CAN YOU MATCH THIS SACRIFICE?

EDITOR'S NOTE—Today marks the opening of the Sixth War Loan bond drive. Klamath county's quota is $3,300,000. We must meet that quota. Men overseas have filled their quota, not in money, but in lives and in blood. For the next several days we will print here stories of their unselfish courage and sacrifice. Compare them with what you are doing.

How long could you carry on with a fresh bullet wound in your back?

Lieutenant Colonel George Van Orden, holder of the Navy Cross and Purple Heart and commanding officer of the Marine Barracks, carried on for three days, and more.

Colonel Van Orden was in the first boat that rounded the small island of Puruata headed for a landing on Cape Torokina in Bougainville, November, last year. Never, in the history of attempted marine landings, was a group hit harder. Japanese machine guns and 77 millimeter cannons fired at will on the incoming craft. Boats on either side of the Colonel's, boats filled with men that he had known and admired for months, were blown to bits. His craft was hit 40 times. One of those bullets got Colonel Van Orden in the back just as he saw his cox'n's head ripped completely off.

When they made the beach, an area of blood stained sand, the Lieutenant Colonel exposed himself coolly to enemy fire and with inspiring courage led his men to victory. He refused medical aid for three days, and only when his wound became infected did he take five minutes for a sulfa-thiazol treatment.

Our country is still at war! Are you?

TO the American public there is no stronger financial foundation or insurance to provide for future financial needs than investment in United States Government Securities.

The Sixth War Loan provides eight different issues which are designed to readily meet the savings requirements of individuals, association, partnerships, and corporations of all types.

All of the above issues are a direct obligation of the government of the United States and are backed by all of the taxable property and sources of revenue which the government has at its command and provides the greatest financial strength to be found in any investment.

Series E, F, G, and Tax Series C Notes are all redeemable in United States currency and are, therefore, removed from any fluctuation or depreciation as to value.

Series E Bonds

Series E Notes may be purchased in convenient denominations and are immediately convertible into cash, and every war-time dollar that can be invested in E bonds will provide its owner with ready means with which to meet future financial needs.

The annual limit of ownership for Series E Bonds is $5000 maturity value, or $3750 cost price, for each calendar year, of bonds originally issued during that year to any one person, including bonds issued to that person individually, or to him with another as co-owner. In computing holdings, bonds issued to co-owners may be applied to either or apportioned between them.

A ruling under date of January 28, 1944 also provides as follows:

The amount of Savings Bonds of Series E issued during any one calendar year (January 1 through December 31) which may be held by any one person at any one time is limited to $5000 (maturity value), provided, however, that with respect to bonds held in coownership form the amount thereof may be applied separately to the holdings of either of the coowners, or the amount may be apportioned between them. In other words, when bonds are held in coownership form, no excess holdings exist if in any given group of coowners the holdings are such that the entire amount can be allocated to the various coowners without apportioning to any one person an aggregate amount in excess of $5000 (maturity value), including any amount chargeable to that person for bonds registered in his name individually either with or without a beneficiary.

For example, a family consisting of a man, his wife and two children may hold an aggregate of $20,000 Series E Bonds inscribed as follows: $5,000 in name of husband alone

5,000 in coownership form in name of husband and name of wife

5,000 in coownership form in name of father and name of first child

5,000 in coownership form in name of father and name of second child

20,000 Total.

$10,000 in coownership form in name of husband and name of wife

5,000 in coownership form in name of father and name of first child

5,000 in coownership form in name of father and name of second child.

In cases of the kind hereinabove recited, it should be observed that under Treasury regulations the husband may redeem all or part of any of the bonds on which his name appears as a coowner with his wife without obtaining her signature, or vice versa. The same rule applies to Savings Bonds on which the father is named as a coowner with his child; that is, either may acquire the proceeds of the bonds without the signature of the other. Further, if either coowner named on a bond dies without previously having presented the bond for payment, the surviving coowner will be recognized as the sole and absolute owner of the bond.

Other Issues

F AND G Notes are available to individuals, partnerships, corporations, and associations up to $100,000 in any one calendar year.

Series F Notes are similar to Series E Notes—purchased at a discount and interest accumulates in increasing amounts the longer the bond is held.

Series G Notes are purchased at par and the Treasurer remits check to cover interest each six months. Should bond be cashed or turned in before maturity corresponding decrease in price will be received which will tend to reduce the interest from 2 1/2% for which the Treasurer's check has been mailed.

Series C Notes. These notes can be used to apply on Federal Income Tax and attention should be called to the fact that Series C Notes are only acceptable in payment of taxes during and after the second calendar month after the month of purchase. In other words, the law has postponed until January 15, 1945 the filing for farmers estimated tax returns for 1944. On the same date the estimated tax for the year must be paid in full. Thus a farmer may advantageously purchase Series C Tax Notes during the coming bond drive applying them on the tax payment when due. Purchase of the Notes for this purpose, however, must be made on or before November 30, 1944.

The two Bond Issues and the 1 1/2% Treasury Notes and 7/8% Certificates of Indebtedness are of primary interest to corporations and financial institutions and information regarding them may be had from any bank or savings and loan association.

WHEAT

CHICAGO, Nov. 20 (AP)—Rye broke a cent and more today and most of the rest of the grain futures list was fractionally lower in quiet trading. Except for professional selling of rye, offerings were not heavy.

Wheat dropped near the close to new lows for the session under scattered selling attributed to the setback in rye and to eagerness of the Minneapolis market where increased cash offerings were reported. On the decline a local professional operator bought substantial amounts and the market steadied quickly.

Rye was off as much as a cent and a half at one time when local selling disclosed a lack of demand. Trade sources said apparently the market still was feeling effects of liberal offerings of the December contract early in the session by one of the leading commission houses.

The trade in corn quieted after noon and prices lost their early gains, influenced by the break in rye. Locals sold on the decline.

All the close wheat was 1/4 to 1/2 lower than Saturday's finish, December $1.63 1/2. Corn was 1/4 higher to 1/2 lower, December $1.00 1/2. Oats were unchanged to 1/4 lower, December 64 1/2. Rye was off 1/4 to 1/2, December $1.07 1/2. Barley was up 1/4 to off 1/4, December $1.08 1/2.
