

SHASTA VIEW DISTRICT MAY RE-ORGANIZE

Twenty-six landowners in the Shasta View irrigation district met Thursday at Malin to consider the possibility of reorganizing the district and to negotiate an amendatory contract with the federal bureau of reclamation.

All landowners present were unanimous in their opinion that the district should be reorganized and an amendatory contract negotiated with the government.

A committee was appointed to represent the landowners in the area, including Frank Payer, Sr., J. E. Whitlatch and Kenneth Wilson. An attorney will be engaged to advise the committee on reorganization of the district and the committee also plans to contact the Oregon secretary of state at Salem for further information on the problem.

CORVIN VINYARD PASSES SUDDENLY

NEW PINE CREEK—The community was shocked to learn that Corvin Vinyard was found lying dead in the office of his blacksmith shop last Saturday.

The body was found by Roy Parin when he was making a business call. Parin notified attendants at the local telephone office at Paris store of the tragedy. Vinyard apparently died of a heart attack while on his feet, holding a wrench in his right hand and his pipe in his left. He wore his glasses, and never moved after falling forward on his face. Some think the five weeks' sickness he had prior to his passing may have weakened his heart.

At the age of 73 he was still active and continued to operate his blacksmith shop, which he had run for nearly half a century. In conjunction with his blacksmithing he sold farm equipment and bought grain for the Farmer's Exchange in Alturas, and was well known throughout this valley, Warner valley, Paisley and the greater part of Lake and Modoc counties.

Being one of the oldest residents of this community, having served faithfully until the late, Corvin Vinyard will be remembered by New Pine Creekers as a man of strong convictions, dutiful, and always ready to lend a helping hand for civic betterment or to one in trouble.

He is survived by his wife, Hazel; two brothers, Virgil and Will E., the former of Yuba City, Calif., and the latter of Red Bluff, Calif.; five sisters, Mrs. Mary Miller of New Pine Creek, Mrs. Allie Battell of Lake City, Mrs. Sadie Woodcock of Roseburg, and Misses Ettie and Nettie Vinyard, the twins of the family, who are retired school teachers living in Los Angeles, and one daughter, Olive, of Santa Rosa, Calif.

Before the pickup order could be canceled, two patrolmen drove up, ordered the Livelys to stop. Lively was so excited he couldn't comply immediately. Patrolmen had their revolvers drawn just as the patrol car radio blared forth the cancellation.

FATAL ACCIDENT HELD UNAVOIDABLE

A verdict of "unavoidable" was returned by the coroner's jury following an inquest held Friday morning in connection with the accidental death of J. C. Fitzgerald. He died Tuesday of injuries sustained when struck by a car operated by Ensign G. B. Law.

Ensign Law testified in his own behalf and his story was substantiated by Ensign Richard J. Petipas, passenger in the Law car at the time of the accident. The men were en route to the station for their regular flying hours. Both are due to go overseas soon, it is understood.

Odell Olson, city police officer, told the jury that Ensign Law's car was in good condition at the time and that the machine came to a full stop within 18 feet. According to Ensign Law, Mr. Fitzgerald stepped from the rear of a parked car three feet from the Law machine.

Members of the jury were Gene Larsen, Allen Sloan, John Martin, Frank Lowell, H. B. Ashley and A. B. Collins. Dr. George H. Adler, Klamath county coroner, conducted the inquest.
