Western Squad In Perfect Condition For Clash With East New Year's Day

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 27 (AP)—For the first time in the 20-year history of the East-West classic, the 1945 New Year's Day game in Kezar stadium will be a demonstration of T-formation football.

Both teams were polishing up on the tricky offensive today, and Homer Norton, co-coach, said the western stars were "absorbing it."

The post-season game is played for the benefit of crippled children's hospitals, operated by the nobles of the Mystic Shrine, a Masonic order. Supposed to exemplify the rivalry between football stars from east and west of the Mississippi river, teams are made up of college and service team players selected by invitation.

Orin (Babe) Hollinbery, West co-coach, said his team was in perfect physical shape for Monday's contest with the possible exception of tackle Bob McClure of Nevada who suffered a sprained finger. Both coaches praised the work of Don Paul, UCLA center moved to guard; Dub Wooten, Oklahoma end; Bob Kennedy, March Field fliers' fullback.

NEW YORK, Dec. 27 (AP)—The Metropolitan Intercollegiate Basketball committee recently gave $500 to the National Association of Basketball Coaches and Prexy Ned Irish of Madison Square matched the donation.

The dough was given to the association "for use at its discretion in furthering the development of the game." Nothing was said about buying silencers for noisy referees.

Marine Pvt. Ray "Whitey" Kuroski, now a regular on Princeton's basketball team, never was more than a high school athlete before he turned up at Penn State after four years in service. Now he's a three-sport man at two colleges.

Les Goates, Salt Lake City Deseret News; "Judge Landis left an estate valued at $100,000, says news item. With all passes. Both coaches concentrated on pass defense in their workouts yesterday.

USC's pass attack, with Jim Hardy pitching, looms as more impressive than the Vols'. Tennessee, relying largely on the right arm of Buster Stephens, fresh triple-threat, has not amassed a spectacular passing record, probably because the Vol running game has been plenty good.

Trojan end Don Hardy, brother of Jim, was abed with flu yesterday, and Paul Salata, 18-year-old freshman, worked in his place. Dave Lavelle, reserve guard, returned to action after a week off with a leg injury.

ONE-MINUTE SPORTS PAGE

Joe Stanowicz, Army's great football guard, never played on a team that lost a game in his senior year. He enjoyed perfect seasons his last two years of Hackettstown, N. J. high school (he was a fullback) and another at Blair academy before entering West Point.

All-star high school soccer teams representing New York and Philadelphia will clash here New Year's Day. Bert Bell, who shifted his pro football interests from Philadelphia to Pittsburgh a few years ago, still holds the lease on Shibe park and sublets it to the Eagles for their home games.

Back in 1903, Cy Seymour, star National league outfielder, was reported to have "an aversion to high places" that made it necessary for him to sleep in a lower berth on trains. Wonder why some rookie hasn't revived that one to escape from an upper?

We timidly mentioned the "Grey Mask" but Wally snorted. "The Mask is just a slambang type of mauler and doesn't know half the holds some of the other boys do and knows nothing about clean, scientific rassing," Wally champion, Paavo Katonen, said. Wally Paavo is a heavier grappler and knows more holds than any other body-bender who has rassed here to date, he continued. Jack Kiser has the makings of a fine rasser, but needs more experience, while Gust Johnson rates high in Wally's book.

Boys Who Are in Big Fight Want Their Sports

By RUSS NEWLAND SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 27

(AP)—Civilian sports in general, horse racing in particular, has just received a punch on the nose by the government which sort of makes this number timely. . . . it comes from headquarters of the 41st division, southwest Pacific, and is based on one of the touring baseball shows, composed of civilians, which are bringing a type of entertainment to members of the armed forces, often up to the front lines.

Whitley Lewis, Cleveland sports writer, is with one of the touring units and in the gang is Steve O'Neill, manager of the Detroit Tigers.

Quoting O'Neill now: "When we started out here, I wouldn't say it was with trepidation, but we weren't precisely sure of our reception. Frankly we expected either a horde of kids clutching autograph books or a flock so fatigued from fighting from foxholes, they wouldn't flip an eyelid of interest in a mere handful of ball players. But this is really something."

O'Neill gestured toward a skin diamond upon which was being played a game between two teams for the 41st division championship. It was a regular scheduled contest, not just a show being put on for the fighting boys.

"These guys are ball players," O'Neill continued. "I was supposed to umpire at third base, but after the first inning I decided to get behind the catcher. I wanted to look over the pitcher's stuff, a fellow named Fred Sanford. I remembered that before Uncle Sam beckoned, he had a swell year with the Toledo Mud Hens. He's the property of the St. Louis Browns but I guess Luke Sewell won't mind my peaking. Sanford looks good, his delivery mashes his throw. I couldn't tell whether he was going to throw a curve or a fast ball. That's form and you don't get it from a mail order catalogue.

