Advertising Roundup

By DELBERT ADDISON

PAUL Mallon's discussion here yesterday of the textile industry, the "chaotic condition which every woman knows," may have left you with the feeling that it is about time the OPA did step in. And that may be very true.

ADDISON

What he didn't go into though was that every normal action of the industry already has been tampered with, directly or indirectly by the government. It now is becoming uncomfortably clear that this tampering calls for more counter-tampering, by the OPA and WPB to restore some semblance of balance.

The normal aim of any business is to make a better living than the next fellow, and the normal way to do this has been to give greater value for the customer's dollar—through greater efficiency in production and distribution.

Relief from present conditions can come only with relief of business from artificial tampering, and that can come only after the war.

In the meantime we will have more tampering, more chaotic conditions, and the retailer will continue to grit his teeth and bear the brunt of most of the buyer's abuse. The retailer will get the abuse because, though all these actions are beyond his control up to the time that he receives the finished product, he's the one who faces the customer.

And because the retailer is due for more headaches, he'll probably go a little easier on his advertising . . . which will enable us to stay within our newspaper limitations, without further tampering by us.

New Pine Creek

There was a large attendance at the East Side grange meeting held last Saturday evening when the third and fourth degrees were given to one of the largest groups taking these degrees in recent years. Many had received their obligations several months ago but had not taken the degrees. Mrs. Eliza Ross was reinstated and Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Scott were obligated.

The names of Faye Shaeffer, Nancy Hammersley and Helen Light were voted on and they will be obligated in the near future.

The lengthy meeting lasted until nearly midnight, followed by supper and one hour or two of dancing.

Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Cloud, Mr. and Mrs. Carrol Cloud and Mrs. Velma Newcomb motored to Klamath Falls last Sunday on business, returning on Tuesday.

Tom Dick recently sold his dairy cows to Lloyd Ogle of Lakeview. Tom retained one Jersey for his home use, but now he aims to get into the Black Angus or Durham milk strain.

Mrs. Allie Hammersley was a hostess to the Home Economics club last Thursday afternoon at the grange hall. Seven members were present. Three new members, Mrs. E. Benefiel, Mrs. Imogene, Batman and Mrs. Louise Miller attended. The matter of building a new ladies rest-room was discussed and it was decided to have that work done as soon as possible. Mrs. Lillian Reid will be next hostess at a meeting to be held on February 1.

Mr. and Mrs. Ora Steward's daughter, Thelma, who is now living at Redding, has a new baby boy, born January 11. His name is Douglas Lee. Leland Stewart, his father, is in the service.

Clifford Ross has been called into the service. He and his wife, Alice Stewart, now living in Kansas with her husband's folks, were former New Pine Creek residents.

Mr. and Mrs. Ora Steward are now living at Lyman, Colo.

Mrs. Allie Hammersley returned last Tuesday afternoon from Alton, where she had been visiting her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Henderson and family for a few days.

Granville Riggs and family moved back into their dwelling here last Tuesday from the west side Crane Creek Lumber company's logging camp, where he has been employed.

Yes, they are still going up there. Where? Why, up to Chase's office, Room 203, Odd Fellows' Building to have their Income Tax figured out. Let Chase chase it down.

Delores Maxwell of Bonanza, and Harriett Ann Davig of Klamath Falls, spent a recent weekend with Mrs. Harry Frazier and family.

Mrs. Mary Dearborn spent Wednesday and Thursday with her daughter, Cora Leavitt and family.

Friends of the People family all rejoiced in the good news that a letter has been received from Lloyd Pepple, a prisoner of the Japanese since the fall of Wake Island. The letter was written to his wife, Katie Pepple, and the only word received from him in over three years. The letter was written in July and received at Bonanza on January 22.

Mr. and Mrs. George Noble are visiting in Klamath Falls with their son, Bill Noble and family.

On December 26, while on shore leave at some island base in the South Pacific, Neil Grohs saw his brother's (Frank Jr.)

Glance Appals

GLANCE behind the curtain is rather appalling, for the bloody coup de grace which the allies now are in process of administering is merely a gatecrasher into an administrative problem which has no parallel in history.

