

Superiority of Rockets, Guns Argued by Military

of five stories on war answer by FRANK CAREY. Washington, Feb. 9 (AP)—Want to spend a long day Pennington building or navy headquarters, just ask: "Is rocket superior to gunfire?"

That's damned accurate if you ask me!" Gen. Coupland says rockets are harmonized with gunights on planes, and oftentimes the "torch guns" go off amid the dit-dit-dit of machine guns. Pilots can release their rockets all at once or seconds apart. They call the latter "ripple" fire or the "rocket serenade."

Rocketeering also is combined with bombing. Here's the low-down on that gentle art from a marine flier who helped destroy a Jap cargo ship in Rabaul harbor:

"There was a boom, then a swishing sound I could hear over the engine. A second later, I pulled the (bomb) lever. The rockets and bombs smashed the ship like the old one-two in boxing."

The army air force fires rockets from P-40 Warhawks, P-47 Thunderbolts, P-38 Lightnings, P-39 Airacobras, P-51 Mustangs, The navy burns 'em out from beneath the wings of Hellcats, Grumman Avenger torpedo planes, Bell tetrapropelled craft, Lockheed-Vega's, Venturas, marine Corsair fighters and others. The British employ Beaufighters, Typhoons, Hurricanes and Swordfish. Even the most enthusiastic rocket devotees say they need two things:

1. "Tailor-made" propellants that will burn evenly all the way.
2. Better means of estimating range for plane targets.

Greater accuracy—at least with rocket fired from launchers on landing.

Greater velocity. I bring a 105-millimeter gun. I drop a shot into the palm of my hand at 2000 yards," says an army ordnance man, with a rocket of comparable velocity. Launchers on planes are even faster.

Advantages of artillery rockets are these: Greater accuracy—at least with rocket fired from launchers on landing.

Multi-Facet

DIAMONDS

Cut with 98 Facets, instead of the usual 58

All diamonds in their natural state are merely lusterless lumps of crystallized carbon. It requires the diamond-cutter's consummate skill to release their hidden fire and brilliance by the cutting and polishing of light-reflecting surfaces. And it is in that man-made process that diamonds will vary — for the finer the facet-cutting the finer the stone... Therein lies the secret of the success of Multi-Facet Diamonds — embodiment of the most important advance in four generations of diamond-cutting experience. Multi-Facet Diamonds are cut with 98 Facets — 40 more than stones of ordinary cut. Laboratory tests, conducted impartially, prove that these 40 extra facets do achieve extra brilliance. Authorities also confirm that these added facets provide greater intensification of color and help to prevent chipping... Yet with all their notable advantages Multi-Facet Diamonds are moderately priced. Available in exquisitely smart rings starting from $75.

50 EXTRA FACETS FOR GREATER BRILLIANCE

Electrical Testing Laboratories at New York devised special equipment to test the brilliance of diamonds before and after Multi-Facet cutting. These tests were supervised by Dr. Frederick H. Pough, Curator of Geology and Mineralogy of The American Museum of Natural History. It was recorded that, in every instance, the diamonds with the 40 extra facets showed measurable increases in brilliance.
