CITY OPPOSES DIVERSION OF KLAMATH WATER

The city of Klamath Falls will make an appearance in opposition to the Central Valleys diversion of Klamath waters, at a hearing to be held by the army engineers in the American Legion hall February 20.

At this week's city council meeting, a notice of the hearing was received and opposition action was indicated. E. A. Thomas, city engineer, and Henry Perkins, city attorney, were instructed to appear at the hearing to oppose the diversion, and Perkins was instructed to prepare a resolution stating the opposition, for action at next week's meeting, Tuesday night.

Councilman Paul O. Landry stated that a definite stand should be taken in opposition to the diversion, because all of the water supply is needed in this area. According to Landry, a large amount of waste land might be converted into rich farming land if this water were used to some advantage for irrigation in the basin.