We start with the circumstance that the reich, which has been one of the world's great powers, will have no government to which the United Nations can assign the task of administering (under allied military control) the highly complicated affairs of some 80,000,000 people.

Since one of our chief aims is the utter destruction of the nazi regime, we are hardly likely to entrust affairs to its officials. Anyway, power is concentrated in the hands of Hitler (if he still lives) and his captains, and all these criminals presumably will be under lock and key.

Unique Situation

THIS presents a situation unique in our time. When the allies defeated Germany in the last war, there was a government ready to administer the affairs of the country. Naturally another government will follow the Hitler regime in due course. But the early days of the allied occupation are likely to be hellish.

The allied military authorities will have to look after millions of civilians whose homes have been destroyed, who lack the necessities of life and who have no immediate prospect of employment. The countless thousands of surrendering German soldiers, many of whom are brutalized nazi fanatics, may have to be put in internment camps for fear that if they are turned loose they will start ravaging the country. Troops who've been used to massacring civilians and prisoners of war won't hesitate at anything.

Vega Creates Strange Light Near Northwestern Horizon

By J. HUGH PRUETT

Astronomer, General Extension Division, Univ. of Oreg.

Inquiries practically identical have recently been received from two correspondents. "What is the strange light seen lately very low in the northwestern evening sky? It changes color, flashes violently, and at times whirls dizzily in a tiny circle."

Whenever the sky is very clear this queer phenomenon may be observed during the next week or two between 7 and 9 p. m. Nothing other is this than the bright star Vega seen through the dense and hazy atmosphere very near the horizon. Vega creates no excitement when high in the sky, but when near its setting point in the far northwest its light passing through a great thickness of dense air reaches us in very distorted form.

A star on the horizon is seen through about 35 times as much air as when directly overhead. A fly above the surface of moving water, near the bank, must present a most fantastic sight to a fish near the middle of the stream. We view the setting stars sideways from the bottom of a sea of turbulent air.

Another asks, "The dark shadow on the moon, seen to a more or less degree at any time excepting at full phase, is cast on the moon by what other celestial body?"

During eclipses of the moon the earth casts its shadow on our lunar neighbor. But this can occur only at full moon. At other times the dark portion is simply the night side of the moon. This body is not self luminous but is lighted by the sun. The dark part is always on the side turned away from the sun. When the moon is a thin crescent in the western twilight we see very little of the moon's surface but the night side.

Another inquires, "What is this velocity of escape, about seven miles a second, of which you sometimes write?"

This is the upward initial speed anything must have at the

Brother of Merrill Man Dies In Dallas

MERRILL—Word was received here Thursday of the sudden death that day from a heart attack, of Edward Steele, Dallas, Ore., brother of R. W. Steele, Merrill. He was 60 years old at the time of his passing, and until the attack had never been ill during his lifetime. He was a pioneer of Oregon, coming to this state from his native Canada at an early age, and was a prominent farmer of the Dallas district.

He is survived by his wife and six sons, one of whom returned home last fall after lengthy overseas service.

R. W. Steele was unable to go north for the services, and the trio was made by Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Steele. Services are scheduled for Sunday at Dallas.

Black Market Deals Reported to OPA

VANCOUVER, Wash., Jan. 27 (AP)—Two Vancouver meat dealers charged today that a black market is operating in Clark county, with farmers selling meat to consumers and small retailers without ration points.

Karl West, chief clerk of Clark county ration board No. 1, said the dealers filed a complaint with him, claiming their former customers were turning to the black market for meat purchases. West did not identify either the complainants or the persons accused.

At Portland, the district OPA said the complaints were being investigated, but declined to disclose details.

Seneca Businesses Reported Sold

CANYON CITY, Jan. 27 (AP)—One of Grant county's largest business transactions in recent years was recorded today with the sale of four businesses in Seneca to Philip and Marcus Dale.

The property, formerly owned by George Kennedy, includes Grant county's fourth largest mercantile store. Purchase price was not disclosed.