"The two catchers were good. Hal Schimling was with Yakima of the Western International league. He's still a kid come after having been over here 34 months. He has a nice throwing arm and savvy's the pitchers. The other catcher, Bruno Pellegrini, is a first loopy. Pretty democratic outfit, they even let the officers play. Pellegrini, they tell me, was some shakes as a Santa Clara hallback and played in the Sugar Bowl games of '37 and '38.

"Back home some of those who always manage to see things under the bed are apprehensive that fighting so fierce a war as these boys are doing, will essentially change them. I know better now. Baseball is one of the ways America expresses itself when it wants to let its hair down and those lads still have it."

Well, that's Manager O'Neill's story. The boys who are in the big light seem to want their sports.

WE ASKED WALLY

The other day, last Saturday to be exact, we sort of got to wondering which of the cranium crunchers on the northwest passage this year was the top mat mauler.

We decided to consult a guy who should really know and asked the opinion of our friend, Wally Moss, who takes his life in his hands every Friday night at the mummy garden by refereeing the biceps bravls. Wally has had plenty of experience in the ring himself, as he was all-very lighthoavy king from 1921-22, winning the crown in the Panama Canal Zone.

Wally threw plenty of leather through these years and is a capable judge of the talents and limitations of the muscle men.

The top torso-twister to appear this year at the Klamath biceps bin is none other than the Pacific coast ex-lighthoavy champ, Paavo Katonen, said Wally. Paavo is a heavier grappler and knows more holds than any other body-bender who has rassed here to date, he continued.

Jack Kiser has the makings of a fine rasser, but needs more experience, while Gust Johnson rates high in Wally's book.

College Athletes Will Be Called Up for Review Along With Professionals

By BUS HAM WASHINGTON, Dec. 27 (AP)

Teen-age players will carry the ball for most college teams next fall if the army and navy induct their 4-F's.

Such a development was seen as a distinct possibility today as the office of war mobilization said that college as well as professional 4-F's will be called up for review in scrapping the manpower barrel.

However, the New Year's Day bowl games seem secure. There is little time left for any re-examinations. Further, it was said there is no present intention of slapping any new transportation restrictions on football.

War Mobilizer James F. Byrnes originally mentioned only the pros in stating that he and the public find it difficult to understand how men can be unfit physically for military service and yet be able to compete with the greatest athletes of the nation in games demanding physical fitness.

Whether instructions to selective service to re-examine 4-F's also applied to college athletes Byrnes' office said that they cover everybody, that there can be no discrimination.

Since many 4-F's on college teams are the older players, their induction would leave principally the youngsters—16 to 18—for next autumn's play. This eventually could be an equalizing factor, some of the teams in the bowl games are star-studded with 4-F's.

Then, there are some college athletes, as well as pros, who served a hitch in the armed forces and were discharged for various disabilities. These, too, are in for a re-check.

Common disabilities suffered by 4-F athletes include trick knees, stomach ailments, perforated ear drums, bad shoulders and flat feet.

Ducats on Sale
Tickets will go on sale today for the basketball game January 3 between the sailors from the naval air station and the Leatherneck quintet from the Marine Barracks at the KUHS gymnasium. Ducats will be sold at the air station, the barracks and the USO. Admission is 25 cents to service men their guests and students while all other tickets are 50 cents.

Jai Alai Opening Sees Heavy Betting
MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 27 (AP)—The race tracks, faced with a shutdown January 3, are not the only places drawing big betting crowds here.

Christmas night 3541 spectators attended the opening of the jai alai fronton and bet a total of $38,295—a large sum to be wagered on the basque game.

The game, if you are unfamiliar with it, resembles handball played by acrobats.

REWARD OFFERED!
TORONTO, Dec. 27 (AP)—Mal. Conny Sythe, managing director of the Toronto Maple Leafs in the National Hockey league, today offered a $1000 reward to anyone who could persuade Montreal to sell their star, Maurice Richard, to Toronto for $25,000.

Mulligan Chosen Top Minor League Business Manager

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 27 (AP)—

William G. Mulligan, business manager of the Seattle Rainiers of the Pacific Coast Baseball league, was chosen by Sporting News, national baseball weekly, as outstanding minor league business manager of the year yesterday.

No. 1 men of the major league's were William DeWitt, general manager of the St. Louis Browns; Luke Sewell, the Browns' manager; Martin Marion, shortstop of the St. Louis Cardinals, and "Wish" Egan, Detroit baseball scout.

Tulsa Gridders Arrive in Miami For Orange Bowl

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 27 (AP)—

Determined to make every minute count before their New Year's Day tilt with Georgia Tech, 21 Tulsa football players will arrive in Miami yesterday to take over the University of Miami's practice field today for their first Orange Bowl game.

The second contingent of the 40-man Tulsa squad, shepherded by Head Coach Henry F. Prater, due to roll into Miami late today—possibly on the same train that will bring the Tech Engineers from Atlanta.
