

Temperature Hits High in Politics; FDR Slates Speech

By The Associated Press
President Roosevelt has decided to deliver a major address in Philadelphia the night of October 27, exactly a week after Gov. Thomas E. Dewey's bid for the Keystone state's 35 electoral votes.

Mr. Roosevelt will speak from Shibe (baseball) park, Governor Dewey from a Pittsburgh armory.

David L. Lawrence, democratic national committeeman for Pennsylvania, today announced arrangements for the president's first away-from-Washington campaign address after a White House conference attended by other members of Businessmen for Roosevelt, Inc.

The organization, Lawrence said, was formed in August "to make articulate what we know to be the political view of the great mass of business people."

Names Called

The political temperature already had climbed today under hot applications by Governor Dewey and Senator Truman, Dewey calling the Roosevelt administration "the most spectacular collection of incompetent people who ever held public office," and Truman labeling Dewey a "fence straddler" with a low opinion of American capacity.

Also warming things up were Interior Secretary Ickes and Rep. Clare Boothe Luce. Ickes said the republican presidential candidate's "one principle is to do whatever is necessary to be elected."

Hitlerian Committee

Mrs. Luce, saying the CIO political action committee was "Hitlerian in concept" and stemmed "from the philosophy of Karl Marx," declared that this group of Roosevelt supporters "is Nazi German sauerkraut with soviet Russian dressing."

Truman, running for vice president with Mr. Roosevelt on the democratic ticket, speaking in Los Angeles, also posed some questions. Saying that "for six years the republican candidate has been seeking the presidency," he asked:

"Do you remember the republican candidate as a courageous leader who took strong stands... that were proved correct by subsequent events? Or do you remember him as an office seeker dealing in platitudes and sitting on the fence waiting to find out which way to jump?"

"Sights Too Low"

In 1940, Truman said, Dewey pooh-poohed the president's goal of 50,000 planes, whereas "we are building airplanes at... twice the number Mr. Dewey said was impossible." Truman drew the conclusion that "under a president like the republican candidate, we would have set our sights too low."

Ickes, in his speech at Newark, N. J., likewise called Dewey a straddler, saying "the republican word weavers and advertising experts are trying to persuade you to accept an ersatz, synthetic Mr. Dewey of luminous convictions."

Mrs. Luce's appearance was before a Pittsburgh audience, to which she said, "Mr. Dewey's opponent is indeed indispensable to the communist-controlled political action committee."

In Washington today, R. J. Thomas, president of the CIO United Auto Workers and treasurer of the national citizens political action committee, said in a formal statement that Mrs. Luce had asked PAC support for her own campaign and now "seems to be giving a demonstration of another playwright's lines: 'Hell hath no fury like a woman scorned.'"

Gov. John W. Bricker, the republican vice presidential candidate, said in an address prepared for a Santa Ana, Calif., appearance that reconversion "like the task of winning the war must be on a nationwide basis."

Noting suggestions that when Germany falls, industries in the east could be switched to civilian output while the west continues to turn out weapons, Bricker asserted that victory over Japan "is the responsibility of all our country. Any other policy would delay the day of final victory."

Local Draft Board Has Anniversary

Klamath county selective service boards one and two, along with other draft boards throughout the country, Monday observed their fourth birthday. October 16, 1940, was the day the selective service system officially went into effect and was the date of the first registration all over the country.

Six Klamath county men were appointed by the governor four years ago to serve on the two local draft boards and with the exception of one, membership on both boards is still the same. H. N. Moe was forced to resign as a member of board one, because of ill health.

On the two boards at present are: board one—C. O. Dryden, chairman, Alfred D. Collier, secretary, and Godfrey C. Blohm, board two—Fred H. Heilbron-ner, chairman, Frank J. Schmitz, secretary, and S. P. Dehlinger.

Holding the clerks' positions for the two boards for the entire four years have been Ted Case, clerk of board one, and Mrs. Mary Case, board two clerk.

SALT LAKE CITY—Superintendent of Mails J. W. Brambrough has received a protest to his rule barring registration of overseas love letters on grounds they are not important documents. Wrote eight GI's from the South Pacific:

"Put yourself in a soldier's place. Imagine you are in a fox-hole, hungry and wet. Which would you rather have, a document or a letter from home?"

FOOD FOR THOUGHT
PAYETTE, Idaho—Businessmen and dehydrating plant employees packed lunches this week or went hungry.

The community's two sandwich shops closed for lack of help. And nothing has been heard of the town's two cafe operators, who shut down temporarily two weeks ago with the announcement they would resume after the deer season.
