Today's Roundup

By MALCOLM EPLEY

TOM DEWEY'S hard-hitting speeches have become the highlight of the 1944 political campaign. He is giving the Roosevelt opposition something that was entirely lacking in the Hoover, Landon and Wilkie efforts. He has managed, as others failed to do, to get the Roosevelt forces on the defense, and by the time they have contrived an answer, he is tossing another hot one at them.

Regardless of the outcome, Dewey is giving the country a campaign to remember. Those who have seen an able, aggressive district attorney in action will recognize the same effective tactics in the Dewey drive. His direct argument to the jury of the American people is good, and his rebuttal is sharply pointed at the major claims of the opposition.

Landon was sound and folksy, but he lacked punch and color. Wilkie was big, bluff, sincere and bungling. The suave, confident Roosevelt took them both for a ride.

This time, he announced his intention of remaining aloof from the campaign in its "ordinary political" features; had he persisted in doing that, Dewey, who needs an active opponent for his type of campaigning, might have had trouble in getting going. But Dewey got the old master down from his high horse, where he is fighting an entirely different brand of opposition, and where the paternalistic ("now children, just vote for me and everything will be all right") appeal doesn't sound so good.

So, it has turned into an interesting and challenging campaign. And it is evidently going to get out the votes, after all.

Let's All Vote!
INCIDENTALLY, there has been a lot of bunkum spread about this matter of getting out the votes. Fourth term advocates have alleged that the republicans were hoping for a small civilian vote and would benefit thereby, and also that the republicans were hoping for a small soldier vote and would also benefit from that.

There has been no evidence to support such assertions. In this country, democrat, republican and non-partisan agencies have urged voter registration and are now urging people to vote. That seems to be what is going on everywhere.

This column, which can hardly be regarded as a Roosevelt supporter, has always urged voter registration and a full vote in Klamath county, and is doing it again this year.

Regardless of how Klamath county goes in this election, we sincerely hope that its volume vote will set all-time records. It has been in the democratic primaries of recent years that the most miserable showing of volume voting has been made. Republicans haven't had much to brag about, but the democratic record has been startlingly bad.

Making no bones about our convictions, let us say today that we hope the democrats will turn out en masse and vote for Dewey and the end of a prolonged one-man regime, whether that happens, we hope they turn out en masse, any way. The same goes for republicans.

Wine Bill
ON YOUR ballot at the election will be found a measure that is generally called the "fortified wine bill." This bill was passed by the last legislature, and it provides that fortified wines can be sold only in state liquor stores and agencies. The wine interests put through a referendum, forcing a vote of the people on this bill, and are now waging a hard campaign to defeat the measure.

Fortified wines were originally sold in state stores and agencies, only, under the Knox act. In 1935, the wine interests succeeded in getting the legislature to amend the act to permit sale of fortified wines outside the state stores, and they are now sold in grocery stores, restaurants, road houses, and elsewhere, without liquor permits being required. The measure to be on the November ballot will put these wines back in the liquor stores, where, we think, they belong.

Law enforcement officials with whom we have talked about this are strongly opposed to the general package store sale of fortified wines, which they regard as habit-forming and mainly responsible for the unfortunate alcoholics commonly known as "wineos."

The opposition to this measure, springing chiefly from California wine interests, is using the bugaboo word "prohibition" in an attempt to scare up a "no" vote on the measure. It is not a prohibition measure. The opponents also have pointed to the word "give" in the wording of the bill, claiming that means one will not be able to serve guests or friends. Courts have held that this interpretation is erroneous. We vote 312 X YES.

News Behind the News

By PAUL MALLON

OUR TOWN, Oct. 24.—This is our town, U. S. A., just like many another I suspect, and a rather astonishing place right now for everyone in it.

I should not say "astonishing" because no one is astonished at anything these days. Its peculiar condition is a chief subject of conversational concern among its residents, although not yet recognized in public statements. It just seems to be growing into something no one understands.

