

Don Cossacks To Sing on Program

The 27 members of the General Platoff Don Cossack chorus, who are appearing here on the Pelican stage at 8 p. m., November 15, under the Klamath County Concert association banner, are men who can take it, when it comes to tramping. To them, a season of 224 concerts is nothing to marvel at. That is the record they piled up last season, counting their regular concert tour and the subsequent USO tour of camps and naval bases—totaling 63 camp and 23 hospital shows.

The reputation of this band of Russian singers, who are sometimes picturesquely known as "the singing horsemen of the steppes," has preceded them wherever they have traveled—whether they have traveled far or near. In the past, they have traveled far in their peregrinations. In the past, since their organization in 1926 they have given over 1000 concerts throughout the world.

Under the leadership of their director, Nicholas Kostukoff, the chorus has built up a repertoire that covers the field of Russian song—the beautiful, melodious, the exquisite, the folk-melodies, to which they add the wild Cossack songs and their exciting mixtures of whistled shouts and whistled songs.

Finally, there is the thrill of the dances—the Caucasian, the popular Kozatka, in which the members of the chorus take part, and which brings the performance to a thrilling close.

The perfectly matched solo voices in the chorus cover the range from high soprano to the lowest bass, while the chorus itself is capable of producing the most stunning massed tone and roars forth in booming harmony at times—at other, subtler to a whisper of inconceivable loveliness. In fact, the chorus is like a mighty organ, with its leader, the organist, who controls the voices as the organist does the organ.

Finally, there is the thrill of the dances—the Caucasian, the popular Kozatka, in which the members of the chorus take part, and which brings the performance to a thrilling close.

The perfectly matched solo voices in the chorus cover the range from high soprano to the lowest bass, while the chorus itself is capable of producing the most stunning massed tone and roars forth in booming harmony at times—at other, subtler to a whisper of inconceivable loveliness. In fact, the chorus is like a mighty organ, with its leader, the organist, who controls the voices as the organist does the organ.

Finally, there is the thrill of the dances—the Caucasian, the popular Kozatka, in which the members of the chorus take part, and which brings the performance to a thrilling close.

The perfectly matched solo voices in the chorus cover the range from high soprano to the lowest bass, while the chorus itself is capable of producing the most stunning massed tone and roars forth in booming harmony at times—at other, subtler to a whisper of inconceivable loveliness. In fact, the chorus is like a mighty organ, with its leader, the organist, who controls the voices as the organist does the organ.

Finally, there is the thrill of the dances—the Caucasian, the popular Kozatka, in which the members of the chorus take part, and which brings the performance to a thrilling close.

The perfectly matched solo voices in the chorus cover the range from high soprano to the lowest bass, while the chorus itself is capable of producing the most stunning massed tone and roars forth in booming harmony at times—at other, subtler to a whisper of inconceivable loveliness. In fact, the chorus is like a mighty organ, with its leader, the organist, who controls the voices as the organist does the organ.

Finally, there is the thrill of the dances—the Caucasian, the popular Kozatka, in which the members of the chorus take part, and which brings the performance to a thrilling close.

The perfectly matched solo voices in the chorus cover the range from high soprano to the lowest bass, while the chorus itself is capable of producing the most stunning massed tone and roars forth in booming harmony at times—at other, subtler to a whisper of inconceivable loveliness. In fact, the chorus is like a mighty organ, with its leader, the organist, who controls the voices as the organist does the organ.

Finally, there is the thrill of the dances—the Caucasian, the popular Kozatka, in which the members of the chorus take part, and which brings the performance to a thrilling close.

The perfectly matched solo voices in the chorus cover the range from high soprano to the lowest bass, while the chorus itself is capable of producing the most stunning massed tone and roars forth in booming harmony at times—at other, subtler to a whisper of inconceivable loveliness. In fact, the chorus is like a mighty organ, with its leader, the organist, who controls the voices as the organist does the organ.

Finally, there is the thrill of the dances—the Caucasian, the popular Kozatka, in which the members of the chorus take part, and which brings the performance to a thrilling close.

The perfectly matched solo voices in the chorus cover the range from high soprano to the lowest bass, while the chorus itself is capable of producing the most stunning massed tone and roars forth in booming harmony at times—at other, subtler to a whisper of inconceivable loveliness. In fact, the chorus is like a mighty organ, with its leader, the organist, who controls the voices as the organist does the organ.

