THE MEN WHO ARE FORGOTTEN

Down where there are no Ten Commandments,
 And a man can raise a thirst,
 Live the outcasts of civilization,
 The victims of life at its worst.

Here in this tropical country
 Are the men that God forgot,
 Who battles the ever present fever,
 The itch and jungle rot.

No one knows they are living,
 And nobody gives a damn,
 Back home they are soon forgotten,
 These soldiers of Uncle Sam.

Living with dirty nations,
 Down in the sweltering zone,
 Up in those damn damp mountains,
 Thousands of miles from home.

No place to go on payday,
 To squander their meager pay,
 No where to raise hell for an evening.

CHURCHMEN OPPOSE ANTI-JAP ACTIVITY

GRESHAM, Ore., Dec. 6 (AP)—Churchmen in this town—birthplace of Oregon Anti-Japanese Inc.—today condemned the attempt of fellow-residents to deprive Japanese-Americans of their citizenship rights.

Meeting here after farmers and businessmen launched a move to prevent return of Japanese-Americans, the Ministerial Association declared that citizens should not be judged by ancestry.

The ministers endorsed a 1943 statement of President Roosevelt that "Americanism is a matter of the mind and heart. Americanism is not and never was a matter of race and ancestry."

SPOKANE, Dec. 6 (AP)—

Evidence of resistance "with threats of violence" to the return of evicted Japanese to the Pacific coast is, according to Roger N. Baldwin, New York, director of the American Civil Liberties union, "confined to farm competitors in the agricultural valleys of California, Oregon and Washington."

"The opposition of some American Legion posts reflects only this farm competition. Everywhere in the cities, the loyal Japanese-Americans will apparently be accepted as a matter of course, provided their return to homes and jobs is handled by the government in an orderly fashion," he declared in a press statement made after a tour of military areas from Arizona to Seattle.

Baldwin asserted that "everywhere on the coast the return of the evicted population of Japanese ancestry is expected shortly, either by decision of the supreme court or by army orders, or both."