There is our plumber, for instance, as good a plumber as there ever will be. His integrity shows in his work. When he fixes a pipe, you know it is fixed, which is perhaps an unusual thing in itself these days.

In the past year, there were only three days out of the customary 365 in which his entire force of help appeared for work. They are making such high rates of pay that they can live comfortably (to the fullest of the liquor ration also) by working only half the time, and nothing can get them to work the other half. He keeps 12 men on the pay roll in order to get the six necessary for his business.

Bricklayer Quits

I CALLED the best bricklayer in our town to do a little job. He said he had gone out of business. His health could not stand the strain of trying to keep his troupe of bricklayers together, as none wished to work regularly.

It was not worth the trouble to try to handle them because you could never get a job done. He opened, instead, an old blacksmith shop which had been closed for 30 years. Yes, sir, our leading bricklayer has become a blacksmith, a symbol of our progress.

The hotel manager in our town is a superior fellow, has had top experience in New York City, a progressive kind of manager who wants to make his food better, his place efficient and superior. He broke down trying to do it, and after a few weeks in the hospital is now taking a month's rest.

His waiters made enough money to allow them to retire each pay day and return, either rested or bleary-eyed the following Tuesday or Wednesday. His maids went off to the local war factory where they could make $30 a week and more standing around doing practically nothing. Some days only one employee showed up.

What has happened to our town? No one wants to work. No one who can live otherwise wants the responsibilities of an employer. It is not a manpower question (the men are here) or an economic question involved in all those statistics the government bureaucrats wrangle about. It is a state of mind, a condition for which there seems no remedy.

Double GI Pay
THE elderly couple down the street finally got a man to wash their windows this fall, but he wanted $8 a day for that simple task and they could not afford it. The kitchen maids ask $30 a week—more than twice as much as a soldier fighting at the front—and sometimes get it.

But like others they do not want to work, as a group, and they increase their salaries while cutting their hours of labor and their days off, laying off when they accumulate enough money to rest up for a few weeks. They seem to be working toward a three-day week also.

Is this a war situation or a local phenomena? I think not. It is not a war question because it started long before the war. Indeed, it is the same condition to which most authorities ascribe the fall of France and it ruined communism in Russia.

When conditions encourage people not to work, they naturally will not work, and when a nation does not work it deteriorates and gives its eminence to nations which are producers. A nation has no wealth except the product of its labors and when the production falls off, for any reason, it declines.

Future Worries Loom
BUT what bothers me is the future. The government is pledged to an inflationary post-war policy of high wages and high prices, thus continuing the conditions which are causing the unofficial institution of the three-day week, of work avoidance and employer retirement.

How then will this country maintain production? When the pressure of war is off, will it not be worse?

I know labor leaders who doubt that the union people in our war factories can be kept at their jobs after peace in Europe. I hear authentic predictions of a breakdown in American production before Japan can be conquered.

This is our town already. Will it soon be our country?

What Is Wrong When Prayer Fails?
Thirty years ago, in Forbidden Tibet, behind the highest mountains in the world, a young Englishman named Edwin J. Dingle found the answer to this question. A great mystic opened his eyes. A great change came over him. He realized the strange Power that Knowledge gives. That Power, he says, can transform the life of anyone. Questions, whatever they are, can be answered. The problems of health, death, poverty and wrong can be solved. In his own case, he was brought back to splendid health. He acquired wealth, too, as well as world-wide professional recognition. Thirty years ago, he was sick as a man could be and lived. Once his coffin was brought, Years of almost continuous tropical fevers, broken bones, near blindness, privation and danger had made a human wreck of him, physically and mentally. He was about to be sent back to England to die, when a strange message came—"They are waiting for you in Tibet." He wants to tell the whole world what he learned there, under the guidance of the greatest mystic he ever encountered during his twenty-one years in the Far East. He wants everyone to experience the greater health and the Power, which there came to him. Within ten years, he was able to retire to this country with a fortune. He had been honored by fellowships in the World's leading geographical societies, and today, 30 years later, he is still so athletic, capable of so much work, so young in appearance, it is hard to believe he has lived so long. As a first step in their progress toward the Power that Knowledge gives, Mr. Dingle wants to send to readers of this paper a 9000-word treatise. He says the time has come for it to be released to the Western World, and offers to send it, free of cost or obligation, to sincere readers of this notice. YOUNG DRIVERS PROBLEM EYED BY COMMITTEE

