 of confinement to five years, in order to equalize the sentence in accordance with war department policy.

Issued Order
 "This recommendation has been acted on by the reviewing authority, who has issued a general court martial order promulgating Weber's sentence to dishonorable discharge, total forfeitures and confinement at hard labor for five years."

Weber specifically was charged with disobeying his superior officer's command to join his squad for training. Cramer said the soldier was given full opportunity to comply and was "aware of the serious nature of his actions."

"On a previous occasion," Cramer wrote, "he was tried by a special court martial for a similar offense and sentenced to confinement at hard labor for six months. After his release, he persisted in his refusal to submit to military discipline and the present trial resulted."
