RENT CONTROL ROLL BACK NOW UNDER WAY

Rolling back abnormally high rents in Klamath Falls was under way this week, when rent control officials docketed the first cases of this kind to be handled in the local office. Action was started on houses rented for the first time since October 1, 1943, the maximum rent date, which were found by inspection to be substantially higher than similar accommodations on the freeze date.

E. J. Eivers, regional field representative whose territory comprises the seven western states, is here and is working with Marvin Hixon, local rent examiner, in setting up comparability data for use in future actions originating in the local office.

Eivers has had several years experience in real estate activity in Klamath Falls and has conducted several rental surveys here in the past. Registrations are slow in coming in, according to Hixon. "Not more than half of the rentals are registered, as nearly as we can estimate, and the registration period is nearly over. Landlords are inviting prosecution and subjecting themselves to the penalties provided by law if they fail to register rentals within the registration period as publicly announced."

Walter T. Durgan, rent attorney assigned to this area, was here last week checking up on registrations and other activities of the office.

Campaign Quiet, But Vote Expected to Hit Record

By PAUL W. HARVEY, Jr. (Ed. Note: This is the first of five articles on the candidates and issues of the November 7 election.)

SALEM, Oct. 30 (AP)—Oregon's general election campaign has been comparatively quiet, leading many political observers to say, "the people aren't interested in political news; their attention is on the war."

The campaign has been rather dull, but the people are interested. Otherwise, they wouldn't have flocked to register so they could vote. A record vote is expected. Of the more than 600,000 registered, nearly 500,000 ballots are expected. The registration total is unknown, because it doesn't include many of the soldiers' ballot applications.

Woo Voters Most of the interest has been in the presidential contest, and the fact that Oregon's six electoral votes are considered important is evidenced by the fact that the republican candidates, Governors Dewey and Bricker, and Sen. Harry Truman, the democratic vice presidential candidate, all came to Oregon to woo the voters.

National party leaders agree that the election might be so close that the outcome might depend on the far west. So it might depend on Oregon. And Oregon's result might depend on the more than 40,000 soldier ballots. Oregon, long a rock-ribbed republican state, has voted for Roosevelt each time, but in 1940 Wendell Willkie lost the state by only 30,860 votes, Roosevelt winning 258,415 to 219,555.

Willkie Won Nine In 1932, Herbert Hoover carried only Benton county, Roosevelt winning the other 35 counties. In 1936, Landon didn't carry a single county, but in 1940 Willkie won nine of them — Polk, Marion, Benton, Linn, Douglas, Josephine, Jackson, Wheeler and Umatilla.

Presidential Candidates Norman Thomas, socialist, and Claude A. Watson, prohibitionist, also are on the Oregon ballot. However, both are listed as independents, as their parties are not large enough to win a place on the ballot. Two senators will be elected this year, it being the first time that has happened.

Morse vs. Smith For the six-year term, Wayne Morse, Eugene republican, former dean of the University of Oregon law school and former member of the war labor board, opposes Edgar W. Smith, Pendleton democrat, farmer and business man, and member of the state board of higher education.

Morse has the endorsement of labor, which regards Smith as conservative. Morse ousted Sen. Rufus C. Holman in the May primaries.

Cordon Opposes Mahoney

Sen. Guy Cordon, Roseburg republican who was appointed to succeed the late Sen. Charles L. McNary, seeks reelection for the four-year unexpired term. He is opposed by Willis Mahoney, Klamath Falls democrat who has made several attempts, all without success, to be elected governor or United States senator.

Cordon promised to complete Senator McNary's forestry development program, and to obtain federal funds for irrigation, highways, rivers and harbors, and flood control. He is an attorney and long worked in behalf of the Oregon and California land grant counties.

Mahoney, also an attorney, once served in the Washington state legislature, and has been mayor of Klamath Falls. He is running on President Roosevelt's record, advocates the Townsend old age pension plan, higher wages, cheap power, big veterans benefits and curbing of monopolies.

Servicemen's Liquor Hours Extended

PORTLAND, Oct. 30 (AP)—Oregon's liquor stores will sell to servicemen from 12 noon to 8 p. m. under a liquor control commission rule extending the previous open hours.

The commission also ruled that servicemen not on duty may purchase beer from 10 a. m. until midnight, and consume liquor on licensed premises between 4 p. m. and midnight.

The changes were made after clarification of army and navy rulings, extending hours when personnel may buy liquor.

Angell Asks Change In Turkey Rulings

PORTLAND, Oct. 30 (AP)—The OPA has been asked to change turkey regulations which Rep. Homer D. Angell claims will pull cull birds on the market at prime prices.

In a telegram to the agency the Oregon republican charged that marketing rules were forcing growers to pay up to $1 per bird for processing, in place of the customary 35 cents.

War Chest Funds Show Increase

SALEM, Oct. 30 (AP)—Oregon's war chest lacks less than $314,000 for its $2,484,447 goal.