Action on the part of the city council to correct the situation as regards 17-year-old drivers, was urged by the traffic safety committee in a recommendation presented to the city fathers in session Monday night. The statement was signed by John Sandmeyer and was as follows:

"Due to present conditions in the state of Oregon law and interpretations given it by local courts governing 17-year-olds or younger automobile drivers, and proper jurisdiction and disposition of cases involving this age group, it is the recommendation of the Klamath Falls traffic safety committee to the council that action be taken to correct the present situation.

"We believe, that as a group interested in traffic safety, our assignment is to determine and apply correction of traffic hazards. However, in the case of the juvenile group of drivers, the solution is not within the powers of our committee. Evidence examined indicates strongly a need for revised manner of enforcement. We believe of considerable magnitude and complexity and deserves thorough research and definite action on the part of city officials and other interested parties."

Councilman Rollin Cantrill recommended that the matter be referred to the judiciary committee and the mayor to work out and take necessary steps for correction by the state legislature and that action be made part of the future minutes of the council.

DOG ORDINANCE READ TO COUNCIL

Last night's city council meeting, stormy as it was, produced one laugh, when Police Judge Harold Franey presented the third and final reading of the dog ordinance and twisted his words around.

"When a dog is bitten by any person," read the judge, and then immediately reversed the wording.

Other business included a recommendation by Councilman Walter Wiesendanger, that property owners rake up their lawns. City Engineer E. A. Thomas reported the new cemetery road was now in the process of being oiled by C. A. Dunn, contractor.

Flashes of Life

By The Associated Press SQUEAKY

SEATTLE, Oct. 24 (AP)—Unless he has an extra artificial leg handy—noisless preferred—a brokerage firm messenger who disappeared with $3000 may not get far.

G. E. Ledbetter, partner in the brokerage firm, told police the man was unreported since starting for the bank with the money. A clue: He has a squeaky cork leg.

BAD SAMARITAN

DENVER, Oct. 24 (AP)—Mrs. Callie Smith told police she tried to retrieve two money sacks which had fallen on to the street from the open door of an armored car.

She wanted to return them to the driver who drove away unaware of his loss. But she wasn't quick enough. A man scooped up the sacks—one containing $250 and the other $2000 pennies—placed them in a truck and sped away. He told Mrs. Smith: "I'll catch up with the car and give it back to them."

IRONY

CHICAGO, Ill., Oct. 24 (AP)—Nathan J. Zabiska, owner of a burglar alarm system, was the victim of a robbery.

He told police his car was forced to the curb by a motorist, pointed a gun at him and took his wallet containing $22.

TWO-WAY STRETCH

SALT LAKE CITY, Oct. 24 (AP)—For two decades a rubber tree remained a tiny plant in a flower pot until somebody had the bright idea to transplant it to the University of Utah greenhouse four years ago.

Now, despite severe prunings, its branches touch the greenhouse roof and threaten two walls. Employees are eyeing an axe, but hope to find another solution.

WHO MADE THE JOBS?

These days nearly everybody has a good job at good pay. But where did all this prosperity come from? Who made the jobs? You know and I know—it was the WAR that made the jobs—not the NEW DEAL! In 1939, after seven years of the New Deal, NEARLY TEN MILLION AMERICANS WERE STILL UNEMPLOYED, according to American Federation of Labor figures! And don't forget—the amount now being deducted from your weekly pay is bigger because of New Deal peace time extravagance and waste!