Finally, there is the thrill of the dances—the Caucasian, the popular Kozatka, in which the members of the chorus take part, and which brings the performance to a thrilling close.

The perfectly matched solo voices in the chorus cover the range from high soprano to the lowest bass, while the chorus itself is capable of producing the most stunning massed tone and roars forth in booming harmony at times—at other, subtler to a whisper of inconceivable loveliness. In fact, the chorus is like a mighty organ, with its leader, the organist, who controls the voices as the organist does the organ.

Finally, there is the thrill of the dances—the Caucasian, the popular Kozatka, in which the members of the chorus take part, and which brings the performance to a thrilling close.

The perfectly matched solo voices in the chorus cover the range from high soprano to the lowest bass, while the chorus itself is capable of producing the most stunning massed tone and roars forth in booming harmony at times—at other, subtler to a whisper of inconceivable loveliness. In fact, the chorus is like a mighty organ, with its leader, the organist, who controls the voices as the organist does the organ.

Finally, there is the thrill of the dances—the Caucasian, the popular Kozatka, in which the members of the chorus take part, and which brings the performance to a thrilling close.

The perfectly matched solo voices in the chorus cover the range from high soprano to the lowest bass, while the chorus itself is capable of producing the most stunning massed tone and roars forth in booming harmony at times—at other, subtler to a whisper of inconceivable loveliness. In fact, the chorus is like a mighty organ, with its leader, the organist, who controls the voices as the organist does the organ.

Finally, there is the thrill of the dances—the Caucasian, the popular Kozatka, in which the members of the chorus take part, and which brings the performance to a thrilling close.

The perfectly matched solo voices in the chorus cover the range from high soprano to the lowest bass, while the chorus itself is capable of producing the most stunning massed tone and roars forth in booming harmony at times—at other, subtler to a whisper of inconceivable loveliness. In fact, the chorus is like a mighty organ, with its leader, the organist, who controls the voices as the organist does the organ.

Finally, there is the thrill of the dances—the Caucasian, the popular Kozatka, in which the members of the chorus take part, and which brings the performance to a thrilling close.

The perfectly matched solo voices in the chorus cover the range from high soprano to the lowest bass, while the chorus itself is capable of producing the most stunning massed tone and roars forth in booming harmony at times—at other, subtler to a whisper of inconceivable loveliness. In fact, the chorus is like a mighty organ, with its leader, the organist, who controls the voices as the organist does the organ.

Finally, there is the thrill of the dances—the Caucasian, the popular Kozatka, in which the members of the chorus take part, and which brings the performance to a thrilling close.

The perfectly matched solo voices in the chorus cover the range from high soprano to the lowest bass, while the chorus itself is capable of producing the most stunning massed tone and roars forth in booming harmony at times—at other, subtler to a whisper of inconceivable loveliness. In fact, the chorus is like a mighty organ, with its leader, the organist, who controls the voices as the organist does the organ.

Finally, there is the thrill of the dances—the Caucasian, the popular Kozatka, in which the members of the chorus take part, and which brings the performance to a thrilling close.

The perfectly matched solo voices in the chorus cover the range from high soprano to the lowest bass, while the chorus itself is capable of producing the most stunning massed tone and roars forth in booming harmony at times—at other, subtler to a whisper of inconceivable loveliness. In fact, the chorus is like a mighty organ, with its leader, the organist, who controls the voices as the organist does the organ.

Finally, there is the thrill of the dances—the Caucasian, the popular Kozatka, in which the members of the chorus take part, and which brings the performance to a thrilling close.

Herald and News Society

By Phyllis Collier

HAVING FUN AT THE MARINE BARRACKS HALLOWEEN COSTUME DANCE held on Thursday, October 26, are PFC Robert Culver, Mrs. Larry Roy, Christina Demetarakos, both Junior Hostesses, and Cpl. Dick McCluskey, shown in the picture at the upper left. In the old-fashioned dress at top right, is Gertrude Toile with PFC Charles Peters. Believe it or not, but the admiral in the lower picture is Bernie Heidemann, and "his" lady is Mary Trulove. Marines and their pretty wives at the lower right are Mrs. Lee Marton, at the left, Sgt. Marton, Mrs. Jack Poggendorf and PFC Poggendorf. In the circle are Virginia Tyrrell and Sgt. S. W. Amstutz, who won the waltz contest. For the dance, the Barracks gymnasium was decorated by E Company with hay, corn stalks, pumpkins and a crepe paper ceiling hung with apples. Music was furnished by the post orchestra. The next dance to be given at the Marine Barracks will be on the marine corps birthday, November 10.

