Today's Roundup

By MALCOLM EPLEY
ON the political front, the voters are about to take things into their own hands. The big talkfest is on its last legs, and while people realize that discussion is necessary, most of us will see it end without any regrets.

EPLEY

OUR vote on president will go to Tom Dewey. Governor Dewey is qualified by ability, experience, and his pronounced views on domestic and international questions, to make the United States a great president.

We are not fearful of a change of presidents in the war period, a factor that has many people concerned who would otherwise vote for Governor Dewey. There is no reason why the military operation of the war should be affected in any way.

It is an unfortunate fact that thousands of Oregonians will go to the polls Tuesday in virtual ignorance of many of the direct legislative measures on which they will vote on the state ballot.

It seems to us that there is far too much of this sort of thing on the ballot. Instead of being used sparingly, the direct legislative method is heavily employed at every general election.

Eventually, this can lead to discrediting the whole procedure. People who read this column will have time to get out their voters' pamphlets and "bone up" on the measures. Why not do it?

Mr. Hannegan largely succeeded in running the president against Hoover, Coolidge and Harding rather than against Dewey.

The debate was centered, from the democratic standpoint, upon the isolationism of characters and situations long dead, to the exclusion of the isolationism of the present (refusal of Russia to go into the open air conference at Chicago.) Why, they even managed to push the argument back into the tariff. A great newspaper, the New York Times, actually made a leading point of its announcement for Roosevelt, on the notion that the republicans were historically the high tariff party.

The Dewey side in a high school debate in Pennsylvania had to call republican headquarters and ask what-in-the-world was the republican answer on the tariff proposition. Headquarters did not seem to know a particularly good answer.

Platforms Vague
MOST people had not even heard of it for 15 years or more and the two platforms were equally vague. Yet a great newspaper and an inestimable number of people decided their vote to some extent on this matter which properly belonged among the antiquities alongside the question of how nasty the late Senator Lodge was about a wholly different league of nations problem 25 years ago.

The flimsy obsolescent rubbish used in this campaign may not be swept up on Wednesday, but just allowed to lay where it fell, while the winner turns his attention to current events.

The current truth on the tariff is that it is the least important of all prevailing influences upon foreign trade. It will continue to be increasingly inconsequential for many years because it must.

When this war is over, the most important phase of the matter will be that few nations will have much money with which to purchase our goods.

The South American countries have grown rather rich selling abroad during the war and have accumulated gold and dollar balances, which they are not using to pay off their old debts to us.

The French have considerable gold if they will use it to pay for goods rather than as a reserve for currency.

The Russians can mine gold cheaply and sell it to us at high prices and thus accumulate some balances, but not to the extent of the billions wanted to buy our machinery and industrial products.

Typical Roosevelt Way
FURTHERMORE all the allied world will be in inextricable debt to us and cannot pay us. The Roosevelt administration has started to meet this problem in a typical way.

Despite the fact that the debts are already too high for repayment, they propose to issue more debt to foreign buyers, through continuing lend-lease, but furthermore by increasing the capital of the Export-Import bank from $500,000,000 to $5,000,000,000 (congress is holding this proposal up now.)

In short, this government plans largely to take money from the public treasury to pay for foreign purchases of goods from us, covering this transaction with the thin pretense of lending what it knows cannot be repaid.

There is one way nations could repay us. There is a sound way of promoting a lasting foreign trade.

Facing Facts
THIS government will have to get around to it one of these days either when its treasury runs dry or when it decides to stop playing bankruptcy politics and faces the modern facts of international life non-politically.

The situation calls for a managed trade—trade by specific negotiation, barter goods for goods as well as goods for gold, because that is the only way most foreign nations can trade with us.

Does this mean free trade? Of course not. Free trade is just as obsolete as tariffs. Conditions make it so.

This country does not want cheap electrical bulbs made by Japanese slave labor coming in here. Before the war both Japan and Germany were underselling American production in our own market on a wide scale of goods.

