Today's Roundup

THE pro and con of the state school support amendment which have made it one of the controversial measures on the November 7 ballot will undoubtedly clash in the mind of the voter who studies the proposal conscientiously. We confess it has been difficult for us to reach a conclusion on this amendment, which is No. 8 on the state ballot, and we note that such eminent public-spirited and tax-conscious editors as Charles Sprague (pro) of the Salem Statesman, and Robert Sawyer (con) of the Bend Bulletin, are in disagreement on it.

Provisions of the Measure

THIS constitutional amendment obligates the legislature to provide a state school fund, on the basis of 45 cents per pupil per day of attendance in the public schools of the state. It frees the legislature of the 6 per cent tax increase limitation in meeting this obligation, and it provides that until 1950, $8,000,000 of the raised revenues must be used as a property tax offset. How to raise and distribute the money is left to the legislature.

Favorable Arguments

HERE are the cogent favorable arguments, as we see them:
1. The measure writes into the constitution the principle of substantial state support for schools—the collection of taxes on a broad, statewide basis, similar to the county unit principle found so equitable in Klamath county. Distribution according to this theory, will tend to equalize educational opportunities for all Oregon children, regardless of the extent of taxable real property in any particular district.

where good administrators and teachers can be kept from going to nearby, higher-paying states. It will provide, theoretically at least, a reduction in local school district taxes, inasmuch as it requires that $8,000,000 be a property tax offset until 1950.

Unfavorable Arguments

THESSE are among the unfavorable arguments advanced against the measure:
1. It is questionable public policy to freeze into the constitution a plan for state school support, including an arbitrary amount to be raised. Thus, if the plan proves unsatisfactory under changing conditions, it cannot be altered without laborious amendment by vote of the people at a general election.

Our Comment

WE believe strongly in the principle of state school financial support—strongly enough to support a constitutional amendment to that effect. We have been impressed with the equitable features of the Klamath county unit program, and can see where a state basis of taxation and tax money distribution will bring an equality of educational advantages to all Oregon children—those in remote or poor areas as well as in the larger or richer districts.

Our Decision

WELL, we are going to take the course that forces the issue, so far as our vote is concerned. We endorse the principle of this amendment, we think the Oregon public should be brought face to face with the need for revision of the state tax structure, and we are going to go along for this amendment in the hope that it will bring about that revision at an early date.

VICTORY CAMPAIGN INTEREST INCREASES

The Victory campaign being held at the Klamath temple in Klamath Falls is a union campaign sponsored by several local churches.

The five local churches sponsoring the Victory campaign are the First Covenant, Bible Baptist, Klamath temple, Church of the Nazarene, and the Immanuel Baptist.

Interest has been increasing and it is expected that the closing days of this special series of meetings will be the best.

Dr. C. E. Hedrick, field evangelist for the World Christian Fundamentals association is the special speaker.

Day Saints hold their services in the auditorium of the city library, 9th and Klamath. Priesthood meeting Sunday morning at 9:30. Sunday school continues at 10:30. Sacrament meeting at 8 o'clock Sunday evening. E. E. Burrows, branch president, phone 6293 or 6731.

Evangelist Hedrick was recently active in war work for our country and has been relating many interesting experiences in his personal work among our service men.

The following are some of the subjects to be taken up during the coming days: "The World's Greatest Earthquake and Christ's Return to the Earth," "The Wages of Bloodless Religions," "The Sovereignty of God and the Value of a Soul," "Your Character—Can Be Established Forever," "God's Plan for the Jews and the Nations After the Present War is Over," "Are We in the Last Days?" and "Is There to be a World Dictator?"

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

"Quite a stack of newspapers I left you yesterday, Judge. Aren't you in 'the newspaper business, are you?"

"No, I just enjoy reading different papers so my nephew George sends them to me whenever he takes a business trip. I got a big kick out of some he sent me from several counties where they still have prohibition that read 'Drunk Driving Arrests Rise'."

"Bootleggers must post Ceiling Prices! Federal Agents seize 'Trick' Liquor Truck. Doesn't that go to prove, Joe, that prohibition does not prohibit?"

"I watched conditions pretty carefully during our 13 years of prohibition in this country. The only thing I could see we got out of it was bootleg liquor instead of legal liquor... plus the worst crime and corruption this country has ever known."
