as a result of accidents or suicides.

There are 185,000 telephone operators in the Bell System—the largest number in history. As telephone calls have increased, more people have been added to handle them.

Service generally is good but some Long Distance lines to war-busy centers get crowded. Then the operator may say—"Please limit your call to 5 minutes."

We appreciate the way you're going along with that suggestion.

personal initiative, individual enterprise can help win the war and the peace

Ask any of our boys what they're fighting for. They may not wax poetic, sentimental or dramatic. But they'll all agree that they want a better life for themselves and the assurance that their kids get a chance to grow up in a free community in a world at peace.

Personal initiative, individual enterprise have built small plants into great ones, few services into many. In this war, we as a nation have proved that big and little businesses, working together as a team, can turn out the tools and supplies for battles on a scale hitherto unknown.

As in war, so in peace... Initiative and ability so boldly tried will not be found wanting. We here at the plant are proud of the part we have played in meeting war time problems. We believe in the ability of private enterprise to build a better life for a greater number of people.

We are working harder than ever now... and we are planning, too, for more jobs and greater advances in the postwar period.
