PAGEANT SET BY NAZARENE CHURCH HERE

The musical pageant, "Christ-mas Stars" by Dorothy Lehman Sumerau will be presented by the combined church, church choir and Sunday school depart-ments of the Church of the Naz-arene at Garden and Martin Fri-day at 8 p. m. The choir num-bers by various composers, cen-tering around the nativity, are interspersed by the reading of the continuing Christmas story as narrated by S/Sgt. Philip Schwabb, lately of the South Pa-cific, and various drills and exercises by the children of the school in traditional costume. Sunday morning at 9:45 classes Christ." The young people's and church departments will meet jointly at 7:30 Sunday evening, to present a Christmas play written by Betty McKinney and Marie Wright of the local church, de-picting courage and strength brought to homes by faith in Christ on the part of those who have loved ones on foreign bat-tiefields. Following this a tri-bute will be given service men from the church in a candle-light service when the roll will be called and a brief record of called and a brief record of service of each is given.

TIGHTER CONTROLS OVER LUMBER SEEN

forwarded to Pedroni. The account tells of his escape, with two companions, from a large group of German soldiers who took them prisoner after they had wandered too far from allied lines while on a scouting mission. Pedroni wrote: "Just after we landed in Hol-land, an officer, another fellow and I were out scouting around, and ran into the Ger-mans, about three or four hun-dred of them, and they captured us. It so happened that they didn't know where they were, or where they were going, so they just moved around, and us right with them. Toward evening they got close to our lines, and got into a good fight with our men—and with us in back of the Jerry lines!" According to Pedroni, it soon became dark, and the Americans had managed to kill a large num-ber of Germans by that time, but shells from the big guns were still dropping all around them, and the three and wait—and hope. By chance, two of the German guards were killed by rifle fire, which left three others watching the men. Finally, only two guards remained, and the three men who had been recently taken prisoner, made a story WASHINGTON, Dec. 21 (P)-fighter controls over lumber distribution were envisioned to-day by the war production board.

day by the war production board. The agency predicted that pro-duction from December to mid-March will "be substantially be-low" that of last winter, with the greatest drop expected in the Pacific northwest. J. Philip Boyd, director of WPB's lumber and lumber prod-ucts division, said lack of man-power-with me leaving the woods and mills for work in oth-er war industries—is the chief factor curtailing production. Scarcity of heavy-duty tires, he added, is a contributing factor. Boyd urged the industry to concentrate on better grades and species of lumber, calling the production of low grades a waste of manpower and equipment.

Story of Son's Capture,

Another wartime thriller was revealed when Cpl. Alfred Pedroni, son of P. G. Pedroni, 630 Main, wrote of his short-lived experience as a prisoner of the Germans. The story of his capture and eventual escape was told in a letter to his moth-er, Mrs. Evelyn Lamb of Red-mond. Ore, and the news was forwarded to Pedroni. The account tells of his escape, with two companions, from a
