

Dancing Club Schedule Told

First of a series of parties planned by the Winter Dancing club is scheduled for tonight at Reames Golf and Country club. Members of the executive committee will serve as the host group. Cocktail hour is from 9 to 10 o'clock, it was announced this week. Those arranging for the first party of the winter are Mr. and Mrs. Earl Gardner, Mr. and Mrs. Henri Conradi, Mr. and Mrs. Loren Calhoun, Mr. and Mrs. Noel Becar, Mr. and Mrs. Leland Conroy, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Kinderdick, and Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Colvin.

The cabaret theme will be carried out at tonight's affair, but due to the large membership the usual procedure of reserving tables was cancelled by the committee. Membership closed at 100, it was announced. Shepherd's orchestra will play for dancing.

Three other dances are on the schedule. The place of each will be announced later. Dates are January 20, February 17, and March 24. All parties will fall on Saturday evenings.

A number of small cocktail parties are planned tonight by groups which have enjoyed the Winter Dancing club affairs during the past several years.

Homemaking Highlights

Santa Claus please note: if you are buying toys for the youngsters this Christmas, it is better to buy a few of good quality than several of inferior grade which will not stand up under the wear and tear of the playroom. So says Miss Lois Lutz, home management specialist of Oregon State college extension service, in her newly issued series of letters "The Home With a Small Child," which is now on file in the home demonstration agent's office in Klamath Falls.

The letter for the child from 2 1/2 to nearly 3 years lists these characteristics of a good toy: It is safe, it is sanitary, it is durable, and it should stimulate the child to activity. Toys should be attractive in color and design and should be suited to the child's age and development.

This week, the last one of national book month, brings us a review of "Your Child, His Family and Friends," by Enola E. Hawkins of the city library. Margaret Steiner, also of the city library, wrote the review, and Frances Bruce Strain wrote the book. Miss Steiner says of it: "Mrs. Strain, mother of two children and a psychologist having long experience with boys and girls, has written a sensible, sympathetic book on child guidance."

This is not a "what to do when" handbook but a general discussion of the every day emotional problems of the preschool child in his relations with his parents, relatives, playmates and the people he meets outside his home.

Local food reports show that there will be few cranberries for the Christmas holidays, but plenty of nuts (except pecans), and maybe even some coconuts. There will be, of course, enough squash, pumpkin and sweet potatoes for everyone. And that reminds us, that there is a caution against buying large quantities of the "sweets" because a serious waste can result from a small decay or soft spot. The citrus crop, while smaller than last year, is larger than the 10-year average. Mustard greens are available now, and for salad variations, why not try "buck toy," the celery-like Chinese vegetable, and Chinese lettuce? Then, endive is on the market now, and celery is at its best.

Mrs. Henri Conradi plans to leave late next week for Fresno to spend one week of the holiday season with her mother, Mrs. Alice M. King.

Eagles

The Klamath Falls Eagles have scheduled a moving picture show and dance to follow the regular Tuesday night meeting on December 5. Authentic signal corps pictures from the war fronts will be the special attraction, and music for the evening will be supplied by Marvin Shepherd.

Refreshments will be served by a special committee at 11 o'clock and dancing will continue afterward.

Ladies of the auxiliary and visiting Eagles and their families are cordially invited to attend the affair which will begin at 9:30.

Olive Burke, 1941 Del Moro, was hostess to the Thursday Contract club, November 30, and high score for the afternoon's play went to Idoline Schupp, second to Bertha Hewitt, and the special award to Stella Dryden. The next meeting, December 14, will be at the home of Fannie Thompson, 1334 Owens, and will be the annual Christmas party, with a gift exchange.

Family Reunion

Thanksgiving Day proved to be a gala occasion at the Elmer J. Gardner home, 1605 Portland. Margaret Mary Gardner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gardner, celebrated her fiftieth birthday on that day, and her father, who was recently transferred from here to Portland, arrived Thursday morning to spend the holidays with his family.

Mr. Gardner returned Friday to Portland, where he is employed as a terminal trainmaster for the Southern Pacific.

Members of the Stingerette club were entertained at a galloping tea, Thursday evening, November 30, by Mrs. Carl W. Henry, 336 Martin. Two tables of pinocle were in play, and high score was held by Mrs. Merrill Klous, the white elephant award went to Mrs. V. C. Phillips, and the guest award to Mrs. Homer Caldwell. Late in the evening, Mrs. Henry served dessert to Mrs. V. C. Phillips, Mrs. A. B. Guthrie, Mrs. Homer Caldwell, Mrs. Fred Genereux, Mrs. Mary Martin, Mrs. Ed Baker, and Mrs. Walter Fuller.

"Moonlight for Herbert," a three-act comedy, will be given by students of the Malin high school sometime before Christmas. Ann Dolezal will direct, and members of the cast will include Robert Victorine, Paul McCulley, Richard Donaldson, Colin Elzner, Lorene Eason, Mary Ruth Bay, Dorothy Ley, Margie Griffith, Mary Hornbeak, Hazel Tomlin, Jack Lindsay, Besse Harlan, and John Loosley.