Elks Initiation

Initiation was held by the B. P. O. Elks on Thursday night, October 26, the occasion of roll-call night and the official visit of District Deputy Dr. George E. Dix.

J. C. Newman of the Marine Barracks was initiated for the Twin Falls, Idaho lodge, and William F. Falvey, A. L. Vinze, Byron J. Johnson, Loyd A. Scott, Earl J. McFall, Otto A. Schultz, Frank Krizo, John Krizo and William C. Mikey were initiated into the Klamath Falls lodge. Andrew Loney presented the Klamath Union high school capella choir in several numbers, and Lt. W. K. Smith of the naval air station gave a talk on the United States navy.

Dinner Party

One of the gayest Halloween parties of the week was the dinner given Tuesday evening by Dr. and Mrs. James Hilton for their son Bob, and a group of thirteen-year-old friends.

Assisting Mrs. Hilton during the evening were Connie Hunt and Jean Hilton. Games were played in festive Halloween style and guests included Marcella Murray, Joan Moore, Jean Hall, Marjorie Liggett, Marilyn Hayden, Marlene Hadley, Carolyn Kelley, Barbara McCraw, Jean Rae Oldenburg, Janette Ringstead, Gordon Green, Lawson Martin, Lemont Wilson, Rodney Bell, Gordon Fletcher, James Carter, James Owens, Bill Ledbetter, Roger Kuykendall, Robert Hooker, Bob Darron, Richard Coggeshall and the host, Bob Hilton.

ANW Meeting

Members of the Art Needle Work club gathered for another of their bi-monthly sessions on Wednesday afternoon, at the home of Mrs. Marion Hanks, 133 Pine.

Blocks for Red Cross quilts were turned in by several members. Other members are knitting wool lap robes for service men, and fancy needlework articles for church bazaars are being completed by some.

Flowers from the family gardens were used in decorating the rooms of the Hanks' home. Mrs. D. N. Clemens and Mrs. Ted Shoop, daughters of the hostess, assisted during the tea hour. On November 15, Mrs. Wilbur A. Jones, 203 High, will entertain the club.

Masquerade

Tuesday evening, October 31, the Women of the Moose held a Halloween masquerade frolic in the Moose hall, which was decorated in the traditional Halloween colors. A large crowd attended the party and costumes of all descriptions were on display. Unmasking took place at eleven o'clock and the award for the best dressed man went to Happy Hepburn, who wore a lady's formal gown. Mr. and Mrs. Nichols were the most elaborately dressed couple, and they wore beautifully embroidered silk Chinese coats. The funniest costume was worn by Walt Helfer, the most original by Alrick Nyback. A special award went to Paulette Parker.

Highlight of the evening was the ghost dance, and the mystic bath at the entrance of the hall had a busy evening. Refreshments of doughnuts and cider, hot dogs and coffee were served to all present.

Stockmans Visit

Interesting visitors in Klamath Falls this week were Representative and Mrs. Lowell Stockman of Washington D. C., here Thursday and part of Friday, before returning to the northern part of the state and their home in Pendleton where they will be present November 7 to cast their ballots.

Mr. Stockman has returned recently from France and England and his stories of the continent were most enlightening. Many of the pictures he brought back with him were of great interest, especially the one pictured with General Eisenhower and General Bradley in France. Mr. Stockman and three others were guests at Harry Lauder's home in Scotland where the old former donned kilts and sang songs for his visitors.

Mrs. Marshall E. Cornett entertained for Mrs. Stockman with a small luncheon Thursday at the Pelican, and again that evening when she asked several to dinner at the Pelican for the visitors.

Birthday

A group of friends honored Mrs. Wesley Kafton on the occasion of her birthday at her home, 725 St. Francis street, on Saturday evening, October 28.

Many lovely gifts were opened by the honor guest after which games were played and refreshments served.

Guests were Mrs. Romaine Thomas, Mrs. Carl Pryor, Mrs. John C. Miller, Mrs. Ed Lindbeck, Doris Yantis, Nell Lindbergh and Donna Hicks.

