"HELLCAT's the Name for It!"

Maybe you've seen some of those GI's with Tank Destroyer emblems on their shoulders. They're a great bunch of guys — proud of their service — and for months they've been itching for the day when the hush-hush lid would be lifted so they could tell the world what it's all about.

We know how they've felt — for they've been training with Buick's baby — the M-18 Hellcat — dreamed up, developed and brought to production by Buick men, with the enthusiastic aid of Ordnance experts.

Then came the big day. The Hellcat went into action, with its 55-mile top speed and its heavy-slugging 76-mm. cannon.

Fresh from the fighting front, an official Army observer called it "the hottest thing in armored warfare," which was grand news to our ears.

But what really warmed our hearts was the flood of letters — thousands of them — which poured in from the men who've worked and trained and lived with this destroyer, once they learned that Buick builds the Hellcat.

Buick powers the Liberator, too. And our mail has been heavy with letters from flyers, telling us how much faith they've come to feel in those great-powered, Buick-built, valve-in-head aircraft engines.

So pardon us, please, if we feel a bit proud about the way these boys write us. Such cheers as theirs are the finest reward anyone could ask or hope for.

"There isn't anything in the army that can compare with it!"

"FOR SPEED, POWER AND FIGHTING ABILITY THE M-18 TAKES THE CAKE".....

"Believe me, sirs, the things you say about these destroyers is absolutely true!"

"A Sweetheart to drive and work on — I have done both."

"I believe it's the most distinctive and most maneuverable weapon in the army today."

"No of the Tank Destroyers believe them to be the answer to everything."

"You sure came out with a name that fits them!"
