

Renewal of Talks On Foreign Affairs Assured By Parties

By The Associated Press
The presidential campaign today was assured a renewed discussion of foreign affairs by both major candidates.

Gov. Thomas E. Dewey's secretary announced at Albany that the republican nominee's address before the New York Herald Tribune forum next Wednesday would deal with that subject exclusively. The title, said Paul E. Lockwood, will be "This Must Be the Last War."

The White House already has announced that President Roosevelt will address the Foreign Policy Association in New York, October 21, three days after Dewey's speech.

Farmer "Harassed"
Renewed attention to the farm vote brought into the presidential campaign today a republican word picture of the American farmer as a man harassed by "overlapping control agencies" and a democratic assertion that under the new deal once poor soil has been made to bloom.

Those talking were Republican Governor Schoepel of Kansas and Secretary of Interior Ickes.

Schoepel, campaigning at Benson, Minn., for the Dewey-Bricker ticket, complained of "government by directives issued by irresponsible bureaus," and said: "The basic philosophy of the new deal in 1933 was one of scarcity in agriculture. Later the administration reversed this scarcely position and called for greater production. But reversal did not come soon enough to prevent serious scarcities in domestic food."

Ickes pegged his argument, at Salt Lake City, largely on what he called "a campaign accusation" by Governor Dewey that President Roosevelt's administration has neglected the west.

The cabinet member, whose department includes the reclamation bureau, told of its work in irrigating western acreage to such an extent that "the average crop value per acre has increased from $30.10 under republican reaction to $95.84 today."

South Loyal to FDR
While Ickes was speaking to westerners, the democratic vice presidential nominee, Senator Truman, told a news conference at New Orleans that he cannot believe that the south will turn against the democratic party, "that I can't imagine southerners voting for a man like Dewey."

Campaigning hard these days to get the west to vote for the republican party, its vice presidential nominee, Gov. Bricker of Ohio, traveled to Tacoma, for a speech tonight.

Added Tax Power
Bricker suggested at Wenatchee that local governments should be authorized to tax federally-owned property "to maintain their financial independence without looking to the federal government for handouts."

Dewey's secretary summarized his speeches for the rest of this month as: October 16, St. Louis; October 18, New York Herald Tribune forum; October 24, Minneapolis; October 25, Chicago; and October 31, Buffalo, N. Y.

Rep. McCormack (D-Mass.) in a Boston speech said that Dewey had injected racial and religious issues into the campaign by saying that "We are pledged that our government shall not again use its power to set race against race, creed against creed, or class against class."

Senator Pepper (D-Fla.) told a New York news conference that John Foster Dulles, Dewey's foreign affairs adviser, is offering "an open threat that members of his own party will repeat their performance of 1920, when they destroyed peace, unless Mr. Dewey is elected."

Have a "Coke" = Here's your reward

... or being a good neighbor in Nassau

Underwater exploring in a homemade diving helmet is a novel sport in the West Indies. But the refreshment that's always welcome afterwards is the same as here in the States—ice-cold Coca-Cola. In Nassau as in New York, the pause that refreshes makes a refreshing interlude after strenuous work or play. In many lands around the globe, Coca-Cola has become a high-sign of friendliness, just as it is in your own home.

HIGH SCHOOL News Notes and Comment

By JUANITA SHINN
Because this columnist is one of the unfortunates who is being initiated into the Pop Peppers today, this column will be short and sweet.

Along with the usual lipstick complexion and familiar red pepper around each new member's neck, a fine assortment of disagreeable sights meets the eye. All initiates are wearing long underwear on backwards, black bloomers (grandma fashion), a man's jacket on backwards, a glove on wrong side out and backwards, at least six pig-tails with a tin can tied to each one, a high-top boot on the left foot, a wool sock held up by a man's garter on the other, and a high-heeled shoe.

Each girl carries a dishpan with her books and anyone else who feels they are too weak to manage their own.

All of this doesn't seem enough to satisfy those initiating, so they line up the girls and have them roll down the hall, charge gracefully here and there yelling "Hi, Ho Silver" and other such phrases. Then, of course, there are those who cannot speak to any boy except "K" club members, and that is just to get their pepper signed.

Maybe it's the way we live, then maybe it's just getting even with someone for the initiation that the old members suffered through last year. At any rate, everyone, including the "goon girls," is enjoying himself.

Sen. Bone Prepared 'Little Memorandum' In Albi Case, Report

SPOKANE, Oct. 11 (AP)—The Pic magazine article which Joseph A. Albi, president of the Spokane athletic round table, declares libeled him, was a "little memorandum" prepared by U. S. Senator Homer E. Bone, it was revealed yesterday when a letter from the senator to the magazine editor was introduced in evidence at Albi's $250,000 action against the company and its Spokane distributors.

Bone said in the letter that members of congress had been incensed by the "bundles of congress" campaign sponsored by the round table and asked him to give the facts. He said he had "prepared a little memorandum" and assured the editor the facts were correct. He said he had no desire to appear as author of the article.

Cordon Challenged To Radio Debate

PORTLAND, Oct. 11 (AP)—Sen. Guy Cordon was asked today to meet his democratic opponent for the senate, Willis Mahoney, in a debate to be broadcast over the state.

Mahoney wrote Cordon that he wanted to discuss Cordon's recent Eugene statement that Thomas E. Dewey had presented the only concrete plan for a permanent peace.

"I contend that Mr. Dewey started out on an ambiguous peace plank adopted at the Chicago republican convention," Mahoney wrote, "and was later stamped aboard the Roosevelt peace plan."

Mahoney said he would also debate reconstruction policies and the Kilgore unemployment insurance bill.
