Growers Still Hope For Good Weather to Aid Onion Harvest

Growers are still hoping for improved weather conditions that will permit the completion of the onion harvest in the south end of the Klamath basin.

At present there are three inches of snow in this area, which makes it difficult for growers to resume the harvest successfully which was interrupted by the untimely storm starting the latter part of October and continuing to the middle of November.

Congress to Decide on 49th State Called 'Jefferson'

By LYN CROST
WASHINGTON, Nov. 24 (AP)—Congress must decide whether it wants a 49th state called "Jefferson."

If not, it will have to soothe the ruffled feelings of mountaineers in Oregon and California border counties when it considers the postwar highway bill, now up.

And that's no easy job. Back in 1941 these counties got so mad at the roads their states built them they started a secession movement—stopped motorists at their borders and confronted them with signs saying:

"Stop! Independent state of Jefferson."

Bonfires blazing in the night beneath the towering peaks of the Siskiyou mountains emphasized their words.

Then the war came and they stifled their complaints.

But now, it's up to congress either to show or be shown—by including funds for secondary country roads in the highway bill.

The two congressmen who represent the irked counties are hoping congress will keep the area in their districts. They're rather fond of them.

Representative Claire Engle

(D-Calif.): "If this road bill does what they think it can do for them they will be connected once more with civilization. Otherwise they still reserve the right to form another state."

Representative Ellsworth (R-Ore.): "We do not need another state out there. What we need is the development of the resources of that region."

The mountaineers were angry because there were plenty of minerals, some strategic, in "them thar hills" and they couldn't get them out over the rough roads.

A separate state, they figured, would allow them to tax themselves and use the money to pave their way.

If the wife of a Turkoman asks his permission to go out, and he says "go" without adding "come back again," they are divorced.
