20,000 Pints of Whole Blood Flown To Combat Areas

PORTLAND, Feb. 1 (AP)—Nearly 20,000 pints of whole blood have been flown to Pacific combat areas by naval air transport service planes, the navy announced today. The blood, donated at Red Cross centers in San Francisco and Los Angeles, is led at Oakland, Calif., packed in lightweight portable refrigerators, and flown across the ocean all within a few hours. San Diego and Portland are being added to the west coast centers where whole blood will be contributed.
