Beauty IS YOUR DUTY

By RITA WHISENANT
Licensed Cosmetologist

HAVE you ever thought of holding a precious beauty... Do you know that one square centimetre of facial skin contains over three million cells? Three million cells! Add to that one yard of blood vessels and four yards of nerves, 200 nerve endings and 100 sweat glands... you think that just one centimetre of your facial skin is that complicated... imagine what marvelous organization the entire surface of your skin has!

And all that skin... physicians have said... your skin is really a lung! You can't see or feel your skin breathe, but it does breathe. Specialists lately have been more than a passive interest that which is responsible for beautiful radiant skin.

Their major contribution to the field of cosmetics is the news discovery of Biodyne the skin respiratory factor which has an influence on the circulation, stimulation and balancing of skin metabolism.

Biodynes were first discovered a short time ago and were used primarily in an ointment for burns. As far as we're concerned here, Biodyne is a substance which helps with the respiration of the skin cells by increasing the flow of vitalizing oxygen. But for a whole subject in itself, so we'll go on from here next week.
