

Ashland Downs Pelicans In First Game, 45-33

Jandreau, Samuelson Pace Grizzly Attack With Total of 29 Counters

Paced by Samuelson with 14 markers and Jandreau with 15, the Ashland Grizzlies blasted the Pelicans last night, 45 to 33, in the first game of a two-game series at Ashland.

This pair of bucket twins accounted for 29 points between them and were the difference between the two clubs. Bob Perkins, stellar Klamath backcourt man, decided not to make the trip at the last minute due to pressing details connected with his induction into the service soon. Larry White started in Perkins' place and turned in a good ball game.

Jim Noreen led the Pelican offensive with nine counters and White, Palmer and Busman accounted for five points each. The K-men jumped off to an early lead and held a one point advantage, 13 to 12, at the end of the first half.

In the second period, the Grizzlies passed their rivals and were out in front by six tallies, 20 to 14, at the culmination of the initial half.

Fighting back in the third frame, the Pelicans went into a 23 to 22 lead momentarily, but at this time Jandreau cut loose with four lay-in shots in a row to give the Ashland five a comfortable margin of safety, 34 to 23, at the end of the quarter.

The fourth canto was played on almost even terms with the Grizzlies racking up 11 counters and the Pelicans coming through with 10 to make the final count 45 to 33 for Ashland.

In the fourth frame, Jerry Thorne sprained his ankle and is a doubtful starter tonight. Clarence Busman will step into the pivot post. This is a tough break for the Klamath cagers, but Busman has proved himself a capable performer and should fit in nicely.

Cool Marble Cook said last night that it was the speed and floorwork of Jandreau and Samuelson, both returning lettermen from last year, that turned the tide in Ashland's favor. Cook also stated that these two speed merchants would definitely be stopped tonight in the second tilt of the series and if the Pelicans can halt their bucket brigade they should topple the Ashland quintet and even the series.

Summary: Klamath (33) Pelican (45) Pop, 2 F... 15, Jandreau Palmer, 5 F... 2, Provost Thorne, 2 C... 4 O'Hara White, 5 G... 14, Samuelson Noreen, 9 G... 8, Reedy Substitutes: Klamath: Busman 5, Alexander 1, Redkey 4, Biehn, Zarosinski. Ashland: Tison 2, Peterson, Flaherty, Merriman, Cannon.

Jack Reynolds still deserves more of a sendoff than he received from the sport pages of the nation. Reynolds was well known in Frisco where he used to promote weekly crunch cards on which he, himself, was a frequent headliner. He featured events in which bleep boys of his own size and weight appeared and some of them were colorful characters.

Jack's greatest weakness was his unfortunate tendency to overmatch himself. He apparently figured he could guzzle just about any guy around and, sad experience to the contrary, did not seem to make him any wiser.

Well, colorful Jack Reynolds with his flamboyant shirts and neckties won't be around any more and our friend was wrong. Reynolds was the wrong geel.

Marines Meet 'Cats Tonight

Special Invitation Issued To Klamath Falls Civilian Populace to Attend Game

It will be a small but experienced Willamette quintet against a rangy, hard-driving marine five tonight when the two teams meet in a return game on the post basketball court, at 8 p. m.

Willamette's mentor, Duke Trotter, will probably start Tate, diminutive forward, and Zautz, sharp-shooting guard, a pair who continually gave the marines trouble in their last game at Salem, along with Gilpin, forward, Stofft at center, and Goodman at guard.

Trotter has a smart defensive player in Stofft, and it was mainly due to the 'Cat pivotman's efforts that Red Gilbert, Leatherneck high-scorer, was held to only two field goals. Zautz shared high-scoring honors last week with Domitrovich.

Willamette also has a well balanced second string in Ward and Odgerard, forwards; Mayfield, center, and Liebel and Sanderson at the guard positions.

Les Israel, marine coach, will probably start Burkland and Mills at forward, Gilbert at center, and Cox and Domitrovich at guard. His reserve strength will be given added punch after Monday with the return of Russell Cleveland to the squad.

The Willamette team is composed entirely of navy men enrolled in the V-12 program at the university, so the game tonight boils down to the old rivalry of the navy against the marines. Several of the boys on the Willamette team have had previous college experience and should give a good account of themselves.

Col. George O. Van Orden, commanding officer of the Marine Barracks has issued a special invitation to all civilians of Klamath Falls to attend the game free of charge. It has been arranged with the Klamath Union Bus company to have a special bus leave 4th and Main at 7:15 p. m. for the Marine Barracks and parking facilities will be arranged for anyone desiring to drive his own car. Civilians may enter the post in private cars and will be directed to the post gym.

The Marine Barracks band, well known to most citizens of Klamath Falls, will play both before the game and at half time.

Jack Kiser Wins Right To Meet "Grey Mask" Next Friday; Olsen Shows Stuff

At the Klamath Crunch court last night, Jollin' Jack Kiser won the right to meet the "Grey Mask" next Friday by dropping Tough Tony Ross in the main event, but wily Milt Olsen stole all the thunder.

In the "battle royal," Lou Beliveau and Gust Johnson were the first two muscled eliminated while Olsen and Pete Belcastro were the next pair out.

In the free-for-all, as well as in his semi-windup bout with Belcastro, Milt really showed he had the stuff and, although he lost the bout when Pete clamped a surfboard on him in the third heat, he went out with the cheers of the crowd ringing in his ears.

Ross and Kiser emerged triumphant in the who's-got-the-button contest and slugged it out in the headline scuffle with Jack flopping Tony in two out of three tumbles. Kiser took the first fall with a body press after he had floored his rival with a series of powerful forearm blows. Ross came back, however, and dumped Kiser by running him into the corner post and following up with a full body slam followed by a body press to take the second tumble.

