

LOT SHOE SALE AUTHORIZED BY OPA

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26 (AP)—The rationing board authorized a ration-free sale of men's and boys' shoes, beginning February 1 and ending March 3. The agency estimated that about 4,500,000 pairs of shoes will be sold during the sale. This is about 3 per cent less than the total number of shoes in wholesale stock. The sale is a ration-free "odd lot" sale. It is held July 10-30, 1944. The shoes sold are of sizes 1 to 6, but shoes of sizes 7 to 12 have been excluded this year. The price for shoes from the sale must be at least 25 per cent below the regular price. The retailer's mark-up must not exceed 10 per cent.

PROVOST MARSHAL DENIES CITY VICE

PORTLAND, Jan. 26 (AP)—City police have "immediately closed or corrected" any vice establishment brought to their attention, Capt. Ernest P. Thom, Portland area provost marshal, declared today.

For that reason, no section of Portland has been declared out of bounds to servicemen, he said. His statement refuted city club charges that police had not tried to discourage prostitution.

Commander Edward F. Gallagher, 13th naval district spokesman, backed Thom with a declaration that "As far as I'm concerned, the police are doing good work."

Mayor Earl Riley said the increase of venereal disease among servicemen stationed near here—four times the national average, according to a criminologist—was caused by an "influx of indiscriminate persons."

Man Sentenced For Robbery 'Joke'

PORTLAND, Jan. 26 (AP)—Mathew C. McCabe was in jail here today despite his protests that he robbed a woman for a joke, thinking he knew her—then found out she was a stranger.

The woman who identified him said he threatened her, only to immediately hand back her purse. Judge John B. Seabrook gave McCabe a 35-day sentence.

WHEAT

CHICAGO, Jan. 26 (AP)—Commission house buying of rye futures, causing sales of wheat over a cent a bushel at times, influenced trade in other pits today and all grains were firm.

Active rye purchasing followed a report from a commission house that Senator Thomas (D-Okla.), chairman of the agricultural committee, had requested the war food administration to re-instate its former order requiring distillers to use 10 per cent of more of rye in the grain mash used for industrial alcohol. The order was rescinded last November.

Thomas said, the commission house reported, that Chicago elevators were jammed with about 9,500,000 bushels of rye, interfering seriously with the handling of other grains, particularly high moisture corn.

At the finish wheat was 1/4 to 1/8c higher than yesterday's close, May $1.18 1/2. Corn was up 1/4 to 2/8c, May $1.12. Oats were 1/4 to 1/8c higher, May 69 1/2c. Rye was up 1/4 to 2/8c, May $1.14. Barley was 1/4 to 1/8c higher, May $1.09 1/2.

OPPOSITION GROWS TO FREEWAY BILL

SALEM, Jan. 26 (AP)—Representatives of motor courts, coastal property owners and the state grange protested to the senate highway committee yesterday against the Freeway bill, which would give the highway commission authority to prevent access to highways, and thus to restrict such developments as roadside gas stations and lunch counters.

The bill is sponsored by the Portland chamber of commerce and the Oregon Roadside council.

J. M. Devers, attorney for the highway commission, said the bill would eliminate many traffic hazards, save time for drivers, move more traffic, reduce property damage, reduce traffic fatalities, and conform to the request of the federal public roads administration.

Chamber Executives Open Annual Meeting

EUGENE, Jan. 26 (AP)—The annual meeting of the Oregon chamber executives association opened here today, attracting presidents and secretaries of chambers of commerce throughout Oregon.

Measures pending in the legislature will be explained by several senators and representatives here from Salem. Upstate cooperation among chambers of commerce will be the topic of a discussion led by Malcolm Epley, Klamath Falls chamber president.

Something to Remember

The following poem was composed by an Oregon boy, Cpl. John Lynch, Jr., who gave his life in the service of his country.

Read this poem over the second time then let your conscience be your guide in your contribution to the total War effort.

I'm full of damned malaria,
I shake the whole day long,
The quinine's ringing in my ears,
I'm anything but strong.

Mosquito bites all over me,
You'd think I had the itch.
My ears are full of Guinea mud,
My bunk a muddy ditch.

I'm living in a jungle
It's hot as merry hell,
K-rations are my menu,
No cooking can I smell.

For this I get two bucks a day,
And a chance for a little ground
That measures four by six by four
And a covered grassy mound.

My pal who came down here with me,
The lad was just eighteen,
Got him a bed he'll never leave,
The coverlet is grassy green.

Another one will see no more,
Another one lost an arm,
And hundreds more I do not know
Are safe now from all harm.

But when I hear of a bunch of guys
Who're safe and far away
Refuse to work because they want
Two dollars more a day.

I only wish we had them here
For just a week or two,
To live in Guinea jungles
And there we'd let them stew.

We'd give them malaria,
Let the mosquitoes have a feast,
We'd make them bury many a lad
From north, west, south and east.

We'd make them sleep in foxholes,
We'd feed them from a can,
We'd let the hot sun blister them
It would be no "Palm Beach Tan."

We'd let them hear the wounded
moan,
We'd let them see them lie
With stipers' bullets whizzing close,
With star shells in the sky.

And then we'd send them home
again
To their 10 bucks per day,
To tell the others what they'd seen
Way down New Guinea way.

I'll bet those guys would have enough,
And right at home they'd stay,
No strikes they'd start right soon
again
For "two bucks more per day."

How many lives has an M-18 HELLCAT?

One way to answer that question is to take a look at battle-front reports from a Buick engineer, sent to get firsthand dope on how the Buick-built M-18 Hellcat is doing.

On one occasion, he writes, one of our Hellcats ran into nine enemy tanks of various sizes.

When the smoke cleared away, all of the German vehicles lay in blasted ruins. The Hellcat was knocked out, too—but only after taking a nine-to-one toll.

In another engagement, eight M-18's were attacked by 20 enemy tanks.

When the battle was over, three German tanks were scurrying for cover, 17 were done for—and none of our vehicles or men had been hurt.

But that isn't the whole story.

To the men who handle them, ability to stay in the fight is just as important as the Hellcat's 55-mile top speed, its ability to master any terrain, and the accuracy of its high velocity 76-mm. cannon.

On that score, this can be quoted direct from the same sort of battle-front reports:

"The vehicles have gone mile after mile with little or no maintenance, and in most cases they keep right on going."

All of which, as we see it, makes a gratifying picture. The Hellcats are fast. They go anywhere. They hit hard. And, in the good Buick tradition, they can take it.

Which is exactly what Buick men and Ordnance experts were aiming for from the start.