Lieutenant and Mrs. W. V. Charters were the winners of a three session bridge tournament held recently at the Officers' club at the Marine Barracks. Second and third places went to Lieutenant and Mrs. Harve J. Carlson and Captain and Mrs. Jack E. Williams.

Mrs. Swanson New Reames President

Mrs. Martin Swanson was elected president of Reames Golf and Country club auxiliary, and serving with her for the coming year will be Mrs. Herbert E. Hauges as secretary and treasurer. Mrs. Wilfred E. Lamm, who has been president of the auxiliary for three years, with Mrs. Oscar Shive as secretary-treasurer, were given a vote of appreciation from the group for their service.

Friday was a bad day for golf and the members gathered around the open fireplace for several hours of bridge followed by luncheon served from a buffet. Later each member, as well as several of the guests, were called upon to take part in a fun program which completed the year's schedule. The second 18 holes of the championship tournament will be played off next Friday, weather permitting.

Hostess Friday at the end-of-the-season meeting was Mrs. Lamm, assisted in serving by several members of the club. Last Friday, Mrs. G. A. Krause presented the afternoon award which went to Mrs. Guy Hancock.

During this week's business meeting, the members voted to purchase their third $100 war bond which will be attributed to the Sixth War Loan.

Moonlight Picnic

Forty young people attended the picnic pul on by the Presbyterian high school group on Saturday night, October 28. After roasting hot-dogs over a large bonfire in Pine Grove, the party moved to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew M. Collier, where home-made doughnuts and cider were served.

Special guests were Rev. and Mrs. David Barnett, Mrs. S. B. Hopkins, and Mrs. Bert C. Thomas.

Steve Stone, president of the group, was in charge of arrangements.

Officers' Wives

The Marine Officers' Wives club will hold their third luncheon meeting on Thursday, November 9 at the Officers' club. Mrs. B. Dubel, president, will be in charge of the meeting and bridge will be played. The club membership is growing, and many new members are expected to attend.

The club sponsored a Bingo party last Thursday evening at the BOQ. Mrs. Richard E. Putt was in charge of arrangements.

DAR Symposium

A Pan-American symposium, with Mrs. E. A. Geary, chairman, assisted by Mrs. R. E. Wright and Mrs. L. H. Stone, will be featured during the program hour, at the regular meeting of Eulalona chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution to be held Monday evening at 8 o'clock at the home of Mrs. A. O. Roenicke, 2035 Portland. The date is November 6.

Leaving

Mrs. Vergil Nelson, (Iris Lindbergh), who has been a member of The Herald and News editorial staff for several years, is leaving this weekend to join her husband now located in Yreka, California. They have taken an apartment there.

Friday evening The Herald office honored Mrs. Nelson with an informal party in the coffee room. She was presented with a gift from the group.

Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Jones, 401 Jefferson street, invited all the children of their neighborhood to their home for a Halloween party Tuesday night. Between 50 and 60 youngsters arrived for the fun which included bobbing for apples and being shown motion pictures. Later refreshments were served to the little guests by the host and hostess.

Colonel Honored During Last Week

More farewell parties were given during Colonel Bernard Dubel's last week in Klamath Falls. On Tuesday evening, October 26, Colonel and Mrs. Dubel were entertained with a dinner given by Mr. and Mrs. William Dalton and Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Geary at the Geary home on Lakeshore road.

A cocktail party for the Dubels was given Wednesday night in the lounge of the Officers' club at the Marine Barracks by Commander and Mrs. Stephen Kasper. About forty navy and marine officers and their wives and townspeople were invited.

Before the dance at the Officers' club Saturday night, Commander and Mrs. Lowell T. Coggeshall entertained several couples and Colonel and Mrs. Dubel at their home.

A large reception, attended by over 180 persons, was given by Colonel and Mrs. Dubel on Sunday for Lieutenant-Colonel and Mrs. George Van Orden, to introduce the new commanding officer of the Marine Barracks and his wife to officers and wives from the various military installations around Klamath Falls and to residents of this area.

A large crowd turned out to see Colonel Dubel off on the train Friday night, and the marine band played as the train pulled out of the station. Colonel Dubel will report for overseas duty. His wife and daughter, Rue Ann, will remain in Klamath Falls.