In the fifth canto, Jack went out for blood and took the final flop and the match with a reverse body slam and body press. As the winner of the clambake, Kiser automatically gets the nod to crunch craniums with the masked menace next Friday.

It was the semi-windup tussle, however, that had the fans talking to themselves. In this fracas the Pete Belcastro really poured it on his smaller opponent, but Olsen proved more than equal to Pete's tactics and gave a fine account of himself until the third frame when Pete heaved Milt through the ropes. When he courageously climbed back into the square, Belcastro applied a surfboard that put Olsen out for the count. Referee Wally Moss and Belcastro almost tangled several times to add to the excitement, but it was Olsen who really supplied the spark—win, lose or draw.

In the curtain-raiser Gloomy Gant Johnson toyed for a while with Lou Beliveau and then gave him the business with a surfboard from which Lou was unable to return.

So in Gladiator's gully next Friday, it will be popular Jack Kiser against the hooded hoodlum, but Klamath hoodling fans will not forget the great showing of Milt Olsen for a long, long time.

Three Pro Golf Stars Tied For First in Phoenix Open

By FRANK PITMAN PHOENIX, Ariz., Jan. 13 (AP)—Three pro golf stars were in a first place tie today at the start of the second round of the $5000 Phoenix Open after favored Sam Snead spent most of yesterday playing unorthodox shots from around trees and out of traps.

Byron Nelson, Toledo, O., Herman Barron, White Plains, N. Y., and Bob Hamilton, Chicago, were deadlocked at 68, three under par for the flat, multi-trapped Phoenix country club course. The golfers play 18 holes today and will finish the 72-hole event tomorrow with 36 holes.

Snead, Hot Springs, Va., pro leading the current winter tour, came in with a 69. Loquacious Sammy amused a large gallery by quipping about his bad breaks.

"I'm in the woods so much, I feel like a lumberjack," he remarked once to fans who marveled at his recover shots. Harold (Jug) McSpaden, Sanford, Me., defending titleholder, shot a 70. Bracketed with him were John Revolta, Evanston, Ill.; Kimmy Johnson, Detroit; Denny Shute, Akron, O.; Les

NEW ORLEANS, La., Jan. 13 (AP)—Eddie Meloncon will put his thoroughbred two-year-old filly, Miss Bali, in a night club floor show, he says, before he will take $400 for her.

He termed a $400 bid at an auction sale a "give away" offer. He paid $1600 for the racer at Lexington, Ky.

Wildcats Battle Henley-Bonanza Combine Tonight

Tonight on the KUHS floor, the Wildcats coached by Paul Engstead, will tangle with a Henley-Bonanza combine starting at 8 p. m. At 7 p. m. a preliminary tussle will be played between the Klamath freshmen five and the Henley-Bonanza B quintet.

The Wildcats have showed plenty of drive in practice and in the few games they have played to date and will give a good account of themselves tonight.

Both these court battles should be good ball games, and a good crowd is hoped for when the opening fray gets underway at 7 p. m.

Huskies Edge Out Idaho Vandals

By The Associated Press Still unbeaten but slightly battle scarred after edging out the University of Idaho Vandals last night, 51 to 48, the University of Washington Huskies looked forward with little relief today to a resumption of the basketball argument tonight in Seattle.

At the same time Oregon State was preparing at Corvallis to play host to the University of Oregon, which was as anxious to remain in second position in the Northern Division, Pacific coast conference chase as was Oregon State to get out of the winless class.

A small but smoothly operating Idaho team stunned Washington fans by bottling up the Husky attack for 8 minutes and building the count up to 13-2 before allowing Washington a field goal.

With his navy trainee five stopped cold by the Idahoans, Coach Lee Edmundson sent in some of his civilian aces and a strong comeback cut the Vandal margin to 21-20 by halftime.

Bill Vandenberg and Bob Jorgensen, trainee and civilian, respectively, led this drive and paced the second half attack which got the Huskies in front of the eye-threatening Vandals. The lead changed hands three times at the start of the second period and there were two ties before a charity throw by Vandenberg after 7 minutes put Washington in front to stay.

Twice, however, Idaho pulled within one point, at 37-36 and 39-38. Rushing the ball to get up for their lack in height, Vandals kept the Huskies in shorts but could not prevent a shower of basket tries. A Don McMillan, Husky ace, was held to six tallies. Vandenberg collected 13 Jorgensen 13.

Len Payne and Bob O'Connor had 13 each for Idaho. At four line the teams showed usual accuracy. Washington missing only five of 13 free throws. Idaho (51) FG FT Pct. Vandenberg, f. 6 3 1.0. British Pros Disagree On Suggestion That Golt Pellet Be Standardized

LONDON, Jan. 13 (AP)—British professionals are divided today over the suggestion by the English golf union that the golf ball be standardized in weight and size all over the world.

At present there is a difference in diameter between the British and American pellets although they are of the same weight. Both are 1.62 ounces in weight while the English ball is 1.62 inch in diameter while the American ball is 1.68 inch.

George Duncan, British Open champion of 1920 and a professional at Mere, Cheshire, said "the royal and ancient club (British golf ruling body) and the U. S. Golf association should come to an agreement so as to preserve uniformity throughout the golfing world."

But Charles Whitecombe, captain of the British Ryder cup team, said "don't mess with it. Any change in the ball won't hurt the professionals but the amateurs like to hit the ball as far as they can. Personally, I don't like the American ball."
