STREET CONDITION REMEDY SUGGESTED

City Engineer E. A. Thomas appeared before city council Monday night to report that a section of Martin street, between Oak and Stukel, is in a very poor condition, and the situation that exists is causing a great deal of trouble to motorists. According to Thomas, a large amount of water has settled in the street for an area of 500 feet, and several people have complained to him of this condition. It was originally thought that the weather was the cause of the damage, but upon investigation, it was found that an underground flow of water was forcing itself through the surface of the ground at this point and settling there. Thomas feels that the pressure of several hot water wells that have been dug in this area may be possibly causing the trouble. He suggested the installation of a drain, with the cost amounting to approximately $450. The councilmen accepted his recommendation and proposed that the amount used for installation be taken from the state highway tax fund.
