The veteran gumer survived the unenviable experience of parachuting into the key waters of the English channel. As a spine-tingler it took precedence. Struck by nazi flak just before leaving the French coast, after hitting a nazi airfield in France, the aircraft in which Sgt. Hayes was flying lost the use of tifree engines and was losing altitude at 1200 feet per minute when the pilot gave the order to jump.

"I got out of my parachute harness about 20 feet above the channel," the Oregon combat man recalled, "and went under the water so deep that I thought I'd never reach the surface. But I did, got my "Mae West" inflated and in about a half hour was picked up by seamen from a French destroyer. They had spotted me going down."

The trailer will be on the road this month, going from county to county, and should be in Klamath by spring.
