NEW COMMISSION SOUGHT IN BILL

OLYMPIA, Feb. 12 (AP)—Establishment of a Washington state commission on interstate cooperation is sought in a bill submitted to the 29th legislature today by the senate committee on rules and joint rules.

Functions of the commission would be to carry forward participation of this state as a member of the council of state government; to assist legislative, executive, administrative and judicial officials to develop and maintain friendly relations with officials of other states, the federal government and local units of government; and to assist in adoption of compacts, reciprocal statutes, and interchange of research and information.

Under the bill the eight commission members would be appointed by and serve at the pleasure of the governor, and would receive an annual salary of $7,000. Should the governor appoint an elected or other state official the official would receive as compensation the difference between his salary and the salary set for commission members. Elected officials could not be removed during their elective term.

An appropriation of $56,750 is sought.

Farmers are again reminded that February 15 is the closing date for them to submit all receipts and other evidence of work done for payment under the AAA program of 1944. All applications for payment must be signed on or before that date and all farmers who have not already done so are advised to contact the AAA office, Room 207, federal building, immediately.

A year of record use of the conservation practices by farmers in this county has just ended. Dirt moving practices, such as reorganization of farm irrigation systems, drainage, construction of stock water reservoirs, and water spreading are particularly adapted to Klamath county. The application of sulphur to cropland is another practice which gained much favor. All practices offered during the year 1944 were widely used and contributed greatly toward conservation of soil and water resources.

DEVELOPMENT OF PORTLAND URGED

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12 (AP)—Development of Portland, Ore., as one of the great Pacific ports was urged today by Senator Morse (R-Ore).

Morse, who became familiar with Pacific coast shipping matters as arbitrator of maritime disputes while he was a member of the war labor board, described the port of Portland as "one of the finest."

"Its accessibility to the great industrial areas of the Pacific northwest and to the very productive hinterland of that area entitle it to equal consideration by the federal government with any Pacific coast port in the establishment of Pacific shipping routes and in the allocation of new freight ships," he said in a statement.

"I intend to see to it that some of our Washington officials are made more familiar with the great facilities of the port of Portland than they seem to be at the present time."

Price Okay, but Delivery Difficult

CHARLESTON, Ore., Feb. 12 (AP)—The price the Baptist church paid for 500,000 feet of lumber for a new building is all right, but it is delivery that's causing worry.

The lumber, for which the church paid 60 cents per thousand feet, is in the holds of the schooner George L. Olson, aground in Coos Bay since last June.

Plane Designer Foresees 1000 M.P.H. Air Speeds

BALTIMORE, Feb. 12 (AP)—One of America's leading plane designers predicted today that aircraft would travel 1000 to 1500 miles per hour "within the next 10 to 15 years."

"And 'in no crystal gazer,'" declared Peyton M. Magruder, of the Glenn L. Martin company, who designed the B-26 Marauder, medium bomber and helped put on paper such planes as the Martin Mars—the world's largest flying boat.

"What those aircraft will look like I don't know yet," he said in an interview, "by my aeronautics engineer will tell you the same thing about air speeds."

"For instance, the German V-2 goes much faster than 1500 miles an hour and travels 60 miles high. When the technical difficulties are licked—and they will be—that would prevent you from putting passengers in it and sending them off on a trip."

There was no question in Magruder's mind about means of propulsion—it will be either jet or rocket.

They are being held on open vagrancy and juvenile delinquency charges.

Five of the 21 originally taken into custody in the vicinities of Government camp, Brightwood, and Rhododendron were allowed to return to homes in Vancouver, Wash., he said, and most of the others are from Portland.

Mitchell said some of the youngsters told officers they had bought liquor from state stores. "We'll take that up with the state liquor commission," he declared.