Incidentally the AFL took the leadership in the fight for all the high republican tariffs. Also American agriculture does not want competitive food products coming in here.)

This is one matter in which centralized government controls are not only warranted but necessary, without interfering with individual freedom, because foreign trade is just as much a national matter as national defense.

It does not require regimentation, but management. More bad debts, more spending, more giving-away or more or less tariffs will not solve the foreign trade problem (our exporters to the contrary, notwithstanding.) But a specifically managed program, in which deals are made through the government on a business basis, might do the job.

Telling The Editor

Letters printed here must not be more than 300 words in length, must be written legibly on ONE SIDE of the paper and must be signed. Contributions following these rules, are warmly welcomed.

ABOUT WILLIS
KLAMATH FALLS, Ore. (To the Editor)—Your editorial of November 4 is about your last chance at Willis Mahoney before election, and with information obtained September 3, you did not hesitate to take it.

I was the man who carried Willis Mahoney's name for U. S. senator to the executive board of the State Federation of Labor and was proud to do it. Four years ago I did the same thing for the late Senator Charles McNary, whose job Mahoney is seeking now, and I was also proud to do that. I won the endorsement for both. I knew at that time that Mahoney had been retained for a short time by the Portland General Electric company, and incidentally the same person who told me that, also told me that Senator Guy Cordon was on the payroll of the California Oregon Power company, so you see the republicans have to cut the same as the democrats. However, I will be disappointed if Mahoney works for them after he is senator.

Willis Mahoney also stated to me that he was in favor of the Townsend old age plan, which the federation knew when they endorsed him.

Very truly, G. C. TATMAN, Executive board member of Oregon State Federation of Labor.

Editor's Note: The information mentioned by Mr. Tatman was published under a September date by the federal power commission, but did not come to our attention until last week, and that was through a non-partisan source. We examined the report, and found it shows Mahoney, as receiving $8500 from the Portland power firm from January 1, 1933 to July 31, 1934. That was not hearsay—we read it in the report. We did not criticize Mr. Mahoney for taking all he could get from the power company—we mentioned it in connection with the Townsends' concern over utilities trust support for the Oregon Business and Tax research, shown in the same power commission report.

ON POLITICS

KLAMATH FALLS, Ore. (To the Editor)—Those interested in politics and the future of our country should familiarize themselves with the history of the past thirty years concerning dictators and how they came to power. Some of the political speeches of the present campaign, for President of the United States, are ridiculous. Those who have studied know that the Communist question was used by Hitler, Franco and Mussolini. It is now known that Hitler had the Reichstag building burned and blamed the Communists and Jews with the crime. By so doing he created turmoil within the parties and went to power.

AGAINST 4TH TERM

KLAMATH FALLS, Ore. (To the Editor)—I've been hoping someone would answer Miss Carol Rose's letter in favor of a 4th term for FDR. To change presidents during a crisis has not been fatal before when the country was younger and weaker by far—why should we think it would be now? Washington and Jefferson both turned down third terms though the people thought that they needed them. Lincoln refused to campaign or even refute false accusations for a second term, saying it was up to the people! All three had strong faith in our democratic form of government. Have Roosevelt and the democrats who still cling to him lost faith in democracy? Then why not quit fighting and hit Hitler and Tojo take over?

As for FDR's "wonderful" (?) help to the poor during the depression, it wasn't WPA that kept roofs over the heads of the people as much as generous landlords! It wasn't WPA that kept them clothed sufficiently, but Ladies' Aids and private donations! I know! Mr. had been a farm worker and farm work didn't pick up until after the start of the war in Europe. WPA only paid $44 for a family of four. That would not have fed us if we hadn't been good gardeners and canned a lot. Even then our doctor and grocery bills went unpaid until he went to a friend who was foreman in a big mill and the friend put him on. That was in 1937. Mills would not even take men's names down. Business was too poor under FDR. We don't want FDR and more WPA.
