Legislature to Eye New Road Tax Plan

PORTLAND, Nov. 27 (AP)—The state legislature will consider a plan to be submitted by the governor's interim committee for the study of motor transportation, which would change the road tax system for trucks and buses.

Under the plan these vehicles would pay a flat $5 registration fee, plus $3.75 to 17.68 mills per mile, according to their weight, for all over 4000 pounds.

After periodically reporting to the public utilities commission their total mileage traveled in Oregon, the truck and bus owners would be refunded the amount of gasoline taxes paid.

The system would yield $1,300,000 more than at present, estimated committee Chairman C. B. McCullough, and would tax the vehicles according to actual highway use.

Fire Closure of Log Camps Forces Lumber Output Down

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27 (AP)—Closure of northwest logging camps for five days during the September fire season forced lumber output down 11 per cent for the month, the war production board announced. The national decline was 14.9 per cent over August, more than three times the normal seasonal decline.

The September total was estimated by WPB at 2,731,863,000 board feet with softwoods accounting for 2,114,344,000. Production by areas included north Pacific, 863,859,000.

Solution Discovered For Furniture Puzzle

PORTLAND, Nov. 27 (AP)—Only solution for the furniture which a woman has left in the center of a main sidewalk is legislative action permitting the law to store furniture removed from homes by eviction, City Attorney L. E. Latourette said today.

The furniture belongs to Mrs. Cecil Jones, who was evicted from her residence six months ago. The furniture was placed in the street and there it has remained through all kinds of weather.

PORTLAND, Nov. 27 (AP)—Visiting here for the first Pacific coast conference on alcohol studies, Dr. Howard W. Haggard of Yale university said the chronic alcoholic is a sick man, not a man with criminal tendencies.

Dr. Haggard, director of the laboratory of applied physiology at the eastern university, urged medical, not penal treatment, for alcoholics.

Motorists Urged To Check Cars

SALEM, Nov. 27 (AP)—Secretary of State Robert S. Farrell Jr. today urged motorists to check their cars immediately so they will be in good condition to combat winter driving hazards.

Safe driving practices will reduce winter accidents, he said, and would eliminate considerable absenteeism which results when war workers have accidents on their way to and from work.

Ceilings Restored On Noble Fir Logs

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27 (AP)—Restoration of premium price ceilings for aircraft grades of west coast Noble fir logs "because of an unforeseen increase in requirements submitted by the army air forces," was announced yesterday by the office of price administration. The ceilings went into effect Saturday.

In the Puget Sound, Willapa Bay-Grays Harbor and Columbia river districts the ceiling is $45 per 1000 feet, log scale. Ceiling in the Tillamook district is $43 per 1000 feet.

The OPA also announced cancellation of a provision allowing additions to maximum prices in cases of overtime work of 54 or 60 hours or more a week. Because of winter weather, few operators are logging more than 48 hours weekly, the OPA said. Loggers may continue to add $1 per 1000 feet when labor forces work over 48 hours.

WILLIAM NICHOLS DIES FROM BURNS

William J. Nichols, 30, former Bonanza and Malin resident, died November 21 at St. Charles hospital in Bend from burns received in an accident the previous day at Redmond.

Nichols was working with the U. S. bureau of reclamation at Redmond, operating a dumpster truck, when the machine overturned and caught fire. Nichols was pinned beneath the truck. In addition to his wife, Margie, and five-month-old daughter Carol Ann, Nichols is survived by one brother, Robert G. Nichols, 331 N. 9th.