Soroptimists

Recent luncheon meetings of the Soroptimist club have been devoted to speakers, who explained the measures which will appear on the ballot at the coming election. Paul Farrens, attorney, and Fred Peterson, county school superintendent, spoke to an appreciative audience of club members, who feel that legislation has some bearing on their objective, "economic advancement for women." As a non-partisan service club, the Soroptimists are interested in their country's laws.

Soroptimists are in receipt of good news from Elizabeth Hawes, their European liaison officer, to the effect that Madame Noel, a leading club member in France, has been reported safe, and that the Soroptimist club has resumed its meetings in Paris. Madame Noel is an outstanding business woman in her own country and in her name all of the International Member clubs have established a fund for the rehabilitation of clubs after the war.

Soroptimists are urged to aid in the movement for a better understanding of diplomacy. This means a broader education in the customs and dispositions of other countries, and a development of the ability to deal with them equally. The immediate proposal is a congressional bill for the establishment of a school for diplomats.

Shower

Mrs. Oscar Anderson was guest of honor at a shower given for her Thursday afternoon, October 26, by Mrs. Ralph Janson at her home 551 Uterlings.

Many lovely gifts were presented to the honor guest after which refreshments were served. Bidden to the affair were Mrs. Axel Jacobson, Mrs. Gus Anderson, Mrs. Arthur Oberg, Mrs. Carl Lindbergh, Mrs. Richard Anderson, Mrs. John Berglund, Mrs. Oscar Olsen, Mrs. Pete Strid, Mrs. Birger Dahlstrom, Mrs. Henry Fagrell, Mrs. Emerick Hult, Mrs. Fred Loberg, Mrs. Pete Hedberg, Mrs. Arthur Lind, Mrs. Swan Erickson, Mrs. L. Campbell, Mrs. Eric Olsen, Mrs. Otto Clawson, Mrs. Fred Goeller, Mrs. Swan Olson, Mrs. Vergil Nelson, Mrs. Eugene Werner, Mrs. Fred Bieh, Mrs. Charles Balin, Mrs. Stina Swedin and Frances Balin.

Halloween Party

A group of high school students were entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Abner at 2743 Dayton, with a Halloween party on Monday, October 30.

The Halloween motif was carried out in the decorations and games were played. Part of the evening was spent in a scavenger hunt, with Harry Clawson and his partner winning the prize. When all of the couples had returned from the hunt, donuts and cider were served.

Guests at the party were Shirley Adams, Donna Wicker, Darleen Knowles, Patsy McMillan, Serena Owens, Martina Atkins, Mary Jean Stuart, Delores Moon, Harley Franklin, Janet Linberg, Joanne Abner, Lester Foster, John Paul Foster, Charles Mitchell, Kenneth Weber, Virgil Gillette, Audie Keffer, Jimmy Rutledge, Melvin Clawson, Harry Clawson, Roy Colman, Gus Gustabang, John McGee, Lee Good, Dennis Knowles and Joe Ross.

Open House

Barbara Roskamp, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Roskamp of the Roosevelt apartments, entertained with an open house party for 40 friends Halloween night, last Tuesday.

Barbara was assisted by Ruth Merrill, Charlotte Carter, Joanne O'Neill and Sally Mueller. Mrs. Roskamp served during the evening to the high school group.

A Halloween costume party was given at the Westfall home on Crescent avenue the evening of October 27, when Shirley Westfall was hostess to a group of her schoolmates and friends. She was assisted by her mother, Mrs. Clark Westfall, and her sister, Donna.

ATTRACTIVE WINIFRED MANN, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Erikson, now of Bar View, Oregon, is engaged to PFC Vincent A. Quinn Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. V. A. Quinn of Jersey City, New Jersey. Winifred graduated from Klamath Union high school and was a member of the Commandos. She is now employed at Underwood's photo shop. PFC Quinn is with the U. S. marine corps, stationed here in Klamath Falls. They plan to be married November 15.

LOWELL STOCKMAN, wife of Representative Stockman, christened the USS Granville at the Oregon Shipbuilding yards in Portland October 23. Mrs. Stockman was assisted with a defense stamp corsage for the lapel of her husband, and her three dozen red roses, also a gift from the company, were quickly distributed to admiring friends, many of whom were former Pendleton residents where the Stockmans make their home when not in Washington.